Landon Pledges Security to Farmer

OUTLINES BROAD PLAN TO ASSURE ALL PROTECTION

Offers a Philosophy of Plenty.

The text of Gov. Landon's address will be found on Page 8.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

State Fair Grounds, Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Landon tonight met the challenge which the national farm problem offers to his presidential candidacy in the central states by presenting a definite program of protection of the family type farm in which security and independence are blended in conformity with the American tradition.

"I believe the American farmer should be a lord on his own farm," he said, taking issue directly with the President on the policy of permanent control of agriculture from Washington. It is a program of plenty as opposed to the New Deal scarcity and destruction of crops.

Stands on Platform.

The Republican nominee based his speech, which is admittedly critical to the course of his campaign, squarely on the Republican platform and pledged himself to the payment of cash benefits limited to the production level on the family type farm, to put the farmer on an equality with tarif protected industries. The standard of living of the farm family is to be made safe by guaranteeing an American price to the farmer whose crops have to be sold on a wild world market.

In working out the details of such legislation, the Republican nominee said he would call on the statesmanship of both parties and work with responsible farmers and farm leaders.

Gives Contrasting Picture.

Gov. Landon's appearance in Des Moines tonight was in sharp contrast with his recent visit in response to President Roosevelt's invitation to a drouth conference. On that occasion he was a silent participant in the other fellow's show; tonight he asserted his leadership.

Ever guided by the principle of individual independence and opportunity, he had carved out a concrete solution of the most vexing question in politics—he had waded through seas of conflicting advice to this shore as a realistic acceptance of conditions today.

Receives Warm Reception.

On his arrival in Des Moines aboard his special train earlier in the day Gov. Landon had been greeted by a tremendous ovation. The city had prepared for him as it did for President Roosevelt on Sept. 3. The same "welcome" signs decorated the streets, but political banners abounded everywhere in contrast to the appearance for the "nonpolitical" affair.

The governor was placed at the head of a huge parade in which there were many bands and floats depicting colorful campaign features. He stood in his automobile as he passed along the streets and waved to the cheering throngs.

Crowds estimated as high as 100,000 lined both sides of the street along the route to the hotel where Gov. Landon rested before making his speech.

Landon buttons predominated in the crowd. The throngs appeared to be very friendly and the scene approached a riot as the governor neared his hotel.

Promises Drouth Relief.

In his speech tonight the nominee promised that if he is elected he will fulfill all outstanding obligations made by the present administration with the farmer. Those who have carried out their end of the bargain will receive the checks due them, he said. He also promised the continuation of relief checks for the farmers hit by the drouth. This also means, he said, in the case of many farmers, seed loans and other necessary assistance in order that the farmer may get started again.

There will be no waste and no politics in such help, he declared, adding that the Republican party would not permit needless suffering in this

NEW COMET AND A NOVA WATCHED BY WORLD ASTRONOMERS

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Astronomers scanned the heavens tonight to follow the path of a newly discovered comet and observe a puzzling celestial phenomenon—a nova, or "new star."

Harvard university's astronomical observatory announced the discovery of both today, and advised they were far beyond the range of visual observation.

The nova—in the language of the layman an old star which for reasons not fully understood has flared into sudden brilliance—was gradually losing its brightness, Harvard astronomers said.

Prof. Cyril Jackson of the Union observatory, South Africa, found the comet, an object of 12th magnitude, in the constellation Aquarius, in the southern skies.

End Deadlock in Danish House by Draw from 'Hat'

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Government parties pulled a majority of the landsting seats out of a "hat" today. Elections a week ago left a deadlock for control of the landsting, upper house of the Danish parliament. It was settled when the government coalition drew the lucky slip from a 3,000 year old bronze-age urn and won 39 seats to 37.

Liquor Foes in No Man's Land Win Hot Battle

In the Turkish bath atmosphere of a stifling small store in No Man's Land, the strip of territory between Wilmette and Kenilworth, wealthy residents of the north shore and "liquor interests" of the sector last night argued heatedly the wet and dry issue for the disputed territory.

At the end of vituperative debate, marked by a near exchange of blows by two protagonists, the dry suburbanites announced victory. Their claim was met with doleful antipathy by the crowd of 150 persons who jammed the store and overflowed into the street.

Twelve café and roadstand owners are seeking to incorporate the district as a village so they may vote "wet" and thereby sell beer and liquor. Neighboring dry suburbs are strenuously opposed to the move. They favor continuation of the status quo or annexation by Wilmette.

23 Sign Incorporation Plea.

On the strength of a petition, signed by 23 residents of No Man's Land, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the County court has set Oct. 2 for a referendum on the incorporation question. Last night the "protect our home" group called the meeting, hopeful of persuading the signers to change their minds.

They succeeded in swinging nine persons to the dry side, the minimum necessary to invalidate the petition. Fifteen signatures are required by law. Today the suburban group will ask Judge Jarecki to call off the referendum.

In the heat of the affray last night with all the contestants stripped to their shirt sleeves because of the weather [presumably], Attorney A. A. Pantelis, representing the "wets," shouted this challenge:

"I'll take any of you gentlemen to two open saloons in dry Wilmette."

Nearly Come to Blows.

"I'll call that bluff," retorted Attorney Edward A. Zimmerman. The two men became so threatening in their gestures that others jumped in to prevent a fight. Eventually Mr. Pantelis withdrew his offer and Mr. Zimmerman apologized for his remarks.

"While we have been busy getting out voters to register," charged Paul C. Lang, president of the Wilmette Civic league, "this subversive effort of the saloon interests was made to

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

DRESDEN, Germany, Sept. 22.—Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, noted German surgeon, today issued a warning to the political régime to let science alone unless it wants to wreck it.

At the same time he warned the nation's Nazi youth that it had better get along without an ideology for the time being and wait until it is mature enough to form opinions about fundamental questions.

Speaking before the annual congress of German medical men and natural scientists, Dr. Sauerbruch said:

"We find ourselves today confronting great problems. Think alone of the Fuehrer's four year plan. This duty that we have been called on to perform is a question of honor and confidence. Science will fulfill what is demanded of it on condition that it retain its freedom and independence in its work. Liberty remains an essential characteristic of science, and spiritual and intellectual freedom is a necessity for scientists."

AUTUMN HERE TODAY BUT NOT FALL WEATHER

Summer was ushered out officially yesterday amid hot winds from the southwest that sent the mercury to 88 degrees at 3:30 p. m., within two degrees of the all time high record for the day, established in 1895. The normal maximum for Sept. 22 is only 72 degrees, the mean 64.

To astronomers, autumn begins at 12:26 o'clock this morning, but to J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster, this is just another summery day. He predicted that the wind would remain in the southwest, and that the temperature might surpass the record high reading of 88 degrees for Sept. 23.

The highest early autumn temperature ever recorded in the weather bureau here was 90.8 degrees on Sept. 24, 1895.

FATHER AGREES TO OPERATION; ENDS SUSPENSE

A dramatic last minute agreement by the young parents of a 5 day old malformed baby enabled surgeons yesterday to perform an operation designed to save the infant's life and correct an intestinal abnormality. Last night the surgeons, who did their task in the Danish-American hospital at 1615 North Kostner avenue, said they believed the child had an excellent chance of growing to normal manhood.

Julian Tafel Jr. is the central figure in this baby case. Since his birth last Thursday morning his father, a garage mechanic living at 5012 Sunnyside avenue, had opposed the operation. The child's mother, Eva, wanted it performed as the only means of saving her son's life.

First View of Father.

Tafel believed the boy might be an invalid all his life, a burden to himself and to his parents. Rather than have this happen, Tafel's position was that nature should take its course, which meant death by starvation.

Yesterday afternoon, however, he changed his mind after conferring with his parish priest and other friends. Tafel told his wife of his altered decision. But her determination had weakened by this time and she had swung to her husband's original view.

At this juncture, with the rôles of the parents reversed, a healthy 4 year old boy who had undergone successfully an identical operation, was brought into Mrs. Tafel's room at the hospital. Overjoyed at this evidence that their son, too, might be normal, they agreed to the operation.

Little Patient Grows Weaker.

The situation involved many other dramatic elements, both natural and otherwise. During the day, as photographers swarmed about the baby's crib in a hospital room, the child grew weaker.

By the time the baby was taken into the operating room, attended by doctors, nurses and photographers, his temperature had dropped from 103 degrees to 98 degrees, more than half a degree below normal. His condition was so weakened that physicians injected a salt solution before beginning to operate. Then, in their operating gowns, they obligingly posed for photographers.

The operation lasted 17 minutes. It was performed by Drs. Lewis K. Eastman, Marco F. Petrone, William Lloyd Kenny, and Elmer Hancock. Dr. Eastman is chief of the hospital staf.

Purpose of the Operation.

The doctors described their work yesterday as a life saving operation. The child lacks an intestinal outlet. He has been fed only enough food to keep life in his body, because elimination of waste has been impossible.

In most cases of this type, which are not uncommon, a simple operation restores the normal opening. Little Julian's case, however, Dr. Eastman said, is complicated by a misplaced colon [lower intestine].

Yesterday the surgeons made an incision in the left side and inserted a drain into a loop of the intestine, thus providing an artificial outlet. In two months, when the child is stronger, Dr. Eastman said, they will perform another operation to connect the end of the colon with the natural outlet.

Doctor Finds Complication.

Soon after the baby's birth on Thursday Dr. Eastman discovered the deformity. On Friday when he tried to perform the usual operation to correct this condition, known as an imperforate anus, he learned of the more serious colon complication.

"Completion of the operation then, to correct the obstruction, involved a certain amount of danger," Dr. Eastman said when asked why he did not perform all of the surgery then. "I felt that the parents should be informed of this danger.

"I told them that there was a fifty fifty chance the baby would live after the operation. Without the operation, of course, he would soon die. Even with the operation there was a possibility that the boy might have a physical handicap that would retard his development."

Tafel interpreted this to mean that his son would be a helpless invalid. Dr. Eastman said he had tried to explain to Tafel that this was only a possibility, but the father could not

Britain Lashes at Il Duce with Stern Warning

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Great Britain cracked down today on Premier Mussolini and his challenge to Mediterranean supremacy.

On the heels of Il Duce's diplomatic rebuff at Geneva, where the league of nations refused to expel former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, but gave him a chance to appeal to the world court, came another rebuff to the Italians.

It came from Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the British admiralty, who just returned from an inspection tour of new British military projects in the Mediterranean, on which Britain is pouring out millions of dollars.

In language which meant little less than that Britain is picking up the mailed glove challenge which Mussolini threw down a few months ago, Sir Samuel served a stern warning on the Italian dictator.

Scoffs at Italian Aviation.

"Great Britain," he said, "is determined to maintain in all circumstances and at all costs its position in the Mediterranean and to modernize and consolidate its naval, military, and air defenses between Gibraltar and the Suez canal in the light of recent experience."

Hoare, who lost his job as British foreign secretary some months ago because he offered to give Mussolini a good slice of Ethiopia if the duce would refrain from seizing it by waging war, made clear the belief and policy of the British admiralty on three points:

FIRST—Malta remains the first and principal base of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, strengthened to meet "conditions."

SECOND—The development of Italian air power has not endangered the British position in the Mediterranean.

THIRD—Work on Cyprus as a military, naval, and air base is being hurried so that it will be a complement to Malta.

Not a Threat, He Says.

"So far from there being any question of our vacating our position in the Mediterranean or scuttling from Malta we intend to face these difficult problems and make our position quite secure for the future," Hoare said.

"A statement of that kind is not a threat against anybody. It seems to me to be self-evident common sense that we should make our communications secure in the Mediterranean when it is remembered they are one of the vital highways of the British empire. It is no threat against any one at all.

"I say that because I see in the Italian press articles saying we should qualify our new Mediterranean policy, explain to other Mediterranean powers — the Italian and French — what our new Mediterranean policy is. A statement of that kind is made under complete misapprehension. We have no new Mediterranean policy.

Hopes for Italian Friendship.

"Our position today is exactly what it has always been—to live in the most friendly relations possible with all other Mediterranean powers and, second, to make secure our communi-

ALCAZAR UNDER HOT ATTACK AS RESCUE NEARS

Spanish Rebel Army Drives on Toledo.

BULLETIN.

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Fascist cadets defending the ruined Alcazar barracks at Toledo were promised relief "within 48 hours" in a radio broadcast from insurgent headquarters at Seville tonight.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 22.—With little time to spare loyal forces at Toledo are storming their way into the beleaguered Alcazar.

The rebels, who have flogged their way through Estremadura, leaving a trail of blood and ruin behind them, are fifteen miles away at Torrijos. The government line was consolidated tonight in an attempt to stop the final rebel drive to rescue the cadets, their women and children who have been besieged in Alcazar for 63 days.

Francisco Largo Caballero, prime minister, gave orders this afternoon to storm the Alcazar at all costs. Volunteers to throw away their lives—because it was certain scores would die in any rush—were called for. Two hundred answered immediately in Toledo. Five hundred picked men arrived tonight from Madrid to join in the assault.

Scale Walls of Fortress.

Today's charge was the most successful to date. After three hours of intensive artillery preparation militiamen stormed the great fortress above them. In two hours they had wiped out rebel machine gun nests in the charred ruins of the military governor's palace, scaled the Alcazar and reached the stables.

A second party from the Plaza de Zocodover scrambled through the ruins across the square and up through the garden, heaving hand grenades as they went.

Tonight the rebels, those left of them, were confined to the upper and lower cellars of the eastern wing. During the earlier part of the day they put up a lively fire with machine guns, grenades, and trench mortars. At 8 o'clock tonight their fire was weakening.

The rebels have hunger to suffer. Three planes circled low in the afternoon and dropped apparently messages, since the garrison's radio presumably was wrecked in the explosion of a mine last Friday. At dusk two new bombers, seen to be Junkers, droned over and dropped two 100 kilogram [220.46 pounds] bombs in the lower town.

Tribune Man Watches Charge.

I stood in the doorway of a hospital at Santa Cruz where a 75 millimeter gun had been firing pointblank at thirty yards into the military governor's building and saw assault guards charge into the ruins and force their way through into what were stables. They found sixty sacks of wheat and three mules. The assumption is that the other mules—scores of them—were eaten during the two month siege.

From the Plaza de Zocodover I saw others climbing through the garden wall of the lower cellars, behind which there are—what? Nobody knows how many have survived of the 1,500 rebels, women, and children who have withstood this epic siege. Two English correspondents, in their enthusiasm, followed their advance and only retired when a loyal grenade thrower missed his mark and a grenade exploded in their midst. In this same square an Argentine diplomat, playing tourist, was hit in the neck with a fragment of mortar shell.

Smash Resistance.

[Copyright: 1936. By the New York Times.]

TALAVERA DE LA REINA, Spain [by phone to Lisbon], Sept. 22.—A column of Gen. Francisco Franco's Fascist army tonight was sweeping toward Toledo to the relief of the rebel cadets, their women and children, besieged for sixty-three days in the Alcazar fortress. Another column was fighting government troops at Santa Cruz de Retamar, thirty-eight miles from Madrid.

After the capture yesterday of Maqueda, junction point of the highways to Madrid and Toledo, Moors and foreign legionnaires pushed southeast over the ten mile road to Torrijos.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Toledo reported the Fascists tonight

Bombs Wreck Vital Bridge.

At Maqueda the Fascists had smashed the backbone of the government forces and began cutting Madrid's communications with the south. Rebel planes this morning bombed and wrecked the five arch railway bridge over the Guadarrama river at Bargas. The town, north of Toledo, is forty miles from Madrid and fourteen from Torrijos on the main line of the railway connecting the capital with western Spain.

Further details of the victory at Maqueda show that Gen. Franco's army smashed more than 30,000 government troops, largely by means of airplanes that flew at a height of 90 feet and used machine guns on the leftist columns and positions.

Gen. Franco had moved his troops around both sides of Maqueda, surrounding the triangular salient behind the town, and as the airplanes went into action following several days of heavy artillery bombardment, he threw the brown clad foreign legion and Moors straight against the cliff in front of the objective. After two hours of bitter fighting they burst into Maqueda and cleaned out the town.

[A dispatch reaching Paris said 900 loyalists were killed in the defense of Maqueda.]

New Rebel Forces Arrive.

Rebel reinforcements, already beginning to arrive from the north, are to be pushed on to Aranjuez, whose lovely gardens have welcomed many Spanish kings. By so doing the rebels hope to cut all the main rail lines and highways south of Madrid and partly isolate the capital.

These picked troops of Gen. Franco, under the command of Gen. Juan Yague in the field, have advanced 210 miles in the last four weeks since they left Badajoz for the drive east toward Madrid. They have had to fight over every mile of territory, harried by snipers and meeting heavy fighting in the villages.

At many points, leftist artillery, armored cars, trains, and airplanes held up the insurgents several days, as at Talavera, but their losses—owing to excellent discipline and careful fighting—are said to have been light, as compared with those of the Madrid forces, who are said to have lost between 4,000 and 5,000.

Make Stand at Santa Cruz.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

SANTA CRUZ DE RETAMAR, Spain, Sept. 22.—A motley Spanish government army held desperately to its position here tonight after three days of savage and bloody fighting—the most severe Fascist attack of the Spanish civil war—in which important Santa Olalla and Maqueda were yielded to Fascist insurgents.

Yesterday a further government retreat was made to this windswept village. Here the Madrid troops stemmed their rout for the time being and took up positions on an elevated field just outside the town.

For over thirty-six hours column after column of Moors and legionnaires fighting for the Fascists were hurled against the defenders here in vain attempt to continue their march.

Madrid Calls for New Recruits.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

MADRID, Sept. 22.—The Spanish government broadcast an urgent call tonight to "every man able to carry a gun or help build defenses" in an effort to stem the Fascist advance toward the capital.

Further details of the "Italian dictatorship" which Spaniards claim has been established on the Spanish island of Mallorca were published in the Madrid newspaper La Voz today. The dictatorship, it is charged, was set up after the arrival of 11 seaplanes commanded by the Italian Lieut. Rossini.

"Mallorca has actually been made an Italian colony," the newspaper asserted.

Shortly after the arrival of government troops from Barcelona, the paper declared, insular officials made a hurried departure. Then followed an exchange of messages between the island authorities, Gen. Francisco Franco, commander in chief of the Fascist insurgents, and Juan March, Spanish millionaire whom the government has charged with financing the rebellion against the Madrid government, La Voz said.

Gen. Franco at once communicated with Italian officials [the paper did not say whom or of what importance] and 12 hours later the first Italian seaplane arrived at Palma, the island's principal city, the newspaper added.

URUGUAY BREAKS OFF WITH SPAIN; 3 CITIZENS SLAIN

Closes Madrid Legation; Recalls Minister.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Uruguay tonight broke off diplomatic relations with the Spanish government because of the reported executions of three sisters of a Uruguayan diplomat in Madrid.

Those reported killed were Dolores, Consuelo, and Maria Aguiar, sisters of Montevideo's honorary vice consul in Madrid. Reports to the Uruguayan capital said that the sisters, missing for eight days, were found shot to death. They had been executed by Spanish militia, the Uruguay reports charged.

The severance of relations between the two Spanish-speaking countries followed a cabinet meeting in which the killings were reported. It was said by government sources the cabinet had made its decision because it believed the Madrid government had not demonstrated it could control the actions of its militia.

Closes Legation.

It also was announced: "The legation of the republic in Madrid is closed and Uruguayan diplomatic representation has been retired from Spain. The Argentine government is requested to attend to the rights and interests of Uruguayan citizens in Spain.

"The league of nations is to be advised of the present decree."

Uruguay, besides its legation at Madrid, is represented in Spain by consulates at Barcelona, Cadiz, Corunna, Madrid, Valencia, and Vigo.

Since the outbreak of the Spanish civil war not only Uruguay but also Brazil and Argentina have been closely inspecting ships arriving from Spain to prevent entry of extremist refugees.

Action Taken Quickly.

Argentina several times has sent Madrid protests resulting from the deaths of Argentine nationals, but the deaths of the Aguiar sisters constituted the first serious incident affecting any South American government. The severance of relations came just 24 hours after first reports of the deaths were received.

Today's decision was the second time within the year that Uruguay has severed relations with a foreign nation.

The Russian minister in Montevideo was handed his passports earlier in the year, and the Uruguayan envoy was recalled from Moscow. The reason made public at the time was that the soviet legation in Montevideo had been allowed to become a center of communist propaganda in South America.

Protest Slaying of Duke.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The island Christopher Columbus discovered in 1492 sent a sharp protest to Spain today over the killing of the duke of Veragua, lineal descendant of the discoverer.

The protest was made by President Rafael Trujillo, for whom this city, formerly Santo Domingo, recently was named. Santo Domingo, the oldest city in the Americas to be built by Europeans, was founded by Columbus' brother, Bartholome, in 1496.

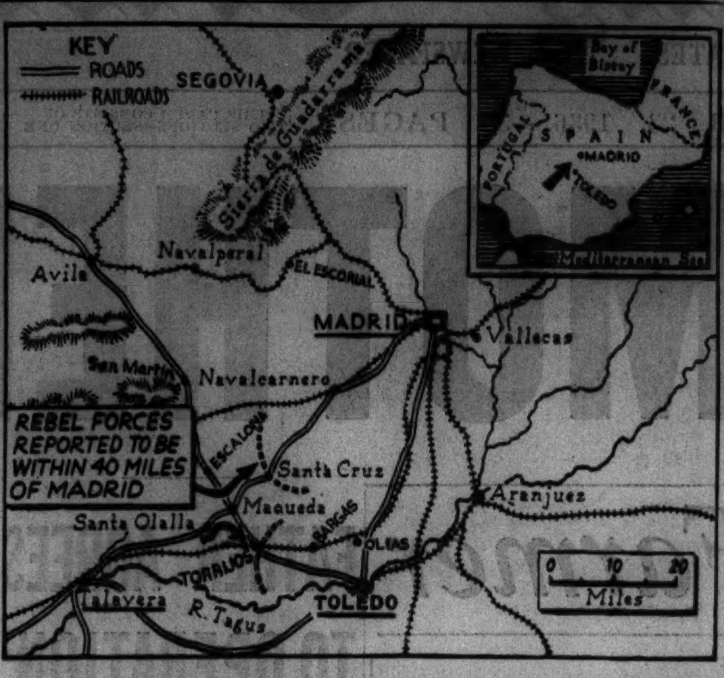
Trujillo instructed his minister to Madrid to protest "energetically." Previously he had asked for the release of the duke and had invited him to live in the Dominican republic. The duke of Veragua's bullet pierced body was found near that of his half brother recently in southern Spain.

PLEADS FOR 4,000 HELD PRISONERS IN BILBAO SHIPS

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

BILBAO, Spain [by warship to Saint Jean De Luz, France], Sept. 22.—Bishop Mathieu of Dax, France, today appealed personally for the lives and relief of the 4,000 hostages held by the Spanish Socialist government in ships and prisons here. The prelate came to Bilbao aboard the French warship Aisne.

DRIVE TO RELIEF OF ALCAZAR REBELS



Dotted lines show positions where government troops made stands yesterday against Fascist columns (arrows) driving toward Madrid and Toledo. Rebels are said to have taken Torrijos and speeded their drive to relieve besieged comrades in Alcazar fortress at Toledo. Rebel bombing planes wrecked an important railway bridge at Bargas.

cations across one of the great imperial highways.

"We hope that in the future we shall be in the best possible relations with all Mediterranean powers, including Italy, but that does not absolve us from making our own communications as safe as we possibly can."

Hoare's statement was inspired, as he himself indicated, by charges in the Italian press that Great Britain is attempting to "encircle" Italy through the recent diplomatic vacation of King Edward VIII. of England and the strengthening of the Mediterranean defenses which Hoare has been inspecting. The Italians are not the only persons suspecting that the huge reinforcements recently sent to Palestine might have more reasons behind them than the policing of the Holy Land.

Britain Eyes Press Gibes.

The Italian press is most critical of British policies. The fortification of the Island of Cyprus and the abolition of Italian as one of the official languages of Malta are among the points which have annoyed Rome.

The press here has followed with interest the pointed gibes in the Italian press, such as the recent remark of the newspaper Tribuna in Rome that "it is not improbable that the next British cabinet meeting will be held in a nursing home, with the ministers wearing night caps and slippers.

This referred to the chickenpox of Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary; the fatigue of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, and the gout of Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. Tribuna's comment was headed, "A vigorous government," and concluded: "What an imperial government! What has happened?"

In view of the rigid government control of the Italian press, such verbal sniping is taken more seriously by observers here than if it originated in other countries where there is a free press.

Build Steel Mills in India.

Hoare's statement serves to emphasize the hectic preparations which the British are making to secure the defense of the Mediterranean communications in other ways. In India, for instance, industry is being developed so that iron and steel requirements may come from there as well as from England in case of conflict in the near east and the Red Sea.

Before long Indian steel mills, manned with native labor, will be operating as important heavy industries so that military operations in the near east would be close to potential supplies from the other side of Suez.

This reflects the attention also being paid to Italian designs in the Red Sea, where Mussolini is said to plan a base at Massaua, Eritrea, to challenge communication there.

As if to reinforce Hoare's statement, the admiralty tonight announced that the following ships of the Mediterranean fleet will carry out a short cruise in the eastern Mediterranean: The battleship Queen Elizabeth, the flagship of Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean; the battle cruiser Repulse, and the aircraft carrier Glorious. These ships will leave Malta tomorrow and will be accompanied to sea by the Galatea and the first destroyer flotilla. The Galatea and the destroyers will return to Malta after the exercises have been carried out.

ITALIAN TROOPS TO OPEN DRIVE TO 'MOP UP' REST OF ETHIOPIA

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Sept. 22.—An Italian expeditionary force is being actively organized at Addis Ababa to march on Gore, Ethiopia, as soon as the rains end in order to deprive Ethiopians of their last pretext for claiming an organized native government still exists in Haile Selassie's former empire capable of appointing delegates to the league of nations.

It is thought when the Italian flag is flying over what Ethiopian diehards consider their new capital the league will have no choice but to recognize that no organized Ethiopian government now exists.

Meanwhile, the Italian delegation, headed by Baron Pompe Aloisi, is still in readiness to take a train for Geneva in the hope a decision excluding Ethiopia from the assembly may be reached soon. It certainly will not start, however, as long as Ethiopian representatives continue to sit in the assembly.

'SACRED DUTY' TO GIVE SPAIN FUNDS, RUSSIANS TOLD

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The communist party command advised soviet workers today it was their "sacred duty" to contribute material and moral support for victims of the Spanish war.

After announcing 7,096,000 rubles [nominally $1,419,200] had been received, and a shipload of food sent, the party newspaper Pravda declared Spain's government defenders "know our hearts and souls are with them."

ETHIOPIANS WIN NEW VICTORIES IN LEAGUE BATTLING

World Court May Be Asked to Decide Row.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—The signs tonight point strongly to the Ethiopian delegation's retaining its seat through this league of nations' assembly meeting pending a decision by the world court on is credentials, and to the continued absence of the Italian delegation.

One outstanding sign is that the British delegation no longer is pushing secretly for the exclusion of the Ethiopians and word is passing among the other delegations that Great Britain apparently no longer cares whether the Italians come.

In other words, the British seem to be in full retreat in the controversy with the smaller powers of the league and although the French have not yet renounced the campaign against Emperor Haile Selassie, he has reasonable hope now of winning the fight that on Saturday all deemed hopeless.

Italy Bolts Broadcast Parley.

Italy formally withdrew her delegation to the league conference here for peaceful broadcasting, which Germany and Japan had previously refused to attend. She gave no reasons, but everywhere the move was taken to show Rome's displeasure at the league proceedings thus far. It is generally considered to foreshadow Italy's absence from this entire assembly session.

Subject to a ruling by a group of jurists, the assembly's credentials committee decided in favor of asking the world court for an advisory opinion as to whether Haile Selassie is still entitled to Ethiopian credentials. It also asked the jurists—each nation on the committee supplying one—to advise it as to whether, pending the court's decision, the Ethiopian delegation should be excluded from the assembly.

Wrangle All Afternoon.

The jurists wrangled all afternoon. It is understood they decided to recommend in favor of asking the world court's advice, but refused to recommend the Ethiopians' exclusion meanwhile, several jurists being definitly in favor of seating them. The credentials committee will receive the report tomorrow morning.

Haile Selassie sent a note to the committee today demanding a hearing and also demanding to know just who it was that contested his right to issue credentials.

This same question was raised in the committee by its New Zealand member. No one answered, though all eyes were centered on the British and the French. Maxim Litvinov, the soviet foreign commissar, then joined the New Zealand member by saying that they did not know what they were there for if no one contested the emperor's title.

Litvinov Hits Italy.

Litvinov took a strong stand against the scheme to exclude the Ethiopians so as to get Italy back. He went so far as to tell the committee that they were being asked to do this because Italy's presence in the assembly was judged essential, but that he himself did not deem Italy's presence necessary.

Litvinov, it is understood, is furious with the French government, believing that Paris, in trying to organize the Locarno meeting without Russia despite the Nazis' anti-Red Nuremberg speeches, is acting as if it had never signed a pact with Moscow.

Germany Opens Derelict Mines in 'Self-Sufficiency' Campaign

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—The first instructions were transmitted by the German ministry of economics today to prepare the four year plan "to restore German economic self-sufficiency" announced recently by Reichsfuehrer Hitler at the Nazi party caucus in Nurnberg. The instructions indicated that the economic experts have come to the conclusion it will be impossible for them to create substitutes for metal ores, including copper, tin, lead and nickel.

Instructions were issued to dig for every scrap of metal ore in old derelict mines abandoned years ago because they were unproductive. Modern methods will help the miners break out tiny fractions of the metal ores that Germany industry needs.

Employ 19,000 Workers.

Nineteen thousand workers are to engage in the hard job of trying to secure ore from these derelict mines under the new plan. These mines include seventeen lead and zinc mines, four copper mines, three iron pyrites mines, one nickel mine, one quicksilver mine and three magnesite mines.

German economists are more hopeful of the chances to establish the country's self-sufficiency in the textile line. New plants will be started to manufacture "cellulose wool" out of wood, synthetic rubber, and gasoline. Premiums are promised farmers for growing hemp and flax to revive the German linen industry.

Machine manufacturers have been hard hit by the shortage of metal. They have been instructed to increase the use of aluminum alloys in their manufacture and to cut the use of lead down to 10 per cent of what they formerly used.

Draft Sabotage Laws.

"Skilled German engineers should make it profitable to use more porcelain, wood and synthetic rubber in the manufacture of machinery," government advisers said.

While engineers are trying to establish the government's self-sufficiency plan, the ministry of justice is putting the finishing touches on new legislation calling for drastic punishment of "persons sabotaging the four year plan of self-sufficiency."

If the drafts being discussed are enforced, sentences of not less than five years' imprisonment will be inflicted for "economic sabotage."

MADRID CITIZENS WAIT HOURS TO BUY MEAT; EGGS SOLD 2 AT TIME

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Sept. 18 [By courier to Paris, uncensored.]—The Madrid food shortage is serious. There is little or no meat in the markets. To obtain even a small piece of ordinary beef one must stand in line four or five hours.

There have been virtually no eggs in the city for more than a fortnight, but some days ago a few crates arrived and were distributed at the city's stores. Only two eggs were sold to each customer, and to get them people waited in line five hours.

Madrid has been a month without sugar, butter, dried fish, smoked meat, bacon, sausage, and canned meat. Grocery stores are rapidly exhausting their supplies of canned foods. The milk is of very inferior quality, and at that it is scarce, only a pint being allowed to each family.

CLAIM ITALIAN CONSUL FIRED ON IN BARCELONA

ROME, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A dispatch from Barcelona, Spain, today said Carlo Bossi, Italian consul general there, had been fired upon. The consul's automobile was stopped by communists while he was driving through the city, the report said, and he and the machine were searched. The advices said Bossi was shot at before he was ordered to stop. He filed a protest with the Catalonian autonomous government, the report said.

Portugal Dismisses Two Officers of Mutinous Crew

LISBON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Two ringleaders of the frustrated mutiny in the Portuguese navy Sept. 8, were disciplined today. Capt. Oscar Carvalho, commander of the warship Alfonso d'Albuquerque, was relieved of his command and transferred to the naval reserves. Second Lieutenant Jorge Fernandes was expelled from the service.

COUNTY FRAUDS LAID TO FAILURE TO ENFORCE LAW

Rees Finds Judges Could Be Helpful.

Enforcement of existing legislation governing the handling of public and court funds combined with coöperative action by county judges would go a long way toward eliminating embezzlement of funds held by county officials, John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures, declared yesterday. He expressed the belief that no new laws are needed to insure proper handling of public money.

During the last two years 20 persons, including two county officials, eight lesser employés of the county and ten private individuals have made way with county funds totaling $680,000. The latest case is that of Frank V. Zintak, who is under indictment on a charge of taking $22,500 before he was ousted as clerk of the Superior court last week.

Charges State Law Ignored.

Rees asserted the frequent defalcations have been made possible by the failure of officials to comply with a state law, and through the indifference of judges toward insuring proper handling of public and court funds. As a result, he said, county officials have been allowed to hold large sums without adequate safeguards.

Although a law was passed by the Illinois legislature more than fifteen months ago requiring public officials to deposit all funds with the county treasurer each month, apparently no notice has been taken of the statute by county officials, Rees declared.

The same law requires that the funds are to be paid out only by draft or check signed by the treasurer and countersigned by the proper official. Intentional or habitual violation of the statue is made a felony.

Flynn Says Money Refused.

No satisfactory explanation of why the law has not been complied with has been given. The law was adopted following the Robert M. Sweitzer shortage of more than half a million dollars in the county clerk's office. Asked yesterday if he had complied with the law and deposited redemption fund money with County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn said he had offered to place the money with Gill, but the treasurer told him he would not be able to handle it as a special department would have to be set up.

Flynn added that Hayden Bell, assistant state's attorney, had advised him that it would not be necessary to deposit the money with Gill as Flynn was not handling the fund in the way Sweitzer had.

Judges Empowered to Act.

"Regardless of the failure to comply with this particular statute," Rees said, "the judges have the power and responsiblity to set up proper conditions for deposit and disbursement of money paid in to court custody. They should require that officials cannot pay out the funds without the countersignature of an independent county auditing official.

"Apparently a considerable number of public officials do not realize that these periodic embezzlements give the general public the impression that a considerable portion of public money is stolen as soon as it is paid in by the people."

Continue Zintak Probe.

Investigation of the public and private accounts of Zintak was continued yesterday both by the grand jury and prosecutors who delved into the escrow records of the clerk's office.

Two witnesses were questioned for several hours by the grand jury. They were John B. Brenza, president, and Anton J. Valonis, a teller, of the Metropolitan State bank, in which Zintak kept the personal account he closed the morning his shortage was made public.

In the clerk's office in the county building, auditors were examining all the escrow funds in Zintak's former custody, of which 400 were "live" and 700 "dead"—closed out while Zintak was in office.

Lee Howard, county auditor, said registered letters had been sent to all litigants in escrow funds of both "live" and "dead" classifications. Seventy per cent of the letters have been answered, Howard said, without any irregularity being discovered.

Zintak, who is at liberty on bond, will be arraigned Tuesday before Judge Robert C. O'Connell.

AUTO THAT CAN FLY IS DEMONSTRATED TO U. S. OFFICIALS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—An automobile of the autogiro type, equipped with three wheels and capable of 100 miles an hour flying speed, was demonstrated today at Pitcairn field, near Willow Grove, for department of commerce officials.

The unusual craft weighs only 800 pounds and will carry two passengers. The engine is carried under the seat.

In leaving the road the folded wings suddenly spread out, the power is transferred from rear wheel to propeller, and the machine rises into the air.

John H. Geish of the department of commerce said the craft "offers unusual possibilities and facilities" through an ability to land on a very small field and carry passengers along the road "as easily and as comfortably as an automobile."

GAS OVERCOMES MOTORIST, RAPT IN BROADCAST

John Betz, 36 years old, 8518 Rhodes avenue, drove into the garage at the rear of his home last night just as the Joe Louis-Ettore fight was starting. Betz turned on his automobile radio to listen.

He became so interested that he did not notice that his wife and three children shut the garage door as they left. Also he forgot to turn off his ignition. Half an hour later, his wife, Isabelle, returned to the garage to find what was delaying her husband.

She found him unconscious at the wheel, overcome by exhaust fumes. Firemen under Capt. Michael Murphy of rescue squad 5 revived Betz after 45 minutes' work. He was taken to the Woodlawn hospital in a serious condition.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 23 [Wednesday].—Erle R. Dickover, the United States charge d'affaires here, was severely but not dangerously wounded early today by a Japanese burglar. The burglar entered the Dickover home at 5 a. m. by climbing a tree. He descended to the drawing room and forced open a cabinet containing a phonograph, and then returned upstairs and entered Mrs. Dickover's bedroom. Mr. Dickover rushed to her assistance and grappled with the burglar, who drew a dagger, slashed Mr. Dickover's left upper arm, and then escaped.

DISCLOSE BAILIF FIRED BY SHERIF HAS A NEW JOB

Green Bobs Up in Court of Judge Smith.

It was disclosed yesterday that Judge Cecil C. Smith of the Municipal court has on his courtroom staf a bailif who recently was discharged by the sherif's office after an attempted escape of prisoners from the Criminal court building.

On Sept. 13 Judge Smith released on an unsecured bond Louis Swinberg, a thief with a string of aliases and a long police record.

The fired and rehired bailif is Louis Green. He and two colleagues were discharged as bailifs on Aug. 3 by Sherif John Toman as a result of the attempted escape in the Criminal court building of the three slayers of Policeman Jerome McCauley.

Horan Admits Hiring Green.

Inquiry disclosed that both Green and Edward Wing, also fired as a result of the Criminal court building break, are now in the employ of A. J. Horan, bailif of the Municipal court.

"Sure I hired Green," said Horan. "I've got Wing working for me, too. I'll always take a good man wherever I can find him."

On July 30 Frank Korczykowski and Andrew Bogacki, later sentenced to death for the murder of Policeman McCauley, and Paul Jenkot, sentenced to 199 years imprisonment for the same crime, were escorted into an elevator in the Criminal court building by Wing and Bailif Edward C. Tierney.

Green Opens the Door.

The killers overpowered the guards and took possession of the elevator. On the seventh floor of the building Green, at the bidding of the captive Tierney, opened the elevator door from the outside and the three prisoners escaped. They were captured a few minutes later. After an investigation, the sherif fired the three bailifs.

Horan said that neither Green nor Wing is allowed to handle prisoners in the Municipal court. They are assigned to service of civil writs. Green, however, was engaged yesterday in maintaining order in Judge Smith's courtroom in the city hall, a civil branch of the Municipal court.

Case of Swinberg Recalled.

Swinberg, the thief whose aliases includes the names Swenberg, Swanberg, and Weinberg, was arrested in a loop chase on Sept. 11 after taking a woman's purse. After his release by Judge Smith on the unsecured bond, he failed to appear for arraignment in the Felony court on Sept. 15. Since then he has been sought.

Judge Smith said he was asked to sign the bond by "Big Boy" Kennedy, whom he identified as "one of the boys" in the 11th ward. The bond was presented by Ben Barof, who like Swinberg, has a police record.

Later it was suspected that "Big Boy" might be William Cannady, 3130 South Union avenue, a former policeman. The judge, who last Saturday was not certain that it was Cannady who asked him to sign the bond, said yesterday he was certain that it was.

"Big Boy" the Sleuth.

"Have you called Cannady into court, or do you know where to reach him?" Judge Smith was asked.

"Certainly I know where to reach him," the judge retorted. "He's at 3130 South Union avenue. But he caught Barof and now he's trying to find Swinberg, and I think he can be more help to us that way."

SIXTY GERMAN TANKS ATTACK AND DEFEAT 'FOE' IN SHAM WAR

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—The battle of Cambrai in 1917, in which British tanks, making their world war debut, surprised the Germans and inflicted a severe defeat on them, was reenacted in the German field maneuvers today with similar results.

About sixty heavy tanks of the "red" forces burst suddenly from the fog covering the battlefield and, defying difficult terrain and heavy fire, roared irresistibly into the opposing "blue" lines. They advanced in waves and wide formations, offering as difficult a target as possible, and tore so large a hole in the defending lines that they were credited with at least a local victory, which the "red" infantry is now trying to exploit. Only three or four tanks were adjudged crippled by the opposing fire of the muddy meadow.

The tank attack occurred under the eyes of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and foreign military attachés near Bad Neuheim. According to the scheme for the maneuvers, which seek to stimulate as closely as possible actual war conditions, neither side knows the other's strength, plans or movements, but must ascertain these through its own observation. Even the press has been put under a "wartime" censorship.

ORDER CHILDREN TO SUPPORT AGED MOTHER IN HOME

Four children of Mrs. Eva Morzuch, 80 years old, who was abandoned Sept. 12 on the doorstep of St. Joseph's Old People's home, 2650 North Ridgeway avenue, were ordered yesterday by Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, Ill., sitting in the Cook county court, to pay $24 of the $30 a month required to support her at the home. Three other children are to appear before Judge Isley next Tuesday. A daughter, Mrs. Martha Kunze, 2202 North Major avenue, said her mother was sent by a sister-in-law on Sept. 7 to live with her and her husband, who is unemployed. Her mother, she said, cried constantly, and said she wanted to live in an institution, so they took her to St. Joseph's home.

10 TON GERMAN PLANE HOPS FOR AZORES AT N. Y.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A 10 ton German flying boat, the Æolus, was catapulted into the air at 3 p. m. today to begin a trip to the Azores and thus continue experimental flying preliminary to proposed inauguration of regular trans-Atlantic mail and express service.

The big Diesel powered ship was hurled from the deck of the mothership, Schwabenland, which is scheduled to sail tonight for the Azores. The Æolus took to the air off City Island.

Earlier, the Schwabenland catapulted a sister ship of the Æolus, the Zephyr, into the air for a 20 minute demonstration flight about New York. The Zephyr is scheduled to take off tomorrow on a return flight to the Azores, via Bermuda.

understand this point and until yesterday insisted that the child be allowed to die.

His wife took the position that any chance of saving the baby's life was worth while. She pleaded with her husband to change his mind.

Dr. Eastman sought legal advice. He said he was first told that the consent of both parents was necessary for the operation. Later he was told the agreement of only one was enough. Yesterday, Dr. Eastman said, he learned of a legal decision which held it to be the physician's duty to operate without consent of either parent if a life is at stake.

Unable to Reach Agreement.

Meanwhile the mother and father were unable to reach an agreement as their baby grew weaker.

"I thought it was unfair to take a chance which might make the boy practically a helpless cripple," explained Tafel. "I thougnt he, too, would probably wish we had agreed to a mercy death when he grew up an invalid.

"Then there is my financial condition. I only have a part time job. We owe the doctors $100 yet for our first baby, Cornelia." [She is 2½ years old and entirely normal in every respect.]

Dr. Eastman declared last night that the operation would not cost the family a cent. He realized their predicament, he said, and was willing to do all he could under the circumstances.

Viewpoint of the Mother.

Mrs. Tafel explained her view of the situation. She wanted the operation, regardless of the outcome.

"His father has seen the baby only once, except when he looked at him through the glass in the nursery," she declared. "To me, though, he is more than a personality—he is everything. Every time they thought he was going to die, they brought him to me. Sometimes I had him for as much as six or seven hours.

"We wanted a boy so much. And now that we have him it seemed only right to do everything possible to save him."

In an atmosphere of uncertainty the drama came to its climax yesterday. Baby Julian was being cared for by a nurse, Martha Moldenhauer, hastily engaged the night before. Despite her long hours of duty the nurse posed smilingly with the baby for photographers.

Father Gives His Consent.

Mrs. Tafel, in a pretty new pink nightgown, chatted affably with reporters in her hospital room, which was decorated with bouquets of flowers. Her husband, however, was missing until early in the afternoon, when he arrived in an automobile driven by Mrs. Eastman.

"Eva, I've decided to let them go ahead with the operation," he said as soon as he entered his wife's room. "I still don't think it's right to give the boy a chance of becoming a cripple, but I'm resigned to it now."

"But I've just decided that you were right," replied Mrs. Tafel. "It does seem too cruel, although I love our baby with all my heart."

The Decision Is Made.

There came a tapping on the door. Dr. Eastman opened it. On the threshold stood Mrs. Alice Lefler of 4302 Blanchan avenue, Brookfield. With her was her son, Richard, 4 years old, a strong, smiling boy.

"I just heard about the Tafel baby," Mrs. Lefler explained, "and I wanted to urge them to go ahead with the operation. My boy had exactly the same thing wrong with him. They operated and now he's perfectly normal."

Mrs. Tafel turned to her husband. They smiled with renewed hope. Then they gave the word to Dr. Eastman to start the operation.

REVEAL SUCCESSFUL DELIVERY OF BABY IN RARE MEDICAL CASE

Newark, N. J., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Successful delivery by Cæsarean operation in a highly unusual medical phenomenon, an abdominal pregnancy, was performed today by the authorities of Columbus hospital here.

The operation was performed Sept. 14, but was not revealed pending the outcome of the treatment of the mother, who was near death for three days. She is now recovering, and the baby, a girl, was well from birth, though she still is kept in an incubator.

Physicians said the case involved gestration outside the reproductive system, and that they knew of no definite explanation for it. The child lay transversely within the placenta, which adhered to a part of the large intestine and to the lining of the peritoneum. They said there were only 236 such cases known in medical history, and that in 80 per cent of these the child died, and in 25 per cent the mother died.

The mother is Mrs. Marie Guarino, 28, of Newark, wife of G. M. Guarino, a pharmacist.

TWO EVANSTON ROBBERS CRASH IN VICTIM'S CAR

William A. Duncan, 30 years old, and Miss Laura Lea Monahan, 25, both of 1414 Pratt boulevard, were seated in Duncan's car at Kolmar avenue and Grove street in Niles Center last night when two gunmen appeared from the darkness. The bandits robbed Duncan of $23 and his watch and ring, and Miss Monahan of $2 and a ring, then sped south in Duncan's car.

Duncan telephoned the Niles Center police, who broadcast a radio alarm. It was intercepted by Policeman Chris Lindhoy, riding in a Niles Center squad car, and Policeman Frank Swanson in a Morton Grove squad car.

Swanson came upon Duncan's car wrecked in a ditch at Kolmar avenue and Church street. The two occupants of the car were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston. One identified himself as Marshall Wrneski, 18 years old, 1006 Dewey avenue, Evanston, and his companion, who incurred a possible fracture of the skull, as Henry Fritsch, 21 years old, 1121 Dodge avenue, Evanston. The loot was found in their pockets.

Carleton Morehouse Sued by Wife for Separation

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Morehouse, 702 North Sheridan road, Waukegan, filed suit for separate maintenance on the ground of desertion yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan against Carleton G. Morehouse, an insurance broker. Mrs. Morehouse is the daughter of William I. Lyon, wealthy real estate dealer. She asks custody of her two small children.

RUTH B. ROHDE'S LEG BROKEN IN TRAILER MISHAP

Thrown to Ground by Runaway Vehicle.

Washington, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, daughter of William Jennings Bryan and former United States minister to Denmark, was in a Daviess county hospital today suffering from a broken leg she received last night in an accident with her trailer following a campaign rally here.

Mrs. Rohde and her husband, Capt. Boerge Rohde, an officer in the Danish royal guard, have been making a campaign tour in the trailer outfit, addressing Democratic rallies.

They were preparing to retire for the night in the trailer parked in East Side park when the outfit suddenly started rolling. The emergency brake had been released in some manner and car and trailer were swiftly moving down hill toward a lake.

Both Mrs. Rohde and her husband leaped to the ground and ran beside the moving vehicles, endeavoring to stop their progress. Mrs. Rohde was injured when she was thrown to the ground while attempting to board the car so she could reset the emergency brake.

After Mrs. Rohde fell the vehicles continued down hill until they struck a tree on the bank of the lake. Capt. Rohde was not injured.

Drs. W. O. McKittrick and H. C. Wadsworth of Washington said the large bone in Mrs. Rohde's left leg was broken just below the knee. They said she would have to cancel the remainder of her speaking engagements.

TWO SISTERS IN BRITISH 'MERCY' SLAYING FREED

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Two sisters, who killed the imbecile brother they had nursed day and night for 20 years and who were given a "mercy" sentence, were released today from the Broadmoor institution for the criminally insane.

The sisters, Catherine Walsh, 40, and Mrs. Evelyn Constance Alexander, 36, were found insane by a court, July 17, 1935. The verdict spared them from a prison term or death on the gallows. According to custom in such cases, they were sentenced "to be detained during the king's pleasure."

The sisters were charged with killing Sylvester Walsh "by administering gas and tablets." They admitted killing him, declaring they had done it to fulfill a promise to their mother and "for love of our brother."

G. A. R. REPEATS TRIUMPH MARCH OF 1865 TODAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Foremost figure in this capital tomorrow will be tall Capt. Henry Held, 90 year old chief of staf of the Grand Army of the Republic. He will send a proud remnant of the civil war army swinging once more down Pennsylvania avenue, where the boys in blue marched in triumph 71 years ago.

"Marched with Sherman clean to the sea, and from Atlanta clean to Washington—and never lost a step," he'll tell you.

The captain said the band had promised to play all the way through the parade tomorrow, and that he didn't expect many of the marchers to make use of autos which will be following to pick up the fatigued.

"Haven't you seen 'em start dancin' jigs when the music strikes up?" he asked. "They'll keep going while the excitement lasts. It's when they get home that they'll collapse."

They'll march about a mile, and then take grandstand seats to see some crack troops of the regular army strut their stuff.

WAR VETS STAGE ALL-DAY PARADE BEFORE 250,000

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—One of the largest crowds ever assembled in Cleveland turned out today to watch the American Legion stage its climactic event of the 18th annual convention—an all day parade of world war veterans who marched for hours upon hours to the music of bands and bugles.

From the time National Commander Ray Murphy stepped briskly down the street under a shower of confetti, torn paper, and colored streamers shortly after 10 a. m. [Chicago time], there was hardly a break in the bespangled procession.

Under a sunny sky the throng of gay marchers proceeded down Euclid avenue between solid banks of sightseers held in line by police and National Guardsmen. Down the city's main street the veterans went and then to the reviewing stand in Cleveland's lake front stadium.

Business, Trafic Are Halted.

Business in the downtown area was stopped by the mammoth demonstration. Most of the large stores closed. Vehicular trafic was stilled.

The huge crowd, estimated by Trafic Commissioner E. J. Donohue at between 250,000 and 300,000, spread along the line of march and perched from every vantage point. Many brought lunches. All who could sat on curbs. Crates and boxes to be used as seats sold for 50 cents.

The "ahs" of the crowd increased in length and intensity as the spectacle steadily unfolded. There seemed to be no end to the procession. When the early units were reaching the end of the trail in the stadium dozens of others were just getting into line on side streets.

"40 and 8" Celebrate All Night.

For many the parade meant almost forty-eight hours of continuous marching, since the "40 and 8" society's din filled demonstration, which started last evening, did not close until early this morning.

The Illinois delegation in today's parade took more than an hour to circle the stadium field. The Commonwealth Edison post of Chicago wore tropical sun helmets and uniforms of pale tan.

A "40 and 8" contingent from Illinois had a joyous time firing rubber balls from a toy cannon into the crowd. They also had a wagon full of "convicts" and some automobiles that seemed to move along on back fires.

Santa Claus Gets a Hand.

Shouts of "Merry Christmas" greeted the sleigh on wheels of the Santa Claus, Ind., post. Kansas marchers were vivid with yellow sunflowers denoting their state and Gov. Alf M. Landon's campaign for the presidency.

Iowa carried green cornstalks and threw them on the grass around the reviewing stand. There was a bagpipe unit in kilts, a lone Legionnaire from Alaska, and a lady in a straw skirt and bright blouse from Hawaii.

Jersey Veneal, the one man drum corp from Fox Lake, Ill., was a popular man along the line of march, as he somehow manipulated two drums, cymbals, and a bugle at the same time.

A somewhat discordant note was struck in the gay procedure when the Winterhaven, Fla., drum and bugle corps filed formal protest against a decision in a baton swinging contest which dethroned Priscilla Eveleth, 17, blonde beauty of the Florida city, as the Legion's national mascot.

Miss Eveleth won second in the contest, Ann Marie Chandler, 14 year old Buffalo, N. Y., girl, winning top honors this year.

Legion "politicians" were campaigning vigorously for their various candidates for next year's national commander. Harry W. Colmmery of Topeka, Kas., a lawyer, and Quimmby Melton of Griffin, Ga., editor, were the apparent favorites.

STUDY TWINS WHO ALWAYS SUFFER SAME AILMENTS

PATRICROFT, England, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Sympathetic twins—who suffer identical pains when only one of them is ill or injured—were under observation by British physicians today.

They are William and Thomas Stockie, 5 years old. Thomas is now in the Royal Manchester hospital where doctors are working to save his left eye, which was injured while playing. Shortly after the accident William's eye began to swell. At first doctors were puzzled as to why, but today William, recovering, said a playmate had flipped a matchstick in his eye.

Don't Poison Baby
Through Your Constipation
Nursing mothers must avoid constipation. Slow bowel movements allow poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood. This means tainted milk for baby.
Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they use and give their babies Nujol—the remedy medical authorities prescribe because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.
Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.
Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.
Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.
Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

CHARGE FALSE FIGURES GIVEN IN U. S. QUIZ

21 Witnesses Called by Sabath Committee.

Attorney Stephen Love, formerly chairman of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, appeared yesterday before the Sabath congressional committee to answer a charge that he had knowledge that false testimony was to be and was given before the committee. The attorney vigorously denied the charge and asked that a full hearing be granted.

The committee, headed by Congressman A. J. Sabath of Chicago, is investigating bondholders' committees, reorganizations, receiverships, and related subjects. It reopened hearings here yesterday and twenty-one persons were summoned to explain why they had refused or otherwise failed to give information to J. L. Tupy, investigator for the committee, while the committee was not in session.

Complains About Lawyers.

Mr. Tupy complained to the committee, which yesterday consisted of Congressmen Sabath and Everett M. Dirksen of Peoria, that many lawyers had interfered with the investigation by advising subpenaed witnesses not to answer or in other ways. Attorney Love was one of the persons subpenaed but his partner, Attorney Alexander Wolf, appeared in his place and explained that Attorney Love was busy elsewhere. [Attorney Love represents Frank V. Zintak, the ousted and indicted clerk of the Superior court.]

"Mr. Love has told our sworn witnesses to lie to us," Investigator Tupy declared.

An hour later Mr. Love dashed into the room in the United States courthouse where the committee was in session. When asked by Congressman Sabath if he was in a hurry to be heard he answered: "Certainly, I am in a hurry to be heard because my integrity has been assailed here."

Reads Clerk's Affidavit.

Investigator Tupy read to the committee an affidavit taken from Harold W. Gift, clerk at the Garfield Arms hotel, 3260 Maypole avenue, taken last Jan. 10. In the affidavit Gift told of appearing before the committee's investigators on Jan. 3 after being told by his employer, Samuel Leeds, in the presence of Attorney Love, what answers to give to certain questions to be asked him. He said he had, as a consequence, given false answers.

Mr. Tupy then read from the affidavit the following:

"Q.—Leeds was asking you, in the presence of his attorney, and with the consent of his attorney, to commit perjury? A.—Yes.

"Q.—You knew how much was taken in by the hotel? A.—Yes.

"Q.—Then you were asked to tell a deliberate lie? A.—Yes."

"I didn't represent Leeds in any of his negotiations for leases," Attorey Love told the committee. "He came to me after he and his employés were subpoenaed before the committee. If I instructed him or any one to give false information I ought to be incarcerated as a lunatic."

Seek to Uncover Fraud.

It was explained by Tupy that the purpose of questioning the employés of the Garfield Arms hotel was to determine whether a fraud had been practiced on the court which approved a lease on the hotel. The rental was said to have been based on the income of the hotel and according to Gift, the employés were asked to understate the amount of money taken in daily and the average number of rooms rented.

Congressman Sabath said Attorney Love would have an opportunity to cross-examine Gift and other witnesses, but no date was set for the next hearing. Congressman Sabath said Leeds had acquired leases on many hotels which are under the control of the federal courts, "and I am not prepared at this time to say how they were obtained." Tupy declared transients were accommodated at the Garfield Arms hotel and sometimes a single room was rented several times a day or night.

One Cited for Contempt.

One contempt citation was issued by the committee against Winfield M. McQueen, 1015 Loyola avenue, head of McQueen & Co., 2525 Milwaukee avenue. Under a recent law the contempt citation calls for trial before a federal district court judge if a grand jury finds sufficient evidence that the contempt was committed.

"We want to find out how the buildings he originally financed have fallen, each into his hands, with the bondholders left out entirely," said Tupy in explaining why McQueen was wanted as a witness. McQueen had evaded service for two years, Tupy said.

Quiz Trust Company Official.

Howard M. Jackson, vice president of the Metropolitan Trust company, 11 South La Salle street, was a witness in another case. Tupy declared that many attempts to get information from Barnett L. Rossett, president of the trust company, had failed and he could not be found by subpena servers. Mr. Jackson was advised to furnish all the information requested by the committee within ten days or a contempt citation would be issued.

Charles T. Rothermel, 69 West Washington street, secretary of a bondholders' protective committee representing 172 pieces of property, drew boos from the bondholders among the spectators when he said his salary was $1,000 a month. Congressman Sabath said he wanted to know how the committee obtained control of the buildings and Rothermel was given ten days to produce the information.

Two Companies: Same Owners.

The spectators also expressed disapproval of testimony given by Theodore C. Butz, president of the Lake Shore Securities company. He said the stock of that company and of the Real Estate Management company is "owned similarly" in explaining how the management company came to have control of many properties on which his former firm, the Lackner-Butz company, had done the financing. His new companies had paid $3,000 for the list of the Lackner-Butz bondholders, he testified.

Mr. Butz and his lawyer, Sidney Frisch, were scolded by Congressman Sabath because Attorney Frisch admitted having advised Butz not to give the committee certain information. They promised to provide the information sought.

The committee will be in session again today.

PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL IS DENIED.

Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland yesterday overruled a motion for a new trial for Myron Willens, found guilty recently by a jury of maintaining a nuisance in the form of a barbecue stand at 4635 Clarendon avenue. The jury fined Willens $25.

FATHER RETELLS GIVING PISTOL TO MELBA STRAUB

Fatal Bullets Are Ordered Produced in Court.

A pistol obtained by Melba Straub several months before her husband, Louis, was found shot to death in the Saddle and Cycle club formed the center of attention in a hearing yesterday before Federal Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman.

The hearing, which opened on Monday, is a civil action to determine whether Mrs. Straub or her late husband's brother Ernest and his two nephews, Ernest and Wallace Shropshire of Organ, N. M., will receive $20,410 of insurance on Louis' life.

If the three blood relatives can establish in court by a preponderance of evidence that Mrs. Straub killed her husband they will receive the insurance benefit which otherwise would go to her. "Preponderance of evidence" is sufficient to settle a civil action, according to attorneys, but to fix criminal responsibility requires proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Police and the state's attorney's office have never claimed solution of the mysterious slaying.

Widow's Father on Stand.

Testimony concerning the pistol was introduced by Attorney Theodore Hardeen Jr., representing Ernest Straub. Hardeen drew an admission from Mrs. Straub's father, Charles S. Springer, 72 years old, that he gave his daughter a .380 caliber pistol, an unusual caliber, to sell for him in October, 1934.

The body of Louis Straub, who was night bartender in the Saddle and Cycle club, Sheridan road and Foster avenue, bore seven wounds—in the head, neck and chest—when it was discovered in the club basement on Feb. 2, 1935. The wounds were made by bullets from a .380 caliber pistol.

While Springer was being questioned on the stand, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, on the application of Attorney Hardeen, ordered a subpena calling upon Coroner Frank J. Walsh to produce at the hearing the bullets taken from Straub's body.

Denies Explaining Use of Gun.

Springer, a WPA worker employed as a school crossing watchman, denied a statement once attributed to him that he showed his daughter how to operate the pistol when he gave it to her. Moreover, he denied that his daughter had asked him, after Straub was found slain, not to tell any one that she had given him $10 for the gun.

Ernest Straub, who is manager of the Saddle and Cycle club and was at the time his brother was slain, and several other witnesses testified on details.

When the hearing was adjourned until this morning Attorney Hardeen indicated his plan to summon Mrs. Straub to the stand today.

During a recess Mrs. Straub was served with a summons in a $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against here in the Circuit court in April, 1935, by Mrs. Louise Brickle. The plaintif is the wife of Peter Brickle, a former associate of Mrs. Straub, who was detained for questioning in the Straub investigation.

'FIGHTING EVILS OF CAPITALISM,' SAYS COUGHLIN

Outlines 'Mandate' in St. Louis Talk.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin asserted tonight that he is actively engaged in the current political campaign because the encyclicals of Popes Leo XIII. and Pius XI. contain a "mandate to every priest" to seek the eradication of "the evils of modern capitalism."

"I prefer as a priest to do as Pius XI. ordered me to do," he said in an address to a Missouri rally of the National Union for Social Justice and other supporters of William Lemke, Union party candidate for the presidency.

Would "Fire Brainless Trust."

Preceding Father Coughlin on the program, Lemke asserted that his "first act as President of the United States" would be "to fire the brainless trust and the burocrats who have been living on the taxpayers and tell them to go earn an honest living."

"When I am President of the United States," he said, "the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith and the heads of farm and labor organizations all will be welcome in the White House and we will work with congress, and this once more will be a government where all will have an opportunity to make a living and let live.

"Thatis the program of the Union party."

Tells of Roosevelt Financing.

Father Coughlin asserted that President Roosevelt "bought 24 per cent of the capital stock of the banks" and forced them to lend the government $18,000,000,000. The loan was made, he said, by a "rubber check," and the government in return gave the bankers bonds against which they were permitted to issue currency. This currency he termed "counterfeit."

"This modern usurer," he continued, "who went to the banks in which he owned 24 per cent of the stocks, borrowed $18,000,000,000 that they didn't have and now force you to pay it back by hard earned toil—that's not driving the money changers from the temple but driving the American people to revolution."

ASYLUM INMATE CONFESSES LUST KILLING; DOUBTED

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A 225 pound "gorilla man" was pictured by police tonight as confessing the lust slaying of Ruth Muir, 48, Wellesley graduate and social worker, but investigators were divided as to the truth of his story.

Police Chief George Sears said he was advised that Donald J. Hazell, 30, had signed a confession at the state insane hospital where he was confied after his arrest on Sept. 4.

Supt. Eugene Max Webster of the asylum, however, expressed the belief that Hazell had nothing to do with the killing of the Y. W. C. A. secretary at suburban La Jolla on Aug. 31.

"Hazell is insane and would say anything," Webster said.

While the Muir inquest was being held, Hazell was found wandering in a nearby street muttering unintelligible questions. He told police has was eight years old.

Deputy Sherif Walter Blue and Police Officer Ed Stotler, who reported Hazell confessed to them, said the man told them he sometimes had psychic spells "come over me and compel me to take a life."

Hazell was on parole from a mental institution at the time of his arrest, police said, and was taken to the state hospital for confinement instead of to jail. Officers called him a "gorilla man" because of his six foot stature and powerful physical development.

Thieves Can Take a Long Walk on Their Right Feet

Five sample cases containing 125 shoes were stolen from his automobile as it was parked in front of 122 West Madison street H. M. Alcorn of Peoria, a shoe salesman, reported yesterday to police. The laugh, Alcorn added is on the thieves. The shoes are all for the right foot.

HEART FAILURE 2½ TIMES GREATER IN FAT FOLKS

Says Medical Authority

Insurance companies constantly warn too much fat puts an added strain on the heart—overweight people are more liable to high blood pressure, indigestion, diabetes, kidney, liver and heart disorders.

So if you want to help yourself live to a ripe old age and enjoy robust health get rid of that dangerous burden of fat this easy way:

Cut down on fat meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets. Eat more fruit and vegetables. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to aid proper elimination. Kruschen helps important body organs to work normally—it eliminates excess poisons and waste from both UPPER and LOWER bowel—insures blissful daily bowel action—no purging or harsh cathartics—helps keep you feeling fine and fit day in and out. Jar lasts for weeks and costs but few cents.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

EXHIBIT A

By CALEB

IF you have never been a goldfish or in a situation where you were examined under a microscope by the curious, you can't entirely appreciate how we sometimes feel.

In Tokyo, not long ago, a man about to visit the United States asked what he should see in Chicago. A cosmopolite said, "Many things. But first of all—see Field's store." This interest in our store, which seems to be world-wide, not infrequently makes us a sort of Exhibit A.

Most any day you are in our store, you could find somewhere a gentleman or two, or delegation—from Paris, Berlin, Bagdad, Havana, Moscow, or some other city—interested in peering at our most private operations. We have ceased being embarrassed by such interest. At the same time, we do not feel particularly complimented, because we are constantly conscious of falling short of certain standards to which we aspire.

A young man from Grudziadz, Poland, recently completed a three months' study here. His reactions to American business, as exemplified here, are interesting. "You are so polite," he says. "The customer—she is treated so very nicely. In Poland there are only three department stores which have fixed prices. All other and smaller stores haggle with the customer. On the continent, few people in merchandise are educated. Educated people, there, are in the professions. Here you have such high grade people in business. Over there, sales people are indifferent. Here, you make every effort to have them serve customers intelligently. They know what they sell and how it is made."

Recently a man from a west coast city arrived in our store with a camera. He sought an escort who would accompany him though the store while he took pictures. He is manager of a store which occupies most of a square block and is about to expand into the remainder of the square. We submitted to his photographing us. Cameras are so good nowadays, a store doesn't have to stop to "watch the birdie." We're grateful for that.

One reason why we do not mind this living our private storekeeping life so publicly—being labeled Exhibit A, as it were—is because it keeps us aware of what is expected of us. We try to live up to it.

HIT-RUN DRIVER ORDERED TO JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS

Flees, Leaving His Victim Unconscious in Street.

For leaving the scene of an accident, Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Safety court yesterday sentenced Wilbert Elberg, 22 years old, to six months in the Bridewell. Elberg, who lives at 1330 George street, struck a pedestrian, Lee Rilley, 34 years old, 611 Barry avenue, at Center street and Stockton drive. Rilley is still in serious condition in Columbus hospital. Elberg sped away, leaving Rilley unconscious in the street.

Elberg left also fragments of the shattered windshield of the ancient borrowed automobile he was driving. The police matched the pieces of broken glass and found they had the car's vehicle license sticker. Through the number the car was tracked to its owner, and Elberg was arrested. In court yesterday Elberg said he was "afraid to stop."

Lesson to Hit-Run Drivers.

"It doesn't seem possible that one human being could strike another down and not even stop to give first aid," Judge Gorman said. "I'm going to give you six months, the severest sentence I have imposed, to teach hit-run drivers that this sort of thing must stop."

On the testimony of Park Policeman Raymond Earsman, Judge Gorman sentenced Miss Patricia Davis, 19 years old, 4427 North Lawndale avenue, to ten days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving. Later, he allowed a motion to vacate the sentence to be filed, and will hear additional testimony today.

Auto Hits Safety Island.

Policeman Earsman testified the girl rammed her car into a safety island at Michigan avenue and Adams street on Sept. 4, and hit the island twice again in trying to extricate the car. He testified she "had been drinking and smelled of liquor." Miss Davis and several witnesses for her denied she had been drinking.

Five other defendants were sentenced during the day in Safety court to the county jail.

They were:

GEORGE DOWSE, 58 years old, 2208 West 73d court, Elmwood Park, 3 days, reckless driving.

WARD MADISON, 40 years old, 5725 Prairie avenue, colored, 3 days, reckless driving.

U. S. TO 'PURGE' FEDERAL PAY ROLL IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 22.—The Porto Rican reconstruction administration, employing more than 50,000 persons, no longer is to be a refuge for advocates of independence for the island, according to its executive committee, which today appointed a subcommittee to scan its rosters and eliminate separatists.

Reconstruction funds totaling $40,000,000 come from the federal treasury.

The move to expel the advocates of independence from the government pay rolls follows action recently taken by the reconstruction administrator, Dr. Ernest H. Gruening.

He conducted an investigation of political activities among the reconstruction personnel that resulted in several forced resignations, many dismissals and the elimination of the collection of funds from employés for partisan purposes.

HIT-RUN VICTIM IS TOSSED FROM AUTO; 3 SEIZED

Held After Body Is Left on Joliet Street.

Three young men were held in the Will county jail in Joliet last night as a result of the death of George McAloom of Joliet, whose body was found Monday at Railroad and McDonough streets in Joliet. Charges were filed against them by Coroner E. A. Kingston at the recommendation of a coroner's jury.

The three held admitted that the car in which they were riding early Monday struck McAloom, that they carried his body for a mile, and then dumped him into the street. They are Victor Peterson, 24 years old, and Noble Trenter, 18 years old, of Morris., Ill., and Bernard Higgins, 27 years old, of 126 South Bluff street, Joliet.

Body Breaks Windshield.

According to Joliet police, the three said McAloom's body crashed part way through the windshield of the car. Higgins was cut by flying glass. A few hours after McAloom's body was found, Higgins was arrested when he applied at a hospital for treatment of his injuries. He admitted being a passenger in the death car and implicated Trenter and Peterson, who were arrested at their homes in Morris. The car was driven by Trenter, who said he had not seen McAloom in time to avoid hitting him.

Arthur Lawton, 63 years old, 6716 South Union avenue, a watchman, died in St. Bernard's hospital last night of injuries incurred Sunday when he was struck while walking at 68th and Halsted streets by an automobile driven by Mathew Yaeger, 25 years old, 7219 South Wood street.

Charged with Manslaughter.

Anton Kwiatkowski, 21 years old, 3035 Lyman street, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter yesterday at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Mary Burns, 76 years old, 3934 South Rockwell street. Kwiatkowski admitted striking the woman early Sunday morning at 39th street and Archer avenue. Kwiat-Kiowski fled, but was traced by the license number of his car.

Charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, Arthur E. Johnson, 50 years old, 4701 West 12th place, Cicero, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $12,000 by Justice of the Peace Louis S. Gibson in Oak Park. He was identified as the driver who fled after crashing into a car driven by the Rev. Val Delinski at Harlem avenue and Roosevelt road in Oak Park last Thursday. He was arrested a few hours later when he collided with another car at Marion avenue and Lake street, Oak Park.

From Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday, 703 persons were killed in trafic accidents in Cook county, the coroner's office reported. Of these, 542 were killed in Chicago. In the same period, 13,604 persons were injured in the city.

29 MILLION USE 'L'-STREET CAR TRANSFER PLAN

Trial Year Up; Hearings to Decide on Continuing.

Nearly 29 million passengers used joint transfers between the elevated and surface lines during the first year the system was in effect, according to the records of the transportation companies. The joint transfer arrangement was inaugurated on Sept. 22, 1935, for a trial period of one year under an order of the Illinois commerce commission as part of the universal transfer system sponsored by Mayor Kelly.

The termination of the experimental year obliges the commission to decide whether to abandon the practice or to make it permanent. Next Tuesday, the commissioners will start holding hearings on the matter. Meantime the system is continued for ninety days.

Use Is Double the Expecation.

The intersystem transfer privilege was used more than twice as many times as trafic engineers estimated it would be when they convinced the commerce commission that the plan was worth trying. During the trial year, 28,721,615 passengers used such transfers [number for 21 days of current month estimated].

Enough more riders transferred between elevated and motor coach lines to run the total of riders who benefited from the universal transfer idea to more than 31 millions. The bus-"L" exchange privilege started last January.

Sept. 22 to 30, 1935	486,677
October	1,952,619
November	2,132,493
December	2,446,445
January, 1936	2,716,375
February	2,779,922
March	2,759,050
April	2,692,999
May	2,607,570
June	2,020,523
July	1,982,967
August	2,463,975
Sept. 1 to 24 [estimated]	1,680,000
Total	28,721,615

Officials of the transportation systems and the commerce commission said that the arrangement has operated smoothly since it was inaugurated and that few complaints have been made by riders.

Fare Allotment a Problem.

A question the commerce commission must decide is the division of revenues from joint riders between the companies. The commission order last year provided that if the companies were unable to agree on how the revenues should be split the commission would decide. As each rider paid a 10 cent fare, the total amount involved is nearly $2,900,000.

Under the joint transfer arrangement, transfers to the surface lines are issued free by the elevated lines on payment of a 10 cent fare. Surface lines riders transferring to the elevated are required to pay an additional 3 cents over the regular 7 cent fare.

SUES TO ENFORCE BAN ON ALL NIGHT PARKING IN CITY

Enforcement of the all night parking prohibition in Chicago is demanded in a petition for a writ of mandamus filed in the Superior court yesterday in behalf of James L. McManus, 352 West 64th street. The suit would compel Mayor Kelly and Commissioner Allman to clear the streets of parked automobiles between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m.

Safety and trafic engineers estimate that there are between 90,000 and 100,000 motor cars regularly parked all night on Chicago's streets. The mandamus would compel the owners of these vehicles to obtain storage space in garages or vacant lots.

The Chicago trafic code, passed by the council several years ago, makes it a misdemeanor to park longer than 30 minutes between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. on any Chicago street. The ordinance, generally speaking, has not been enforced.

Thomas J. Cavanagh, attorney in the case, said Mr. McManus, a realty operator, was not representing any garage operators but was bringing the litigation strictly as an individual discommoded by all night parkers in front of his 64th street residence.

The petition sets up that all night parking is a fire, crime, and trafic accident hazard and that it deprives property owners of reasonable ingress and egress to and from the street.

Pays Support Arrearage; Contempt Case Is Dropped

Frank Howe Packard, a finance officer for the Works Progress administration, has made up arrears in support payments for his daughter, Emilie Jean, 5 years old. Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan was told yesterday when a contempt of court citation against Packard was dropped by attorneys for his former wife, Mrs. Emilie Channell Packard, 180 East Delaware place. Packard, ordered to pay $10 a week for the support of the child under a divorce decree granted Mrs. Packard in 1934, was at one time $770 in arrears.

HOUSE AMENDS RELIEF TAX ACT; SENT TO SENATE

Move to Increase Cost of Administration Fails.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Seven bills designed to remedy the questionable constitutionality of the 30 cent township relief tax were passed by the Illinois house today and sent to the senate, which is expected to approve them early Thursday. The vote was 122 to 0.

The validating series was recommended by the Chicago law firm of Chapman & Cutler. It it finally is enacted, Chicago bankers who rely on Chapman & Cutler's judgment, are expected to purchase warants issued against the township tax.

Block Increase in Costs.

No controversy accompanied passage of the bills today and they were approved on one roll call. The house balked, however, at a measure backed by Representative Frank Holten [Dem., East St. Louis] which would increase the amount of expenses township commissioners could incur in administering relief. Holten proposed that downstate administrative costs should be increased from 5 to 10 per cent and for Cook county from 8 to 10 per cent.

Despite an apparent sentiment against the increases, Holten asked for a passage roll call on his bill, but when it had progressed a few names he saw it could not hope for approval. Roll call was halted and Holten amended it to increase the downstate expense allotment to 8 per cent or the same amount Chicago may expend.

Horner Opposes Plan.

This concession, however, does not indicate that the bill will be passed, even in its amended form. Gov. Henry Horner has announced his flat opposition to any increase in the pegged percentages until they have been given a trial. Furthermore, the house has adjourned until Oct. 13.

The opposition was summarized by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] who said, "I am opposed to these increases because they promote the tendency to make administration a profession. Once upon a time people took care of the unfortunate on a charitable basis without thought of pay. I am not going to vote for any program that will tend to discourage that kind of charity."

'COLONEL' OF BLACK LEGION DENIES PLOT TO 'EXECUTE' VICTIM

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Harvey Davis, a "colonel" of the Black Legion, admitted today that he saw Dayton Dean shoot Charles A. Poole to death last May, but denied the state's charge that he knew Poole was to be "executed."

Davis testified at the trial of himself and 11 others on charges of kidnaping and killing the young WPA worker. He admitted he presided over the meeting in Findlater hall where the state contends the alleged plot was arranged.

"Dean handed me a note while I was up front," Davis said. "It was about a man whipping his wife. I read it to them and asked what ought to be done about it. . . . Several said he ought to be whipped."

The "colonel" said he did not hear anyone say Poole should be killed. Dean, who has pleaded guilty to murder, testified for the state that there were shouts of "kill him, hang him," at the meeting.

Move Relief Offices to the Merchandise Mart

Moving of the administrative relief offices from 1319 South Michigan avenue to the second floor of the Merchandise Mart started yesterday and is expected to be completed by Oct. 1. The move involves 2,000 employès of the Illinois Works Progress administration, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, the Chicago Relief commission and WPA districts 2 and 3, which include the relief affairs of Cook county outside Chicago, and Will, DuPage, and Kane counties.

FREY ASSAILS LEWIS; CALLED LABOR 'TRAITOR'

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and head of the committee on industrial organization, was denounced here today as a "traitor to organized labor." That charge was made by John P. Frey, president of the metal trades division of the American Federation of Labor. He spoke before the convention of the International Association of Machinists in session here.

Frey called Lewis "a traitor to American institutions, a traitor to the very principles that built up the United Mine Workers, and all other unions."

"Lewis," Frey declared, "is a cheap political hackhorse who traveled in the campaign trains of Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover. Perhaps in doing so, he believed he was doing the United Mine Workers some good, but perhaps he had in mind his own ambition to become secretary of labor."

Frey spoke to add to the denunciation of Lewis delivered the other day by President Arthur Wharton of the machinists' union before whose convention a resolution of condemnation of Lewis' plan for industrial unions will come. The convention also will receive a resolution asking for the indorsement of the candidacy of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

ROOSEVELT AIM IS RE-ELECTION; HE CONFESSES IT

Will Meet His Strategy Board Tomorrow.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today acknowledged for the first time this campaign year that he is seriously driving for reëlection. He revealed that he will confer with the Democratic national committee chairman and absentee Postmaster General James Farley and other members of the Democratic strategy board Thursday afternoon.

In announcing that he would meet with Farley, Sen. Joseph Guffey, chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader, Mr. Roosevelt said he was taking an interest in political affairs:

"And that's news," he said, with a characteristic thrust of his chin.

Will Study Weak Spots.

The Democratic high command is expected to report on weak points in the country for the New Deal cause. From the report Mr. Roosevelt will plot his stumping itinerary for October.

The President has said he had given little thought to his campaign touring, but he is known to be following closely early election returns and polls unfavorable to his cause. On present indications, he will leap into the country of his Republican opponent, Gov. Alf M. Landon, before long, to offset the Kansan's popularity in his own country by making a speech in the sunflower state, probably at Wichita.

Works on Farm Plans.

Mr. Roosevelt spent a quiet day at his family estate. In his drive to offset Gov. Landon's farm speech at Des Moines tonight the President conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Edward O'Neal, head of the Farm Bureau federation, to consider the setting up of a farm council to coördinate the activities of various governmental agencies on farm problems.

At the end of the conference, Wallace spoke disparagingly of the suggestion by Gov. Landon that private insurance companies handle crop insurance rather than the government. Wallace said the government would underwrite risks which private companies could not assume.

Two Army Flyers Killed in Crash; 3d Believed Dead

Hillsgrove, R. I., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Two army aviators were killed and a third was believed to have perished when a bombing plane crashed and burned near the state airport tonight.

ADDED CHARGES OF WPA POLITICS ISSUED BY G. O. P.

Specific Instances Are Cited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Citing further specific instances in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New Jersey, and New York, the Republican national committee today charged the WPA with graft, pay roll padding, political discrimination, inefficiency, and terrorism.

The national committee, which previously has cited evidences of corruption in Ohio and Pennsylvania, declares that its new disclosures prove that such conditions are "not confined to any single locality but are typical of the WPA wherever it has squandered the taxpayers' millions."

Cites Cases in Indiana.

The committee says that Peter Kent, a resident of Salt Creek township in Indiana, near Bloomington, averred in an affidavit that he was employed for seven months on a WPA project at the University of Indiana. He learned from men working on a Salt Creek city project that their foreman, Albert Gross, had said, "if Kent is elected Republican precinct committeeman, he will lose his WPA job." On May 5 he was elected, and on May 8 he was fired.

Jess Honeycutt of 1401 South Grant street, Bloomington, Ind., was dismissed from his WPA job on June 9, although he has a wife and seven boys to support, the committee charges. Honeycutt stated in his affidavit:

"While on this job Lewis Weber, foreman, asked me the political affiliations of several of the men. He also said: 'I know you are a hell of a strong Republican'."

Dismissed for Age.

Honeycutt said his dismissal slip gave "old age" as the reason, though he is only 55, and some Democrats 70 years of age are still working. He is now living on a weekly $4.60 grocery slip received from the township.

"Glover Stone of Spencer, Ind.," the committee charges, "was dismissed by the WPA on March 30 with a general layoff as the reason. 'However,' Stone testified, 'the same day I was fired Richard Wickens of Elletsville, Ind., was given an assignment slip. His father is a Democrat.'

"In Duquoin, Ill., seven affidavits in the possession of the Republican committee show the WPA workers were discharged for supporting George Dowell, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"When the Governor's day rally was held this year at the Springfield, Ill., state fair, WPA workers in the vicinity were given the day off, herded into automobiles, and driven to the fair to hear speeches delivered at the Democratic rally."

DIES OF MUSHROOM POISONING.

ROOSEVELT, AL SMITH MAY BE RIVALS OVER RADIO AT SAME HOUR

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith may be rival broadcasters the night of Oct. 1.

The Democratic national committee announced today it had purchased the half hour at 9 p. m. that day for the broadcast of the President's address at Pittsburgh, to be carried by both WEAF-NBC and WABC-CBS.

It was also announced that a verbal request for time at the same 9 o'clock hour, but via the WJZ-NBC network, had been made by publicity associates for Smith's talk from Carnegie hall in New York. He is to speak under sponsorship of the Independent Coalition of American Women.

Britain Admits Ethiopian Queen's Seasick Terrier

FOLKESTONE, England, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The odyssey of the little fox terrier owned by Ethiopia's former Empress Mennen was ended tonight when it was admitted to England. The seasick animal made two round trips between France and England before requirements were completed with the British immigration depot.

NEGRO PASTORS OPEN DRIVE TO ELECT LANDON

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—More than a dozen negro clergymen, with Bishop David Henry Sims of Philadelphia presiding, met today at headquarters of the Republican state committee to make preparations for a pulpit crusade and large massmeeting in this city to protest against the attempts of the Democratic national committee to divide the Negro vote at the coming election.

Today's meeting, it was explained, also was a protest against what those in attendance termed "the attempted perversion of the sacred principles of the emancipation proclamation" in attempting to depict President Roosevelt as the redeemer of the Negro race at the big massmeeting in Madison Square Garden on Monday night at which the drive for Negro votes for the President was inaugurated.

Bishop Sims summoned his fellow clergyman to a pulpit crusade against the "double standard of living which the Democrats are prescribing for Negroes in the south and the colored race in the north."

TRIES SUICIDE; WILL RECOVER.

Terry Parker, 25 years old, a houseman employed by Erick H. Hart, 7712 Eastlake terrace, tried to end his life yesterday by drinking poison and slashing his wrists. He was taken to the Rogers-Post hospital, where it was said he probably will recover.

LANDON OFFERS FARM PLAN FOR BENEFIT OF ALL

Pledges Broad Program to Guarantee Security.

Outlines Long Term Plan.

The great aim is to get the people back on a self-supporting basis. With this promise of immediate help Gov. Landon then outlined a long term program dealing chiefly with the exportable surplus crops, such as hogs, wheat, cotton, and tobacco, to which the world markets are largely closed.

"We're going to see to it that the farmer whose crops have to be sold on a world market gets the equivalent of a really effective tarif," Gov. Landon said.

He then touched on the subject of crop insurance, upon which he had commented yesterday in advance of his speech. His next proposal was for the development of new crops and a domestic demand for different uses for land products.

A Magnificent Setting.

The State Fair grounds made a magnificent setting for the farm speech, perhaps the most important in the campaign for him. The grandstand was decorated with flags and the boxes and speakers' stands were draped with bunting and hidden in flowers. The black and gold radio pulpit was surrounded with a garden of green and yellow, gigantic sunflowers predominating. Big portraits of Landon and Knox flanked the platform.

The stands began filling early in the evening and at 8 o'clock it was estimated that 15,000 were there. The space in the field between the stands and the platform where Landon was to speak was filled with chairs and these were rapidly filled.

The scene resembled that at national conventions, with rows of seats for hundreds of newspaper correspondents on each side of the platform. The crowd was in a high mood of political excitement. They sang while they waited for the nominee.

Cheer Local Leaders.

The floodlights played upon the scene, while photographers lined up to take the arrival of the candidate. The people cheered as local leaders stepped upon the platform.

Carl H. Cook, state chairman, took charge of the meeting just before the arrival of Landon.

"Our American system of government hangs in the balance," he said. He referred to the New Deal as an "alphabetical Frankenstein." The audience yelled with approval.

He introduced Miss Agnes Samuelson, state superintendent of public instruction, who introduced Landon.

At her last words the great audience arose and gave Landon the noisiest welcome the candidate has received in any meeting of the campaign. He waved for quiet, while he prepared to read his speech over the radio.

Crowd with Candidate.

They started cheering again at the end of his first paragraph. This crowd seemed to be with Landon. They applauded him at the least opportunity he gave them, at almost every pause. He responded to this by a more emphatic manner of speaking, by speaking more slowly, and leaning forward to look his audience in their faces.

"No waste and no politics," was given special applause.

His reference to cash benefits did not arouse any special demonstration. His proposals for grain storage and crop insurance were listened to closely.

Applaud AAA Assault.

His statement that he could not agree with the President on the AAA was received with a greater measure of applause.

His attack on the administration farm program was approved by a section of the audience but met with no special demonstration.

"Spending money wisely" touched a popular chord.

His reference to "ruinous debt and taxation" was hailed more forcefully.

At the conclusion of his address the audience again rose and applauded him.

MRS. BAUR TELLS 43D WARD WOMEN OF FALL ISSUES

Wearing a blue crêpe dress trimmed with small white elephants, Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman from Illinois, and candidate for congress in the Ninth district, last night made a campaign address before Forty-third ward women in the Parkway hotel.

"This is the most important campaign in the history of our country," Mrs. Baur said. "The women of the country must work as they have never worked before. I am asking for your support and your votes to go to congress and help stop the present vast and wasteful expenditures."

Eight of the ten congressional candidates from Cook county met yesterday afternoon in Henrici's restaurant. They decided to hold weekly meetings during the rest of the campaign, but each candidate will conduct his own individual drive. Those present at the meeting were Mrs. Baur, F. A. Virkus, Sixth district, who presided; E. R. Piszatowski, Eighth district; J. C. Moreland, Seventh district; Mrs. Irene A. Tomas, Fourth district; Congressman Ralph E. Church, Tenth district; Frank M. Fulton, Third district, and Max Price, Fifth district.

Text of Gov. Landon's Address Pledging Farm Security

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Following is the address of Gov. Alf M. Landon on the farm problem:

"Mr. Chairman, ladies, and gentlemen:

"We are here for a frank discussion of the needs of farming. You want to know what policies the farmers can count on from the Republican party. My purpose is to tell you.

"Most of my life, private and public, has been spent in close contact with farmers. For four years I have had the honor of being governor of a great agricultural state. I know the aspirations of farm folks. They want to have the same chance and the same protection in the market as other American industries. They want a settled, workable, national policy for agriculture. And I know that above all else they want no system which penalizes plenty and rewards scarcity. The American farmer wants to produce without fear.

Values Land Ownership.

"There is no greater satisfaction than in owning the piece of land that a man and his family call home. There is a feeling of partnership in a common undertaking among husband and wife and children that is more possible on the farm than anywhere else.

"There is nothing more satisfying than raising good crops, having a crib full of corn, plenty of hay in the mow or stack, and hogs and cattle fattening in the feedlot. As one of my farmer friends recently said to me, and said with all reverence, 'Lord, I wish we could have those things again!'

"For fifteen years we have been struggling with what has been called 'the farm question.' It is not a farm question but a national question. It is a question of whether the farmer and his family will be able to buy the things they need—whether they'll be able to maintain the full American standard of living. It is a question of whether the rest of our people will be able to trade a part of their products to the man on the land for three square meals a day.

Farmer Wants Enumerated.

"All the farmer asks is that his income be on a parity with the rest of the nation, that he may enjoy the same standard of life, that his home be made secure, and that he be able to build up a reserve for the future.

"It is to the direct interest of the consumers and other producers of this nation that the farmer be a good provider and a good customer.

"I know that these aims cannot be realized over night. Miracles are no more common in Washington than they are in Des Moines. To get a real solution we must have a well rounded program—a program that will meet, not only the present emergency and the immediate future, but also the long time pull!

"The Republican platform offers just such a program. By it we are pledged to meet, to the fullest extent, the present distress caused by the drouth.

"To make the farm standard of living secure by protecting the income of the farm family.

"To guard the food supply of the nation by preserving our soil and other natural resources through sound conservation and land-use policies.

"To protect the farm and the rest of the country from ruinous debt and taxation.

"This program not only takes care of the present, it not only safeguards the farm family while we are working toward the necessary adjustments of the future, but it provides a settled workable, national policy for agriculture.

Promises Drouth Relief.

"Before I go into a discussion of this program let me make this one point absolutely clear. If I am elected I shall fulfill all oustanding obligations made by the present administration with the American farmer. By this I mean that those who have carried out their end of the bargain will receive the checks due them.

"I am equally emphatic in my views on meeting the suffering caused by the present drouth. We will use the full power of government to relieve the present distress.

"Those of our farmers hard hit by the drouth will be generously provided for until they can raise a crop. This means the continuation of relief checks! It means as well, in the case of many farmers, seed loans and other necessary assistance in order that the farmer may get started again. Where such help is needed we will give it promptly. There will be no waste and no politics.

Turns to Future Policies.

"Let me repeat this part of the Republican program. We will not allow needless suffering in this country—either on our farms or in our cities. We are determined to extend every reasonable aid to our people to get them back on a self-supporting basis in the shortest possible time.

"Now I turn to our policies which deal with the future.

"For many years farmers producing crops of which there is normally an exportable surplus have worked under a handicap. I mean such staple products as hogs, wheat, cotton, and tobacco. The surplus is sold on world markets and the price of the entire crop is affected by what the surplus will bring. Tarif protection for these products, generally speaking, is ineffective except when there is a shortage. This handicap has become increasingly severe in recent years.

"Today policies of foreign nations are shaped principally by imperialistic aims and the fears they create. World markets are largely closed to our agriculture surplusses. Our foreign competitors are aided by government subsidies.

"So long as this is the case the cards are stacked against our farmers.

"Some time there again will be normal world conditions. In the meantime those of our farmers with exportable surpluses will remain at a disadvantage with other producers.

"The Republican party proposes to offset these disadvantages by the payment of cash benefits. These cash benefits will be limited to the production level of the family type farm.

"We are pledged by our platform—I quote: 'To provide, in the case of agricultural products of which there are exportable surpluses, the payment of reasonable benefits upon the domestically consumed portion of such crops, in order to make the tarif effective.' This means that our farmers will receive an American and not a foreign price for their products.

"This is the first time this principle has been put forward by a major political party. Such protection is simply common fairness to the farmer. It will act as insurance until long-time programs of surplus removal and land use can be brought into effect.

"I will stand by this pledge. In doing so I shall call on the statesmanship of both parties and will consult and work with responsible farmers and farm leaders.

"We're going to see to it that the farmer whose crops have to be sold on a world market gets the equivalent of a really effective tarif. One thing we have learned from past experience is this: We cannot let temporary surpluses destroy the standard of living of the farm family.

"As part of the plan for removing the depression effect of surpluses I shall propose an amendment to the federal warehousing act so that reserves of feed, such as corn, can be carried on the farm. We have learned from painful experience that the overfilled crib may quickly become the empty crib. It is to the advantage of both the producer and the consumer—and the farmer is both when it comes to feed crops—that these conditions be evened out as much as possible.

Loan Feature Included.

"Under this amendment the farmer who stores his grain on the farm, in such a way as to make it insurable, will be entitled to a federal warehouse receipt. He then will be eligible to borrow from any banking agency. He will enjoy the same credit facilities as are available to owners of grain stored in terminal markets. The grain would be stored on the farm, ready for use or sale at any time the farmer cares to take up the loan.

"I am now going to mention a subject that is in neither platform—crop insurance. It is a question in which we have long been interested in Kansas. In fact, some of our Republican leaders in farm legislation have been in the forefront in working on it. We realize that there are difficulties. But insurance companies are writing policies today covering risks that they did not consider feasible a few years ago. I believe that the question of crop insurance should be given the fullest attention.

Would Develop New Crops.

"We need also to resume our once remarkable progress in introducing new crops for the use of our lands. This work seems to have slowed down. Yet it is exactly what the department of agriculture should now be pushing.

"Not only must we take care of the problems of the land but we must develop more domestic demand and different uses for the products of the land. I am far more interested in seeing farmers paid for growing the things we know we need, than in paying them for not growing the things we think we don't need.

"Most of us coöperated with the triple A in its early days, since we had been promised it was only an emergency measure. It was the only important agency working for the relief of the farm at that time, and it was entitled to a fair trial.

"But as the program progressed, we discovered that the administration was trying to stretch the triple A into a means for the permanent control of American agriculture from Washington. I cannot agree with such a policy. I cannot agree with the President. I believe the American farmer should be 'a lord on his own farm.'

"We were promised that the triple A would be quickly replaced by a sound, long time program.

"But instead, after crop reduction we had crop adjustment, then more crop shifting under the soil conservation and domestic allotment act. The conservation plan was not conservation. It was a stopgap, a subterfuge. Anyone going through the present mixup in an effort to qualify for a check will agree with me! Nobody was fooled, least of all the farmer.

"Now something else has just been announced. Like the automobile manufacturers, the administration believes in bringing out a new model every year.

Sees Lack of Policy.

"What is the farm policy of this administration? In my opinion it has none. After being in power for nearly four years, the administration is still without a settled, workable, national policy for agriculture. It's right back where it started from!

"Soil conservation—real conservation—is a subject close to my heart. In Kansas we link soil conservation with water conservation and flood control into a co-related program.

"More than two years ago I suggested to the present administration a comprehensive program to be administered through joint state and federal action. I requested that the federal government take leadership in these policies as a part of its drouth program.

"This was not done, but in Kansas we went ahead anyway, making effective use of federal funds provided for work relief, by building ponds, by digging public wells for farms and constructing a state-wide system of lakes and municipal reservoirs.

Pledges His Coöperation.

"This work, backed by sound land policies, has given Kansas a real start in the direction of conservation. Of course much remains to be done. But we know as a result of this experience, that there is such a thing as spending money wisely.

"It will be my purpose to coöperate with the states in putting into effect a real conservation program along broad lines. But we will not do this at the expense of dairy and livestock producers.

"Where the farmer is unable to afford proper conservation practices, cash payments should be made for actual performance. There should be state participation in the program, with the local administration in the hands of farmers themselves.

"Conservation is an inseparable part of a national land-use program. Through such a program we can bring our farm plant into proper balance and gradually shape our land resources to their right uses.

Raps Past Performance.

"The program we propose will put an end to the policies of this administration of trading off the American farmer. It will make unnecessary giving away the equivalent of 25,000,000 acres to foreigners. It will prevent the importation of pork products from 16 different countries. It will eliminate all excuse for paying $785,000 in one year to a sugar corporation, or $155,000 to a packing company for its hog operations, or $301,000 to a British-owned cotton company. And it no longer will be possible for a corporation farmer to rent government controled Indian land and get $51,000 subsidy, or for a garbage feeder to get 100 times as much as a good corn belt farmer.

"There is one more important point in our program I wish to emphasize. This, that we shall 'free the farm and the rest of the country from the impending dangers of ruinous debt and taxation.'

"All of you know the rate at which government spending is going on. The national debt has now reached the stupendous figure of 34 billion dollars and it is increasing every minute.

"Let us look at this proposition candidly. This increasing debt can be paid only by taxation if this is to remain an honest government. Taxes add to the cost of everything and the farmer is so situated that he cannot escape their penalty. Further, the taxes reduce the ability of the consumer to buy the products of the farm. The Republican party proposes to put an end to the present waste and extravagance.

"So much for the main provisions of the program which we propose for American agriculture. It is a program based upon the same principles that farmers have urged for years. It follows in the same furrows that were plowed at the meetings of the corn belt committee here in Des Moines. It offers a practical means to attain what we have been seeking—a free and independent agriculture.

Home Financing Proposed.

"Today, 42 farms out of every one hundred are operated by tenants. Our national welfare demands that the situation be corrected. If history teaches us anything, it teaches that the stability of civilization depends upon ownership of the land by the man who works the land.

"It is our pledge to extend, within the limits of sound finance, adequate credit at reasonable rates to capable tenants and experienced farmers for the purchase or refinancing of farm homes.

"You will see that everything I have said points to but one end—that of the protection of the family type farm. This philosophy runs like a thread through the Republican platform. It is in keeping with the American tradition, which is based upon preserving individual opportunity. But you will not find it even mentioned in the platform of the opposing party.

Reviews G. O. P. Purposes.

"The provision of adequate credit at reasonable rates that I have just mentioned will encourage farm ownership. Our program of conservation will enable the man living on his own land to maintain the productivity of that land and thereby remain a self-supporting citizen. Our cash benefits, as I said, will be limited to the production level of the family type farm.

"The Republican party, in other words, does not believe in having our farm operated by large corporate enterprises.

"It is our conviction that it is the duty of the government to preserve the family type of farm for all time—preserve it as a home and as a source of livelihood. We should make it possible for the farm wife to enjoy the comforts of modern labor saving devices.

Cites Basis for Security.

"We should make it possible for farm children to have the same educational opportunities as city children. We should make it possible for our boys and girls of the 4-H clubs and vocational classes to inherit an agriculture worthy of their ideals and aspirations.

"The security of our social and economic system does not rest upon the foundation of a few great enterprises. It rests upon our having millions and millions of industrial farmers and home owners.

"These are the people that give us security and give us our spirit of independence as a nation! We must not let them be driven to the wall!"

Emma Guffey Miller Raps Landon as 'Average Man'

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, national Democratic committeewoman from Pennsylvania and sister of Senator Joseph Guffey of that state, addressed about 1,000 members of the Illinois Democratic Women's club yesterday in the Morrison hotel. Mrs. Miller devoted most of her speech to an attack on Gov. Landon as an "average man." "I do not think the average man is the person to put in the presidential chair," she said.

LANDON TO MAKE 25 TRAIN TALKS IN CURRENT TOUR

Schedule Broadened for Trip in Wisconsin.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

On Board Landon Special to Des Moines, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Alf M. Laidon left Topeka this morning on a nine car special train filled with members of his "official party," newspaper men, camera news reel, and radio men on a week's tour of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois.

Twenty-five rear platform talks are scheduled on this tour, besides the three night addresses at Des Moines, Minneapolis, and Milwaukee. A revised schedule of the Wisconsin tour, issued today, shows a plan to crisscross the state in more thorough fashion, eliminating the fishing trip that had been planned at first for the Eau Claire region on Friday.

New Itinerary Given.

The new schedule follows:

Greeted by Big Crowds.

Gov. Landon met with large crowds on his way through Missouri and Iowa today. His main day speech was made at Trenton, Mo., where the town turned out to see him. School had been dismissed, a band was on hand, and Gov. Landon was given many cheers as he set forth his beliefs as to what the people want and what this campaign stands for in the national life.

The friendly crowd pushed presents over the rear platform rail into Landon's hands. One farmer gave him a 45 pound watermelon. Girls tossed flowers at him, and one father pushed up a 3 month old baby named after the candidate.

"I know you have come to look me over," Gov. Landon said.

"You look good to us," yelled a man in the crowd.

Pleased by Reception.

Gov. Landon was pleased with the crowds and interpreted his reception as a sign that the people are awake to the importance of the campaign issues.

"Our people," he said, "seem to be taking the business of government mighty seriously this year.

"They seem to be alive to the fact that this is no ordinary campaign, no mere partisan contest. More and more they are coming to realize that the issues now at stake deeply concern the future of the family and the home.

"We demand that the political exploiters who are attempting to buy political support by swapping relief for votes shall themselves be removed from the public pay roll. And if I know the American people that's one of the things they are going to attend to next November."

This figure, added to the precinct registration of 1,019,332 last Saturday, gives a total registration so far of 1,164,916.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Interpreters in practically every language, including the sign language, are on hand in room 308 of the city hall to assist voters who wish to register. They are needed because John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, says persons of foreign birth are registering this year in unprecedented numbers.

An elderly little woman, wearing a red shawl over her head, approached an information window yesterday.

"This vote," she asked Walter Kasper, naturalization and citizenship clerk, "how do I make it?"

"You want to register?" Kasper asked.

Wants to "Make" Her Vote.

"I want to make my vote," she insisted.

"Well, where were you born?" Kasper asked with a kindly smile.

"In Ital-ee."

"And your husband?"

"Oh," proudly, "he is an Amer-r-rican. He was born in the Jersey, and he always make the vote, but this year I make it, too."

"Hmmm," said Kasper, "when did you marry him?"

The little woman produced a worn marriage certificate. "Aug. 19, 1915," she said, shoving the certificate across the counter.

"You're all right, then," Kasper assured her. "That makes you an American, too. Just go over to that window there and answer the questions."

A Problem for Many.

"You see," he explained, as she moved alertly away, "last Saturday we got 40 calls an hour on that question alone. Formerly an alien woman marrying an American became a citizen, and an American woman marrying an alien lost her citizenship, but the law was revised in 1922 so as to leave the status of such wives unchanged. You'd be surprised at the people, the foreigners registering this year for the first time even though they've been citizens here for years and years."

From 40 to 50 forms requesting absentee ballots are filled out daily, while last week the registration windows—where voters are registering for the first time under the permanent registration law—were crowded with college students, wishing to register and make an absentee ballot application before they returned to college.

Transients Argue About It.

Transients, or newcomers to Illinois, are the most argumentative of the registrants, a cursory survey revealed. "Well, what do we do, lose our vote?" they inquire belligerently, when told that a one year's residence is necessary to vote in Illinois.

Many aged people are preparing to cast their maiden votes this November, but even more surprising to officials is the number of women registering this year.

A total of 430,939 women registered Saturday on the first precinct registration day, as against 291,599 in 1932—and this does not include the 50,737 who have registered in the city hall.

"And in the 4th, 5th, 25th, 48th, and 49th wards more women have registered than men," said Mrs. Mabel Reinicke, a member of the election board. "Why? Because they no longer have to tell their age."

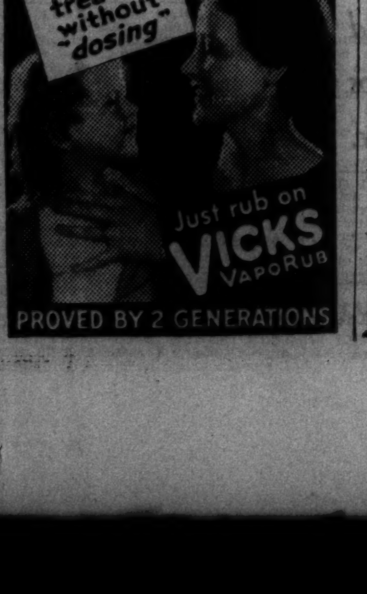
Drive Will Be Continued.

Analysis of Saturday's registration in the election precincts is "very encouraging," said Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, chairman of the nonpartisan citizens' committee on registration. "There is no question that Cook county citizens value their vote. From now on this committee will push the drive for complete registration, particularly in the residential wards, where the stay-at-home vote has been most evident."

Permanent registration cannot bring about clean elections by itself, Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, declared yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago Women's Civic council in the Palmer house. It must be supported by public opinion and public action, he warned.

For the first time yesterday the election board office was open in the evening. The office is now open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily except Saturdays when the hours are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

CHILDREN'S COLDS



PROVED BY 2 GENERATIONS

ISSUE DODGED BY ROOSEVELT, GLENN CHARGES

Assails Statement on Radical Groups.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Speaking today before crowds of Republicans in St. Clair and Madison counties, former United States Senator Otis F. Glenn said that President Roosevelt dodged the real issue in the recent White House statement regarding presidential distaste for support from any alien minded group or groups.

"The issue is not whether the New Deal caters to or takes orders from foreign political philosophers," Mr. Glenn said. "The fact remains that the President is surrounded by advisers, some of whom at least believe in the Russian form of government."

He Names Rexford Tugwell.

The former senator named Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and No. 1 man of influence with the President. He said that Tugwell has advocated scrapping the constitution and statutory laws of 150 years of American government.

Mr. Glenn, in speeches at Wood River, Edwardsville, Collinsville, and Belleville, called attention to his labor record when he was in the United States senate.

"As one of three members of the first congressional committee to report favorably on unemployment insurance, I think my labor record is, beyond question, good," Mr. Glenn said.

"I opposed and am still opposed to the St. Lawrence waterways treaty, because it would militate against American railroads, throw thousands of men and women out of work, and give Canada a voice over Lake Michigan, which is within the territorial bounds of the United States. I also recommend that this country stay clear of the league of nations and the world court."

Schnackenberg in Tour Party.

With Mr. Glenn on his downstate tour are Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago, Republican floor leader in the Illinois house; Judge Jesse R. Brown of Alton, Republican candidate for congress in the 22d district, and Arthur J. Bidwill, Republican candidate for state auditor. The party will work north from here this week and be in Little Egypt later on.

Mr. Schnackenberg declared that while Gov. Horner boasts the abolition of state property taxes, and pretends to believe that it has benefited the ordinary man, the wage earner or salaried man of moderate means recognizes a slight of hand performance in which a liquor tax, utilities tax, and sales tax nick him for four times the old property tax.

Schnackenberg predicted a Republican victory in county, state, and nation in November.

CRANKS CAR; DROPS GUN; KILLED.

James Bennett, 29 years old, 526 East 43d street, colored, a night watchman, was fatally wounded yesterday when his revolver dropped from his pocket and was discharged as he was cranking his automobile in a filling station at 47th street and Michigan avenue.

IMPOSING ARRAY OF STATESMEN TALK FOR G. O. P.

Speakers' List Notable; Landon Here Oct. 9.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

October is expected to find the west resounding with platform arguments by Republican speakers, great and small, who are being concentrated upon the pivotal battle ground regions. On Chicago day, Oct. 9, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas is to make one of the principal speeches of his campaign in the Chicago Stadium, when an old fashioned G. O. P. demonstration and rally is being planned.

By that date, Republican national headquarters said yesterday, it expects to have about 600 Republican men and women on the platform in 31 states of the western division, in addition to the speechmaking conducted by the state organizations in their local campaigns.

Gov. Landon is making his own schedules, and so is Frank Knox, his running mate. At Republican national headquarters, the speakers' bureau is arranging itineraries for prominent speakers, some of whom already are on tours, clustering them around the plans for the Landon addresses.

Vandenberg Popular Orator.

Among the prominent speakers, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is in great request from state organizations, and is to be sent to some of the political storm centers. Herbert Hoover is to make a series of speeches, beginning in early October, times and places still to be arranged. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, is to make three addresses on agricultural problems, the first to be at Waterloo, Ia., early next month.

Theodore Roosevelt Jr. is to make a 15 day tour of the west the first half of October, and has been scheduled for ten speeches. One of his appearances will be in Seattle, a storm center of Pacific coast racialism.

Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, according to present plans, is to keep inside Illinois in his campaigning. The party managers deem him of great strength to the national ticket in this state.

Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, who is campaigning for reëlection, is to be sent to several cities outside his state, as now planned. In 1934 Dickinson was chief speaker of the Republican forces in the fight against the New Deal in the congressional elections.

Whether Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will take the platform outside his own state for the Landon-Knox ticket is not yet decided. In his own Idaho campaign for reëlection he is talking for the Landon ticket.

In addition to headliners, the speakers' bureau has 516 others on its lists. Of these 296 are men and 220 are women. State campaign committees and local committees send requisitions for their services to national headquarters.

There are speakers qualified to talk on any given issue of importance in a community. Requests are pouring in for their services, most of them after Oct. 10, for the final four weeks' big swing. More than half of them, however, are already on the platform. In addition 50 sound trucks are touring the western states, stopping at villages and hamlets.

Ex-Cabinet Men in Field.

Several former cabinet members are to take to the platform—James R. Garfield, Arthur M. Hyde, Patrick J. Hurley, William W. Jardine, and James J. Davis. Among former senators on headquarters' speakers' list are Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for the senate from Illinois, and Charles S. Deneen of Illinois; Roscoe C. McCulloch and Simeon D. Fess, Ohio; James E. Watson, Indiana; Roscoe C. Patterson, Missouri, and George Moses, New Hampshire.

Several former governors in the Republican oratorical batteries include Henry J. Allen, Kansas; Wilbur M. Brucker, Michigan, now nominee for senator; Myers Y. Cooper, Ohio; Henry S. Caulfield, Missouri; David W. Davis, Idaho; Walter J. Kohler, Wisconsin; Samuel R. McKelvie, Nebraska; Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania; Frem D. Sampson, Kentucky; Dan Turner, Iowa, and Ben S. Paulen, Kansas.

Jeffersonian Democrats are speaking for the Landon-Knox ticket independently of the Republican national headquarters. Their headquarters are in St. Louis, Mo., where the National Jeffersonian Democrats have ex-Senator James A. Reed as head.

KNOX APPROVES U S. CONTINUING WESTERN RECLAMATION WORKS

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential nominee, assured an Arizona audience tonight a Landon-Knox administration would provide funds for new western reclamation projects.

The candidate's statement was made in an address at a party rally here.

"There is a whispering campaign going around in this great western section to the effect that if Gov. Landon is elected, all funds for new projects will be cut off," Knox said. "This is false. The Republican party intends to do no such thing."

MICHIGAN BOARD ORDERS RECOUNT IN SENATE VOTES

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Members of the state board of canvassers today formally ordered a state-wide recount of the vote cast for United States senator at last week's Democratic primary.

The board's action today followed filing last night of a petition by Louis B. Ward of Pontiac and Detroit, who apparently lost the senate nomination by aproximately 3,900 votes to Congressman Prentiss Brown of St. Ignace, whom Ward has characterized as the Roosevelt-Farley-Murphy "hand-picked" candidate.

Ward is the favorite of the National Union for Social Justice, whose president is the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Royal Oak radio priest. Father Coughlin supplied the $17,335 deposit necessary to assure a recount of the vote in all of the 3,467 precincts of the state.

THE VOLUNTEERS FORM A DETROIT CAMPAIGN UNIT

Built on Chicago Pattern with No Party Ties.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—THE VOLUNTEERS have organized in Detroit and will open offices here tomorrow to provide citizens of Michigan with an opportunity to save their country from a perpetuation of the New Deal.

JAMES K. WATKINS.

The organization will not confine its activities to the metropolitan area of Detroit, but will extend throughout the entire state as the campaign goes on. In Detroit alone the active membership in the drive is expected to exceed 50,000 workers.

Headquarters are being established in the Commerce building in the downtown district and will have for a telephone number the appropriate figure Randolph 1776.

Civic Leader in Charge.

The local drive will be headed by one of Detroit's leading citizens, James K. Watkins, attorney and former commissioner of police.

By temperament and experience, Mr. Watkins is well equipped for the task he has undertaken. He is president of the community fund, the coordinating agency for the city's numerous charities which annually raises upward of 2 million dollars to meet human needs here. During the banking troubles he headed the depositors' committee which sought to obtain justice in Washington for the small depositors in the two big national banks the government closed here and threw into federal receivership.

Other members of the committee already selected are William S. McDowell, Capt. Fred G. White, Henry L. Newman, J. Fred Lawton, and R. P. Fohey.

Vandenberg Praises Move.

"Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg declares this enlistment of volunteer workers to preserve American ideals is one of the most important movements of the campaign," Watkins said. "Any one interested in the Landon-Knox movement, no matter what his party affiliations, but who is an American citizen who wants to see the American form of constitutional government continued, is invited to join THE VOLUNTEERS."

"No one will be asked to contribute a nickel and no one will be paid a nickel for their services," Watkins explained. "This is purely an unselfish, patriotic, voluntary movement. It was founded on the patriotic ideal of providing an opportunity for American citizens to serve their country instead of seeking to get something out of it."

Viewed as Fertile Field.

That Detroit is a fertile field for enlistment of workers willing to make personal sacrifice of their time and abilities was evidenced by the primary election returns, Watkins said, in pointing out the trend to Republican ideals.

"The only reward for service in THE VOLUNTEERS is the reward of duty well done," Watkins added. "We want talented people, of course, but we will depend on people, too, who can only ring doorbells. We are anxious for ideas and will welcome any citizen and provide him or her with the best coöperation possible to help in this drive."

"Own Reward," Says McCormick.

"We have only forty-one days left in which to save our country," Chauncey McCormick, national chairman, declared. "People have been asking 'What can I do to help?' or 'Why doesn't some one do something?' This is the opportunity those people have been seeking.

"The principle of THE VOLUNTEERS is unselfish devotion to a national crusade.

"This is a movement to combat Farley's 5 billion dollar hog calling contest. We know that the voters of Michigan will show that they cannot be bought."

The purpose of the Detroit VOLUNTEERS organization, as explained by F. W. Blaisdell Jr., who will serve as secretary-treasurer, is the same as that of the parent group in Chicago.

Members of the music division of THE VOLUNTEERS reported yesterday that they are well received when they do their bit to tell the story of Landon and Knox.

Three from this department sang and played last night at rousing meetings. Ruth Colvin Friedlund, soprano, accompanied by Rhea M. Shelters, entertained the Republican Women's council at the Parkway hotel. Mrs. Maida Firmin Townsend, co-author of "Our Landon," sang at the Eighth ward VOLUNTEER rally at 745 East 79th street.

Mrs. Mabel Montgomery will be in charge of the program for VOLUNTEER night for the Thirteenth ward regular Republican organization this evening at 3305 West 63d street. Miss Jeane Adairr will address a women's meeting at 6918 Wentworth avenue at 2 o'clock this afternoon arranged by Mrs. Charles M. Woodman. Attorney Maurice Washer will discuss organization planning at a meeting of workers at 7700 South Michigan avenue this evening.

Mrs. Frank S. Hales, chairman of the Park Ridge VOLUNTEERS, reported yesterday that the organization recruited 250 new members last Saturday afternoon and evening, raising the total enrollment for that suburb to 700.

'THE TRUTH' BOWS TO ITS PUBLIC OF 40,000 READERS

"Puff Sheet" Is Paid For by State Workers.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—"The Truth" rolled off the presses of a newspaper here tonight, loaded with propaganda in behalf of President Roosevelt, Gov. Henry Horner, and the Democratic state candidates.

Assured of a circulation of 40,000, according to John J. Donoghue, assistant superintendent of the state department of printing, "The Truth" makes its appearance by virtue of a campaign by state employés, each of whom undertook to sell five subscriptions at one dollar each. The 40,000 figure would indicate that about 8,000 employés have done their bit—either by actually selling the subscriptions or by digging into their own pockets and producing five dollars.

Mechanically Well Done.

As an example of printing and makeup, "The Truth" is a personable venture in "puff sheets." Of standard size and containing eight pages, it has cartoons [pro-New Deal], photographs, and a number of campaign advertisments [aside from the "news" content]. There are no comic strips.

On page one, under a cryptic "Why?" appears an explanatory editorial stating that publication of "The Truth" was necessitated because "during the present campaign 'The Truth' is a stranger to columns of the great majority of the newspapers of the country . . . [which] have been systematically suppressing the truth about the doings of the national and the state administrations.

Story of Downstate Tours.

The "lead" story deals with the downstate campaign of the Democratic touring parties led by Gov. Horner and Senator James Hamilton Lewis. Another front page story quotes a radio broadcast by the governor last Sunday in which he stated that he did not "propose to adopt the tactics of certain character assassins who oppose us and who hope to win by mud-slinging."

Among the contributors to Volume One, Number One, is Charles Michelson, press agent for the Democratic national committee, who, writing under the caption, "Dispelling the Fog," attempts to show that most of the straw votes now being conducted, and which show a decided trend in behalf of Gov. Alf Landon, "eventually will swing clear around and forecast Roosevelt's victory."

ROOSEVELT VICTORY AND DISASTER SEEN BY NORMAN THOMAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, today predicted that President Roosevelt would win "very handily," but that after the New Deal the country would be plunged into a new "catastrophic depression." The new crises, he declared in a speech before the National Press club, will bring about either the "coöperative commonwealth" which he is advocating, or a Fascist dictatorship. Thomas said the New Deal was "coasting along on faith, hope, and charity, with the taxpayers paying for the charity."

Director of WPA Writers' Project Sued for Divorce

Clark H. Slover, state director of writers' projects under the WPA, enjoys a "substantial income" from investments in addition to his WPA salary of $350 a month, it was charged in a divorce bill filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Mrs. Gladys Slover, 5424 Cornell avenue. Mrs. Slover charges her husband with habitual drunkenness and with failure to support her after leaving her July 1. Her attorney, Harry S. Stark, said Slover is a graduate of Harvard university and a former instructor at the University of Chicago.

Rear Admiral Byrd Enters Sanitarium 'for a Rest'

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd came here today from his summer home in Maine to enter a sanitarium for "a ten days' or two weeks' rest." The explorer said he would go to Chicago tomorrow to fill a lecture engagement and then return here for a physical examination and rest. Byrd said he felt he needed to relax after a strenuous lecture tour this summer.

Austrian Count Sues for Alimony in Hollywood

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Permanent alimony sufficient to allow him to live "in the style and station to which he has been accustomed," was demanded by Count Rudolf von Stefenelli, Austrian nobleman, in a cross complaint for separate maintenance filed today against Constance Stefenelli. He said she bit and kicked him once, and knocked out a piece of a front tooth.

Lehman Dismisses Petition for Ouster of La Guardia

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Gov. Herbert Lehman dismissed today a petition asking the removal from office of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City. Robert Charles Moore of Forest Hills, N. Y., had charged the mayor with "gross incompetence and wilful waste of over $5,000,000" in connection with the Queens boulevard subway in New York City.

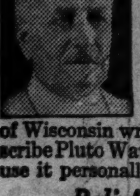
1 HOUR RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

that countless thousands of doctors have used and prescribed for years



Yes—when you need a laxative DO AS DOCTORS DO—and take no chances. Dr. V. N. of Michigan states: "I have used and prescribed Pluto Water for 40 years." Dr. H. A. O. of Wisconsin writes: "I not only prescribe Pluto Water almost daily—but use it personally."

Relief in 1 Hour

With Pluto there are no hours of overnight waiting, which allow dangerous poisons to be absorbed by the system, often resulting in that tired feeling—dull headaches—too often causing pimples, boils, colds.

Simply mix 1/5 of a glass of Pluto Water with 4/5 of a glass of hot water. You'll find this mixture pleasant, gentle, quick. It will give you a thorough bowel flush in 1 hour or less and you'll feel worlds better.

Try This Doctors' Way

Pluto Water is bottled at the famous French Lick Springs, Indiana. It is a non-habit-forming saline mineral water. Two hundred million bottles have already been used, largely on doctors' advice. Get Pluto from your druggist—either in the 25c size or the large 50c size which contains three times the quantity. In 1 hour or less, your constipation will be relieved and you'll feel like a million.

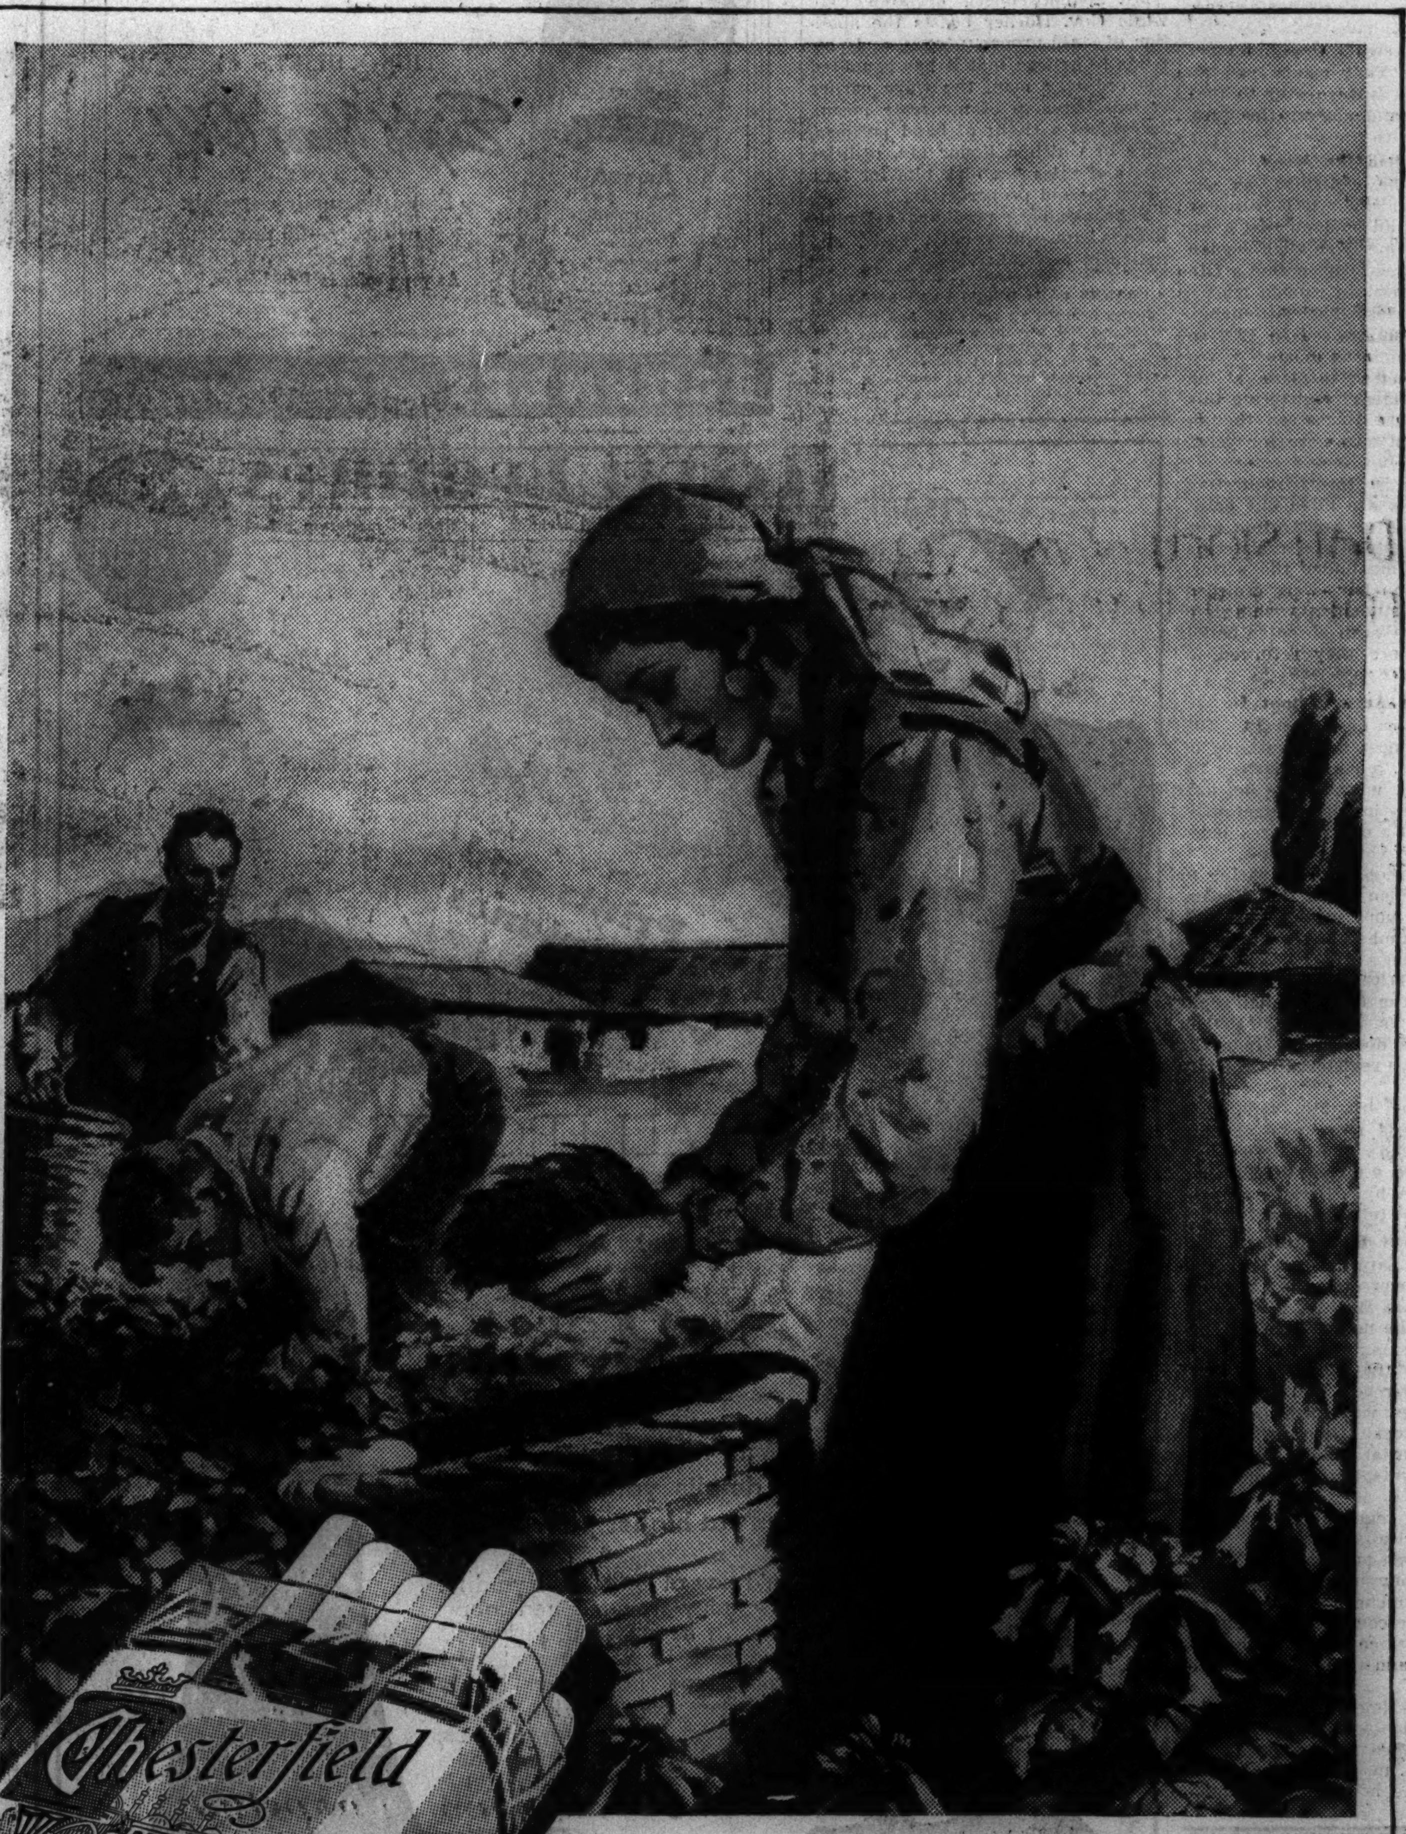
For hundreds of years the Persians have known the secret of fine flavor. In the dead of night a Persian "melon-diviner" may wake up his wealthy master to enjoy the perfect melon—picked by lamplight at its exact moment of full maturity.

The Secret of Fine Flavor..

Like the Persian melon, the Turkish tobaccos used in Chesterfield are watched day and night.

There is just one right time to take off the leaves...that's when they have ripened to their fullest flavor.

Often the tender ripe leaves are gathered just before the dawn...to preserve the full "spice" and aroma for Chesterfield.



From our own Southland we take mild, ripe tobaccos chock-full of Southern sunshine; then we go 4000 miles to the fertile shores of the Mediterranean for the fine flavor and aroma of Turkish tobaccos. These tobaccos give Chesterfields their milder better taste.

HULL IS QUOTED IN DEFENSE OF LANDON'S VIEW

Hamilton's Novel Tactics Nip Robinson's Charge.

John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, has extracted from a speech by Secretary of State Cordell Hull an answer to Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, New Deal floor leader, who criticized Gov. Alf M. Landon's speech at Portland just before the Republican sweep in Maine. Mr. Hamilton is in the east, but his statement was issued last night in Chicago through the Republican national committee. It said:

"In this address at Portland Gov. Landon, speaking of the London economic conference of 1933, told how 'the nations of the world were assembled . . . for the specific purpose of reversing the trend toward economic nationalism and war.'

Collapse Laid to President.

"The Republican nominee added that the conference failed of its purpose 'because the President of the United States turned his back upon this international coöperative effort.'

"Answering Gov. Landon, Senator Robinson, Mr. Roosevelt's floor leader in the senate, said that 'the Republican nominee should either make clear his meaning when he asserted that the administration's policies mean war, or he should withdraw and apologize for it.'

"Senator Robinson, with that peculiar disregard which is apparently a New Deal organization characteristic, should have called for a bit of research help from the Democratic national committee.

From Speech to U. S. C. of C.

"Had he done so he would probably have been advised that on May 11, 1936, before the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Cordell Hull, secretary of state in the Roosevelt administration, delivered an address in which he said:

"'Economic distress quickly translates itself into social instability and political unrest. Nations are tempted to seek escape from distress at home in military adventures beyond their frontiers. Each step in the armament race bristles with the new menace of economic disorganization and destruction, multiplies fear for the future, dislocates normal constructive processes of economic life, and leads to greater and greater impoverishment of the world's population.'

It's Up to Hull or Robinson.

"Does Senator Robinson desire to offer to Gov. Landon an apology or does he think it better to issue a denial of the conclusions reached by the secretary of state in the quotation I have set out? One thing is certain, either Mr. Hull should come to Mr. Landon's defense or Senator Robinson should make the apology."

A business woman's massmeeting for the Landon-Knox ticket is to be held tomorrow night in the Auditorium hotel on call of the Landon Business Women's league, unit No. 3.

BROOKS INSISTS ON LAWS TO PROTECT FARMERS' MARKETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Speaking eight times in the Illinois farm country where he was born and spent his youth, Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor, today demanded adequate protection for the market of the American farmer and assailed the relief and old age assistance programs of the present state administration.

Throughout his tour today Brooks was greeted by persons who knew him and his family. Among them were Democrats who pledged their support of the Republican ticket in the present campaign. Brooks and William J. Stratton, Republican candidate for secretary of state, were told that Republicans in this area are seeking not only victory but a record Republican vote to mark the swing of Illinois from the New Deal.

At Rock Island Brooks conferred with George N. Peek, agricultural leader, on the farm problem, and tonight he received added reports of Republican progress from Omer Custer, former state treasurer, at Galesburg.

Brooks attacked the New Deal crop destruction and tarif program in addresses today.

"They tell us that wheat is at a new high," he said. "But what Illinois farmer has wheat to sell? We plowed up our fields to create high prices and then turned over the benefits to Canadian and Argentine farms under tarif agreements made by one man without consulting congress.

"If we are going to have high prices, let's keep the benefits at home. Let's protect the American market for Americans."

Brooks characterized the present pension act in Illinois as a "pauper system placed on our elderly citizens."

NEW DEAL 'FALSE PROSPERITY' HIT IN DE PRIEST TALK

Kansas City, Kas., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Oscar De Priest, Chicago Negro Republican leader, asserted today the Roosevelt administration has created a "false prosperity," and predicted a Republican landslide in the November election.

Speaking at a Negro emancipation rally, the former member of congress denounced what he said were administration attempts to make the voters believe that Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee, would discontinue relief.

"Gov. Landon will furnish relief so long as it is necessary, and don't let any one tell you differently," he said. "But under the leadership of Gov. Landon relief will not be needed long."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Honey Harvested

THE first crop of honey—70 pounds—was harvested this week from the little apiary now being established at the Tribune's Wheaton Experimental farm. Honey was extracted from only two supers removed from one hive. The other hive is filled with a new colony of bees and the honey was left for winter.

A centrifugal machine was used to extract the honey. The frames with combs loaded with honey were taken from the supers, the caps of the cells containing honey cut off with a spatula, and then with the centrifugal machine practically all of the honey was removed. The combs with residue honey left in the cells was returned to the supers for the bees to feed on.

The honey was stored in a room where the temperature is about 100 degrees Fahrenheit. It will be left there a few days so the honey will warm up and become thin enough to be easily strained. After straining it will be stored in stone jars.

Only the Bees Get Stung

The honey was removed "without a sting," according to the apiarist's report. He found that the bees are not inclined to sting him if carefully handled.

In fact, he points out, it is "suicide" for the bee that stings you. When a bee stings it actually sacrifices its own life in an effort to protect the colony. Authorities explain that the structure of the bee's sting is such that once it is thrust into the flesh the bee cannot withdraw it, and in trying to get away the bee loses its sting and tears itself internally, causing its death.

The caretakers of the Wheaton farm bees already have discovered that the bees are always more cross on cool, cloudy days than on warm, bright days. They picked a sunny day to take out the honey. This may explain why they did their work without being stung.

Black has been found to irritate bees more than any other color. It was for this reason that the men who did the actual work of handling the bees and running the extractor wore long white coats. Ordinarily the honey is extracted away from the apiary to avoid having the bees swarm around the honey, but to accommodate THE TRIBUNE photographer the extracting was done near the hive.

Apiaries Pay on a Farm

Men at the farm are convinced that bees pay their way and that good farmers should keep a few hives. The bees played an important part this year in fertilizing the flowers in the garden and on the fruit trees near by. One hive producing seventy pounds of honey at 20 cents a pound more than paid the original cost of $10. The honey inside the hive was not touched. There is plenty of store left to carry the bees through the winter.

The apiarist points out that wild bees are scarce in this section of the country, and that an apiary is necessary to insure fertilization of flowers on the farm. It is his impression that wild bees are gradually decreasing in number because there are few hollow trees for them to live in.

TROOPS CALLED IN MINNEAPOLIS STRIKE DISORDER

Governor Acts After Plea from Sherif.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Gov. Hjalmar Petersen tonight ordered mobilization of the Minnesota National Guard in preparation for any emergency arising out of the city's milling strike as violence flared again at a linseed plant.

The governor called a conference of strike leaders for 9 a. m. tomorrow in a final effort to reëstablish order without the aid of troops.

Simultaneously a picket identified as Elton Larson was severely beaten on the head tonight by five unidentified men and dumped from an automobile a block from the Archer-Daniels-Midland company, where a large crowd of striking elevator workers and sympathizers had assembled.

Crowd Becomes Unruly.

As fellow pickets rushed the victim to a hospital, the crowd became unruly. Then a barrage of stones drummed on the already broken windows and buildings of the linseed products plant where one man was shot in the eye during disorder yesterday.

Gov. Petersen, who devoted the afternoon and evening to conferences with Minneapolis business men and union representatives, returned to the capitol in St. Paul tonight for a consultation with military aids before making his decision.

Previously Sherif John Wall of Hennepin county presented the governor with a formal petition asking troop aid in the labor dispute, which has seriously crippled Minneapolis' milling industry, because the "situation is out of control."

Col. J. E. Nelson, acting adjutant general, and Col. F. D. McCarthy, judge advocate general, were in conference with the governor tonight.

When calling tomorrow's conference in the executive offices of the state capitol Gov. Petersen said:

"In the meantime I have directed Col. Nelson to mobilize and hold in readiness a sufficient force of the National Guard to meet any emergency."

Statement by Sherif.

"As sherif," said Wall in his petition to the governor, "I have tried, with the force which I have available, to maintain law and order. In addition to my regular forces I have deputized a number of citizens. . . . I have not met with success.

"Rioting has been rampant in Minneapolis. A number of business houses are closed and a large number of citizens who apparently are not concerned with the strike or strikes desire to work and are prevented from doing so by threats of violence and, in some instances, by actual violence. . . . The existing situation, in my opinion, constitutes an emergency."

Raymond La Mere, an electrician, was shot as he operated a searchlight on the roof of the factory building around which more than 100 pickets gathered last night to remain until almost daylight. Physicians said he would recover but would lose the sight of one eye.

Two Deputies Injured.

Two of the other men injured during a bout of fisticuffs with the strikers were special deputy sherifs, ten of whom have been on duty at the plant since it reopened under police protection a week ago. They were treated at the plant hospital. The fourth man was Dick Foster, a picket, who was cut on the face and treated at a city hospital.

During the night the pickets were blamed for two fires which started in an oil shed and a dust shed on the company premises. City firemen extinguished one of the blazes but the other destroyed the oil shed. Several windows in the plant were smashed by stones.

Reopened After Walkout.

The linseed plant was closed recently after employés walked out. They are members of the flour, feed, cereal, and elevator workers' union, and are demanding salary adjustments and union recognition. The plant reopened last week with a skeleton staf.

The strike of the cereal workers has tied up some forty elevators and milling plants, leaving only one or two operating on a part time basis. Another strike, that of the truck drivers for wholesale grocery and chain store warehouses, has continued for more than a month and some 33 retail stores have been closed because it was impossible to obtain supplies. To date there has been little violence.

Girl, 7, Runs a Splinter in Foot; Dies of Lockjaw

Delores Obenauf, 7 years old, daughter of Adolph Obenauf, a farmer living four miles west of Mundelein in Lake county, died yesterday in St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan of lockjaw. U. S. METHODIST LEADERS MEET HERE ON PLANS Fostering of Class Conflict Decried.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The main functions of the Christain church were described yesterday as the preservation of the right of individual persons to expand their powers and to protect such persons against political or other forms of autocracy.

BISHOP F. T. KEENEY.

This statement of the business of the church was presented to 60 national leaders of American Methodism at the Methodist Book concern, 740 Rush street, by the Rev. Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer of New York, a church missions official. The meeting, an all day conference of national officers of the church, was called to perfect plans for the development of the Million Unit fellowship which was ordered at Columbus, O., last May by the church's general conference.

Decries Urge to Conflict.

Dr. Diffendorfer pronounced the keynote of yesterday's conference. He pointed out the main line of emphasis of the Million fellowship set up as a post depression reconstruction program. Those in any group, religious or political, who preach class conflict or war were condemned.

"Just and democratic means," Dr. Diffendorfer asserted, "should be invoked in leveling off the greater inequalities of fortune and in evolving greater measures of social justice. Love, not hate, shall be our message to the world."

Bishop Frederick T. Keeney, formerly head of the Atlanta, Ga., area of the church, who has moved to Chicago to assume personal charge over the work of the Million fellowship, said that Christianity offers a way toward social peace which no dictators of today seem to have discovered.

Criticizes Under Modesty.

He criticized the church for being "too modest" in making its message known to the world, but asserted that while the immediate prospect holds little but stress and conflict, distant views show the future as belonging to men of religious faith.

The Million movement was not launched formally yesterday. That event will take place at Scranton, Pa., during the week of Nov. 10, when the board of bishops is to meet with world service officials.

Political Leaders in Peru Take to Planes in Vote Race

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 22.—Traveling in a plane piloted by Thomas Jardine of Madison, Wis., President Oscar Raimundo Benavides arrived here today from Chiclayo after a three day visit to oil fields and other points in the north. The trip emphasized the big changes in Peruvian political procedure caused by aviation. During the last three weeks Jorge Prado, presidential candidate of the Liberal parties in the coming October elections, has flown to the remotest sections of Peru in conducting his campaign.

'SITDOWN' STRIKE CLOSES GOODRICH RUBBER CO. PLANT

Akron, O., Sept. 23 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—The B. F. Goodrich Rubber company plant was ordered closed early this morning by T. G. Graham, vice president, pending settlement of a series of "sitdown" strikes at the plant since Monday.

More than 2,000 workers on the shift reporting at midnight were immediately thrown into idleness, pending a conference scheduled at 9:30 a. m. today between officials of the United Rubber Workers of America and Goodrich officials. The plant employs 10,000 on its four six-hour shifts.

A "sitdown" in the braided hose department Monday started the trouble when union men objected to nonunionists repairing a machine, Sherman H. Dalrymple, president of the Rubber Workers' International, said.

Canadian Church Votes to Ordain Women Ministers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 22.—Ordination of women as ministers of the United Church of Canada, in which are joined Presbyterians, Methodists, and Congregationalists, is overwhelmingly favored, a test church poll made public today shows. The matter may be taken up at a general council meeting in Ottawa tomorrow.

It's the cast that makes any show a success. It's the cast that draws the crowd. The stronger the cast, the greater the attraction. An All-Star Cast has the strongest pull of all. Henry Irving or E. H. Sothern playing in Hamlet meant box office successes; Caruso in Pagliacci assured a packed house from the pit to the gallery. There is magnetism in the stars.

Jiggs & Maggie, Popeye, Tillie, Skippy, the Katzenjammer Kids, Flash Gordon, Barney Google, Toots & Casper, the Little King and Company are the original and only All-Star Cast in "comics".

Check the readership of Puck—The Comic Weekly in New York City or San Francisco... in Millis, Massachusetts or Milledgeville, Georgia. Everywhere it goes, this same All-Star Cast holds the rapt attention of men, women and children—young and old alike.

In nearly six million homes Puck—The Comic Weekly is read by the whole family. (A recent survey again confirms this.) Its intensely human portrayal of the basic themes of life, literature and drama—laughs, loves, thrills and tears—have held the interest of the nation for three generations. This is the longest run ever known in the entire field of entertainment.

Full page advertisements in Puck—The Comic Weekly capture the same degree of interest developed editorially by the All-Star Cast. Experienced advertisers are successfully using the same editorial technique to sell their products to this responsive family group.

Remember, it's the cast that makes the comics. The one and only All-Star Cast is in Puck—The Comic Weekly. It's your surest guarantee of star pulling power.

7 REASONS WHY Puck—The Comic Weekly is a logical Basic Advertising Medium

1 The Broadest Base in Advertising Puck—The Comic Weekly provides the broadest single base upon which to build a comprehensive national advertising program—nearly six million families—more than 20,000,000 potential readers. Puck—The Comic Weekly comes nearest to being America's all-sufficient advertising medium.

2 Medium-in-Motion. It does more than merely expose advertisements to this vast audience—it presents them in an environment which makes reading inevitable.

3 The Largest Single-Medium Whole-Family Circulation. Besides the normal adult readership in nearly six million homes, Puck—The Comic Weekly has from ten to fifteen million juvenile readers, a million of whom will become heads of families each year.

4 Low Cost Per Family Reached. A big 4-color page (14⅜" x 19⅝"), 2½ times the size of the standard national weekly magazine page, costs only 3 mills per family. This rate is low for Puck—The Comic Weekly's adult circulation alone, without considering the millions of juveniles who constitute a continuous circulation bonus.

5 Concentration in Best Buying Areas. Puck—The Comic Weekly reaches an average of 42.4% of all families in 627 out of the 995 key cities of 10,000 or more population. In these 995 key cities 70% of all the nation's retail sales are made.

6 One Policy—One Make-Up. Puck—The Comic Weekly is one publication—not seventeen. It has one editorial policy—one cast of characters—one make-up—one quality of printing.

7 Maximum Visibility—Minimum Competition. Each advertisement in Puck—The Comic Weekly receives spotlight position—the number of advertisements per issue is limited, thus assuring each advertiser maximum attention.

THE PLANNED FAMINE.

What happened to farmers in Russia under the planned economy, so favorably regarded by Mr. Roosevelt and his intimates, was explained to our readers the other day. But the worst was not told for lack of space. That was the planned famine, planned to force the Russian farmers to submit to the plans of the soviet government.

The ordeal of the Russian farmers began early after the establishment, with their help, of the so-called dictatorship of the proletariat. The alliance they had entered with the industrial workers did not work for them as they had hoped. Power had been given doctrinaires who were interested in forming a great industrial state in which the farmers were exploited to feed the urban populations and support the plans of the bolshevik rulers, whatever they were. To support these plans the farmers were taxed to the verge of destitution. When they needed in lean seasons virtually all they could produce for their own sustenance they were invaded by the collectors of the central government, backed as it was by the Red army and police, and their produce was taken from them, some of it to be exported to foreign countries to pay for machinery for the state industries.

That is a long and tragic story and, like Mr. Roosevelt's scarcity, though with ghastly results, it "was planned that way." The tragedy reached its darkest depths in the planned famine which culminated in 1933. In southern and southeastern Russia, one of the richest natural food producing regions of the world, millions died of undernourishment and outright starvation. The frightful conditions were not known to the world because the government applied an iron censorship and foreign correspondents were not allowed to go to the scene or even to leave Russia to tell what they had learned. So there was no foreign help as in the great famine of 1921-'22. That would not have been permitted, for this was a planned famine, planned to bring the farmers to their knees.

"Of the historic responsibility of the soviet government," says Chamberlain in "Russia's Iron Age," the most authoritative work in English on bolshevik Russia, written by a man who lived through it all, "for the famine of 1932-'33 there can be no reasonable doubt. In contrast to its policy in 1921-'22, it stifled any appeal for foreign aid by denying the very fact of the famine and by refusing to foreign journalists the right to travel in the famine regions until it was all over. Famine was quite deliberately employed as an instrument of national policy as the last means of breaking the resistance of the peasantry to the new system, where they are divorced from personal ownership of the land and are obliged to work on the conditions which the state may dictate to them and deliver up whatever the state may demand from them."

And he adds: "The soviet government could easily have averted the famine from its own resources if it had desired to do so. A complete cessation of the export of foodstuffs in 1932 or the diversion of a small amount of foreign currency to the purchase of grain and provisions would have achieved this end. The soviet attitude was pretty adequately summed up by Mr. Mezhuev, president of the Poltava soviet, who said to me: 'To have imported grain would have been injurious to our prestige. To have let the peasants keep their grain would have encouraged them to go on producing little.'"

So millions of men, women, and children of the farms died in order to fool the world into thinking the communist experiment was prospering and to encourage our Roosevelts, Tugwells, and Wallaces to preach a planned economy for American freemen. Our first taste of the planned economy has not been a pleasant one. The Russian farmer knows what it can be. Its advocates in America do not intend any such tragedy as the Russian farmer suffered. Neither did its Russian advocates foresee it. But when their power was at stake and their system in danger they planned and carried out the massacre of millions to save themselves and their doctrins. The American planners are all smilers. Their plans wear a smiling face. But so did the system they admire, until it was put to the test. The American farmer can have the planned economy under its American name, the New Deal. It is ready for them in Moscow and in Washington.

THE ABUSE OF PAROLE.

The recent convention in Chicago of the American Prison association heard kind words about the parole system from Attorney General Margiotti of Pennsylvania and Gov. Horner of Illinois. Mr. Margiotti advocated clemency, parole, and probation for minor offenders and those who seemed most likely to make good if released. Gov. Horner said the average term served in Illinois penitentiaries had been lengthened under the indeterminate sentence law. He said that if a parolee goes wrong it is not the fault of the system, but merely an evidence that the parole or probation officer used bad judgment.

All of which sounds well, but overlooks the plain fact that the indeterminate sentence and parole are all too frequently used to speed the release of professional criminals. Where the criminal and the politician are in alliance, as they are in all too many states, the parole board becomes a most useful agency for the purposes of both partners. Soft hearted and soft headed citizens forget that parole laws are frequently administered with something other than scientific detachment. A humanitarian camouflage can and frequently does conceal a vicious attack upon the safety of life and property in the community.

AN OLD BRITISH CUSTOM.

Great Britain has the sympathy of its well wishers because it is supposed to be uneasy in Palestine. Its problem seems to be distracting beyond—if not endurance—at least the resources of even gifted statesmanship. There are, however, persons who doubt that the British government is half as disturbed as might be thought. Still, the problem is a tough one.

There in Palestine is a mandate plainly undertaken in the interests of humanity. It contains the Arabs, whom the British, inspired by Lawrence of Arabia, were to deliver from Turkish oppression and grant the blessings of free nationality. The Arabs fell somewhat short of their expectations, as a great many other submerged wards of the allies did. Higher reasons of state could not relinquish Arabian possessions when they could be converted into colonies or spheres of influence for the victors.

Palestine also was to be devoted to the Zionist cause and prepared to receive Jews who might seek to return to what they regarded as their fatherland. With traditional altruism the British undertook to make the Arabs happy and to give the Jewish people a new homeland. It might have foreseen that if the Jewish people migrated in sufficient numbers and bought Arab land there would be a conflict between the newcomers and the people who were there. That struggle is now in progress and it is a violent one.

Arabs are killing Jews and Jews are trying to defend themselves. The British policemen and soldiers do not have the best of success in handling bands of assassins who raid Jewish communities and ambush travelers. Day to day the situation does not improve and the British are being held responsible for what is happening. The Arabs demand that Jewish migration be stopped. The British government makes no decision as to that, neither saying that it will be nor that it will not be. The Jewish people demand that a sufficient force be used to protect them and punish their assailants and the British have not made a satisfactory answer to them.

Apparently there is here another instance of the celebrated muddling which has somehow carried the British flag over so large an expanse of the world's surface in the last 300 years. The most bunglesome statesmanship has had the most curious and illogical consequences. The British prime minister or the minister for foreign affairs for generation after generation is found at some country place taking his ease when he ought to be in his office barking out orders and pounding his desk. And as a result of his never knowing what is going on until it is too late to do anything about it a new garrison is established some place and a subaltern is seeing that the men make it snappy. Some bewildered natives are changing their customs to make them acceptable to nice old ladies back in England who sit by their fire of sea coals, knit, and pet the cat. The rest of the world looks at the incident and wonders how in the name of Sturm and Drang the doggone thing happened.

It is observed that Great Britain has had to make many concessions to a restless Egypt, requiring a shift of position for the protection of far eastern interests. A shift to Palestine would be the logical grand strategy, but the mandate does not permit the fortification of this region as a great air, naval, and military base. But if disorders in Palestine become such that humanity requires the exercise of full authority, backed up by sufficient force, the league of nations may see that Great Britain must make another sacrifice and plant itself firmly in another Gilbraltar. It will be muddling again, but Mussolini and Hitler might watch the proceedings to discover how a point of international morality can be developed in a field of national interest. They then might be less astonished than Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who inevitably will be the most astonished man in the world.

IN GRAND RAPIDS, TOO.

[Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press.]

The situation in which Mississippi finds itself—unable to procure laborers to pick cotton because of the competition of government WPA jobs—was described in these columns Monday. Mississippi is a long way off and perhaps the impression is slight on local minds.

But we don't have to go to Mississippi to note the effects of government paternalism on the attitude of workers. Similar examples may be found right here in Grand Rapids.

A local furniture manufacturer while being interviewed by a Grand Rapids Press reporter last week happened to glance out the window and noted a former employe at work on a PWA job just outside the factory. The manufacturer recalled the man was a good workman and that he needed just such a man in the department in which the worker formerly had been employed.

So the manufacturer went outside and offered the man a job with a promise of steady employment. But the WPA worker turned down the offer. He was afraid to go back into private industry, he intimated, where he would be pitted against the skill of others in the earning of his wage.

When this worker formerly was employed in the plant he earned $25 to $30 a week and could do so again. As a WPA worker his wage is about $65 a month, and in addition, it is understood, he receives an allotment from a son who is in a CCC camp. The difference between the wage he might earn in private industry and the amount which he now receives from the government is not great.

"He has reached the attitude of mind," the manufacturer observed, "in which he believes the government will continue to care for him somehow and he is satisfied." The competition of the WPA "prevailing wage" standard, it seems, is keeping the relief rolls here padded with workers who could just as well find jobs in private industry.

No matter who wins the election in November, this is a situation which must be looked into before it is too late. No administration in Washington can go on paying men who decline jobs offered them at decent wages in private industry. For that is not relief—it is tragic indolence, making chronic the very ills which relief seeks to alleviate. And the instance cited above undoubtedly could be multiplied many times in this city and elsewhere.

OLD DOC HAD A PATIENT.

Whenever I think of my Hometown in South Dakota I recall a wizened little man who was always addressed as Doc Cronleigh. . . . About 1900 a neighbor found that one of his cows apparently was dying, and asked Cronleigh what to about it. Acting the part of the good neighbor, Cronleigh examined the beast and decided that she was hungry; couldn't eat because one of her teeth was too long and didn't meet the others. Seizing a pair of pliers and slipping a twitch on Bossie's nose, he snicked out the offending incisor. Whereupon the cow recovered. . . . In a short time the fame of Doc Cronleigh spread all over the town. Never, thereafter, did he do a lick of work. His wife was the breadwinner and often helped at our house when we were having company. I can see her yet, scrubbing the kitchen and talking a blue streak about "the doctor." . . . It seemed that he never did anything but sit in front of his house and gaze admiringly on the sign his own pride and the too seriously taken wit of the town smart alecks had caused him to put up:

What fame, when we consider that his practice in bovine orthodontia and exodontia was limited to one case! Jimmie of the Health Service.

I watched her clip the poems
She read from day to day;
Then chanced upon the scrapbook
Where she kept them stored away.

And lay a human heart quite bare,

Here I am wondering what meaning can be attached to the letter sent to our firm from a company in New Haven, with a sub-address: "Attention of Mrs. Lamback, Corset Buyer." That isn't her name. Do you think we should lamback?

M. Beifus.

REALLY, MERE COBWEBS.

There is little to brag about in the Iowa corn crop this year. So many of the ears are proving to be nubbins. Zeke Stubbins was telling me this morning that the average cob yields barely half a cord of firewood and it looks like there won't be a single one that will produce over a cord and a quarter. Of course, the cobs have good length and make pretty fair telephone poles if you dip them in tar. I. O. Way.

THE LAST MOSQUITO.

Villainous insect, bloodthirsty mite,
Why select my epidermis to bite?
I crave only peace and the leisure to dream
Of my love in an atmosphere calm and serene
Ignoring all others, with ruthless aplomb
You gracefully circle above my nude dome.
Already your buzz has a triumphant ring;
Enjoying the game, you withhold your sting.
With murderous eyes, I follow your flight,
Determined to squash you whene'er you alight.
But, alas, from my crack you mockingly veer,
And, glutted, live on to pursue your career.
While I, in a fury, must futilely snatch,

SHORTCAKE A LA GRANDMA.

Elmer's in town. He came to visit me and I'm going to bring him over to see you. We've had a great time talking over the old days and I have taken him out both nights so far to see the city. . . . Elmer can't get used to the food served here. He complained last night about the strawberry shortcake served in a loop hotel. They made it with some sponge cake and two or three berries crushed in sugar—the kind of berries we called "seedlings" down in South Carolina. . . . It wasn't at all like the old fashioned shortcake Grandma made. She used to send one of the boys out to the field for a berry. Then, after she had washed it, she would scoop out some of the inside, mix up a lot of whipped cream, drop a few buttermilk biscuits down in the hollow, pour in the cream and sugar and put the tip back on. One of the big boys would be assigned to tote it into the ice chest. At supper we'd just let all the kids eat shortcake right off the platter. Elmer got sick one night trying to clean up the plate after the others were all through. Grandpa never cared for shortcake. He would take a slice of berry and sprinkle a handful of corn flakes over it—that was the only way I ever saw him eat a strawberry. . . . Elmer says he will go back with me to visit the old homestead beside the Great Swamp.

AN OLD FASHIONED REMEDY FOR BURNS.

It is desirable that every one should know a few simple facts about first aid. There is some danger, however, that we may become so confused with the multiplicity of conflicting directions and remedies that much time is lost at a period when minutes count.

One of the most disastrous accidents is a serious burn, and we probably have not forgotten how much relief we obtained as youngsters by holding a burned finger under the cold water tap. The harm caused by fire is similar to that resulting from intense cold [freezing]. The amount of skin destroyed is dependent upon the degree of exposure to flame or frost, and healing will proceed as it would after a wound or an infection. Dead tissues will slough away and be replaced by scar tissue or, if the burn is not deep, by normal skin. All that any one can do is to aid in restoring circulation, decrease the amount of pain, and relieve the intense pressure caused by swelling as inflammation advances.

In a recent study H. W. Rose has made a strong case for the use of cold water as an ideal initial treatment of burns. If the damaged surface covers but a small part of the body, cold wet packs are employed. In the event of extensive destruction, the patient is placed in a tub where the body lies completely submerged and cold water is permitted to flow at a slow rate. He finds that pain is eased within a few seconds without an opiate, and that patients in shock recover far more quickly as evidenced by the fact that a weak, feeble pulse will become slower and stronger. The blood pressure rises and the patient's color, at first blanched and pasty, resumes its normal appearance.

One of the great dangers in burns is due to what is called shock. This condition comes on because of pain, the rapid absorption of chemicals from the destroyed skin, and from the loss of fluid. In fact, many severely burned persons may die before this nervous reaction can be combated. A burn involving half the body has generally been regarded as fatal—not from the injury of tissue so much as from this intangible thing—shock.

We can understand how great the fluid loss may be because of the marked dilatation of capillaries in the burned region itself. This means that not only should the patient be immersed in cold water, but fluids should be given by mouth and a blood transfusion carried out while he is still in the tub.

Rose's plan of treatment includes a gradual warming of the water as rapidly as the pain sensations of the patient will permit. The water is started at about 60 degrees Fahrenheit and, by the beginning of the third hour, is about the normal body temperature, namely, 98.6 degrees. Not until pain becomes manifest is morphine administered.

After immersion—for the first hour or so—the victim is not disturbed. No attempt is made to remove clothing, dead tissue, or dirt. This is attended to only after he has been made comfortable and the symptoms of shock have decreased. Then and then only is he removed from the tub, at which time the body is cleaned, rinsed with sterile water, and the skin dried with warm air. With the sufferer on a sterile sheet, the tannic acid spray or the ferric acid coagulation plan is then used.

The practical application of the method is within the reach of almost every one. A bathtub is usually available, and after the removal of outer clothing the patient can be placed in cold water long before the physician or the ambulance arrives. In many cases it is far wiser to leave the patient in the bath than to transport him some distance to a hospital. Hospitals should have in their emergency rooms a large sized tub so that no bending of the body of the patient is required. A sponge rubber pillow can be attached by suction to the head of the tub, and many of these unfortunates will fall into a natural sleep—a sovereign remedy for shock. If the water is flowing continuously it should be at a gentle rate, so as not to agitate burned areas of skin.

ACID SCARS.

J. O. writes: I have been working in a factory for years, cleaning metal with acid. I have tiny holes in my face, caused by the acid spray. How can I remove these holes?

REPLY.

Your scars, in all probability, cannot be repaired unless you are willing to submit to skin grafts.

You can prevent future burns by applying olive oil or some fatty ointment to the skin of the face each morning.

CAUSE OF CANCER.

S. C. writes: I have a sarcoma on the upper thigh. What may have caused this cancer, and what treatment is best?

REPLY.

Just why cancer starts is not known. Injury, however, undoubtedly plays an important rôle. If the growth is in the early stages it can be successfully treated by means of radium, X-ray, or surgery.

BUTTERMILK.

E. S. writes: Has buttermilk the same value as milk?

REPLY.

Buttermilk made from whole milk—fermented with lactic acid bacilli—possesses practically the same composition. The residue from churned cream [buttermilk] contains but little fat.

RUSSIAN INTEREST IN AN AMERICAN ELECTION.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Have you seen this?

In several places I saw large cartoons of President Hoover entitled in English, "The Fathead of the White House," and just as many pictures [not cartoons] of President Roosevelt [who was then running for election] entitled "The Next Communist President of the United States."

During the month that I was in Russia it was quite evident wherever I went that President Hoover was thoroughly hated and that Russia had pinned her hopes for recognition on President Roosevelt.

It is from page 28 of Kapoot, by Carveth Wells. J. H. H.

QUOTATIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—I wonder how many of your readers will be taken in by Robert N. Golding's articles.

This trick of proving that Roosevelt, Stalin, Tugwell, Mussolini, Lenin, and Hitler have a common purpose by tearing paragraphs, sentences, and even words out of their contexts has been used often by demagogs and charlatans to prove untrue statements.

By using the same methods I am sure that Robert Golding can "prove" the following:

1. That The Tribune is bolshevistic and is subsidized by Moscow.
2. That the pope of Rome is an atheist.
3. That George Washington was a British agent.
4. That Hitler loves the Jews and the Jews love Hitler.
5. That Mussolini is a pacifist.
6. That the Liberty league and the Ku Klux Klan want democracy and constitutional government in the United States.

However, I do not expect you to print this letter, for is not your purpose to deceive your readers? J. Primack.

HIDDEN TAXES.

East Boston, Mass., Sept. 17.—It is not surprising that the dealers of the New Deal should object to having the wage earning voter shown how the hidden taxes soak up his wages.

The engineers of this New Deal know that their political life depends upon the ignorance of those whose pockets they are picking.

The one thing needed to turn out these wasters of our resources is to show the working producer how, under this new dispensation, his wage is confiscated and how it is squandered. F. W. Merrick.

NOT FOR SALE.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Let's all take down our hair and have a good cry with Mr. James [Can't Take It] Farley over the Maine sinking fund.

The few thousands which the Republicans spent in comparison to the hundred million the New Deal sunk in endeavoring to bring a rock-ribbed Republican state into the New Deal circus a self-respecting chicken would disdain as feed. After spending that much money we owe it to Jim to cry with him over the lack of gratitude of those Yankees.

For, you see, there's also another consideration. The money the Republicans spent in Maine was their own. The millions the New Dealers spent was ours, too! M. P. C.

FACTS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 16.—You will have to think of something better than "Facts for Housewives" in today's Tribune to try to fool the people.

Would we be buying pork chops now at 17 cents a pound if the hogs had not been slaughtered?

Also, go back farther in comparing prices. When Roosevelt took office people were lucky if they had 17 cents. Again I say you will have to think of something better.

Mrs. Eernest Johnson.

THE ELECTIONS INTERPRETED.

Bay View, Mich., Sept. 17.—The election events of the last few days have brought home forcefully and emphatically that you cannot buy elections in America. The American people vote for men, not machines; steam rollers may roll, but the voter rolls his own; principle is still above party, and the famous words of Abraham Lincoln are still the truest words ever spoken. Big Jim Farley, growling in his corner and snarling like a whipped cur, knows that you can fool part of the people all of the time [the old line solid south]; he knows that you can fool all of the people part of the time [as evidenced by New Deal victories in 1933, 1934, and 1935], but the whipping that he is taking in 1936 still shows that no matter how you pour out money, no matter how you croon beautiful rhetoric over the radio, and no matter how you brag, bluster, and boast, you still can't fool all the people all of the time.

Americans are fully aroused to the menace of the New Deal; they are fully aroused to the danger the New Deal presents to our American form of government, and the trend of the recent elections in pivotal states and in all the straw vote returns proves beyond the shadow of a doubt that nothing Big Jim Farley and the rest can do will change the determination of the American people to stop the New Deal; it proves that Americanism still lives in the heart of the American voter as the one unchangeable principle that guides this country.

W. V. Haynes.

REMINISCENT.

Oxford, Ind., Sept. 11.—Roosevelt's green pastures and still waters speech is quite reminiscent of "Me und Gott."

All American.

BLUEPRINT REQUESTED.

Berwyn, Ill., Sept. 5.—As a constant reader I have always admired your ability to write shrewd and cunning editorials. I would like very much to have you devote some of this ingenuity to an explanation of today's cartoon by Orr entitled "False Prosperity."

To what conceivable end is this picture directed? Surely it is not meant to criticize our accepted and practiced system of economics, and by illustration to prove that no matter under what administration, Republican or Democratic, the prosperity we had and are now having is temporary, not lasting, and therefore false. Please, if you can, tell us how we can achieve a lasting and a true prosperity and at the same time retain our practiced economic system.

William Franzus.

TIPS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The Tribune doesn't have the guts to print this letter, but it states clearly what I think of you and your candidate.

Big business is for Landon. And of course Landon is for big business. The more money he could take away from the working people and put in the big business man's pocket the better satisfied he would be. The poor people can go to hell for all he cares. He ate in a restaurant some time ago and gave the waitress a ten cent tip and gave the manager of the restaurant a dollar tip. That clearly shows who the Hon. Gov. Landon is for. The restaurant was a big business restaurant and the manager was a big business manager. F. L. B.

MOSQUITOES.

Park Ridge, Ill., Sept. 11.—We have heard that the New Deal is breeding mosquitoes in the Des Plaines river valley and coloring them to find out how far they can fly and disturb people. You might inform the New Deal that they have at least reached Park Ridge and we have enough troubles out here without their breeding mosquitoes to molest the people that try to get a little fresh air by sitting on their front porches.

FILIPINO WAR VETERANS.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Filipinos who served in the armed forces of the United States in the world war have been granted citizenship through orders of the federal court here. An act approved June 24, 1935, by the Seventy-fourth congress, authorizes the naturalization of alien war veterans who are not white persons or persons of African nativity or African descent. When a Filipino desires to file under the benefits of this act he is made to understand by the naturalization bureau at the new postoffice building that he is not eligible.

The Filipino not being an alien does not come under the provisions of the act, they say. Yet when he goes to the federal courts the Filipino is there declared eligible. Why this difference in the interpretation of the act between the courts and the local offices of the naturalization bureau, and which has the right opinion?

E. A.

Prior to the decision of the court referred to, the immigration and naturalization service took the position that a Filipino war veteran was not eligible to citizenship under the provisions of the act referred to because he was not an "alien." The court held that congress intended the word "alien" to mean any one who was not a citizen of the United States.

This opinion has been accepted as controling by the immigration and naturalization service so that there is now no difference of interpretation.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

IS A CITIZEN.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—I was born in Canada on July 11, 1880, and came to Ohio at the age of 17. Have lived in the United States ever since and married an American born man in 1902. Am I an American citizen and can I vote? B. H.

Under the facts stated, the inquirer became a citizen by marriage to a citizen prior to Sept. 22, 1922, under the laws then in effect. It is understood that citizens are eligible to vote if otherwise qualified.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

Q.—What is meant by "gentle rain of checks"?

A.—This phrase is used by speakers in connection with the charge that the Roosevelt administration sends checks to farmers in order to quiet their criticism of compulsory control of agriculture by the New Deal.

228

Q.—When were disability compensation payments to veterans reduced?

Q.—What is meant by "Farley's air mail blunder"?

A.—Shortly after he came into office Postmaster General Farley canceled air mail contracts and ordered the army air corps to carry the mail. This resulted in the death of twelve army airmen and cost the government millions of dollars.

230

Q.—How much notice did Postmaster General Farley give the air mail companies before canceling their contracts in 1934?

A.—Only ten days.

EXHIBIT RADIUM TREATMENT FOR MOUTH CANCER

"Molds" Are Clamped On Like Fake Teeth.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A new technique for treating cancer of the mouth—with radium "molds" which clamp on like false teeth—was demonstrated by Dr. Max Cutler, head of the tumor clinic of Michael Reese hospital, yesterday.

The molds, Dr. Cutler told 175 cancer specialists gathered in the Palmer house for a postgraduate course sponsored by the clinic, have been used experimentally at Michael Reese for the last five years, having been developed as a means of treating the so-called "corners" of the mouth—the roof, the floor and the gums.

The use of the molds, he said, is one factor upholding his declaration that cancer of the mouth is "100 per cent curable." Its causes, excluding the moot question of heredity, are known, its prevention is known and its cure, he said, is a demonstrated fact.

Effectiveness Is Explained.

Made out of vulcanite and lined with lead, the radium molds are similar to a fine denture, and fit securely over the gums or other "corners." Their advantages, he said, are that the molds keep the radium a specified distance from the cancer, that it permits the saving of normal tissues and insures absolute accuracy of application.

Few people know that dissimilar fillings of the teeth, such as gold and amalgamate, set up an electric current in acid mouths that is a factor in producing pre-cancerous lesions in susceptible individuals, Dr. Cutler told the clinic.

Yet, he said, a delicate electrical apparatus has been devised at Michael Reese whereby these infinitesimal electric currents can be measured. Removal of the dissimilar metals will prevent the lesions, he believes.

Smoking Sometimes a Factor.

Smoking is a factor in producing cancer only in individuals with sensitive linings of the mouth, he stressed. In these, smoking often produces white patches or leukoplakia on the mucuous membrance, which in time leads to cancer. Any family physician, he said, can determine whether or not a patient's mouth is sensitive.

Various ways of detecting cancer of the throat were explained by Dr. Henri Coutard, chief of the division of X-ray treatment for cancer in the Curie institute, Paris. Hoarseness, he said, is an early symptom of cancer of the vocal cord, but is a late symptom in cancer of the upper throat.

MRS. RABINOWITZ SUCCUMBS AT 95; SERVICES TODAY

Mrs. Hannah Rabinowitz, 95 years old, whose living descendants number six children, thirty-nine grandchildren and sixty great-grandchildren, died yesterday in the home of one of her daughters, Mrs. Sylvia Grossman, at 5521 Winthrop avenue. Mrs. Rabinowitz came to the United States thirteen years ago from Lithuania, her birthplace, leaving in Kovno one daughter, Mrs. Sopha Beliajus, nine grandchildren, and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Her other children, Mrs. Grossman, Mrs. Anna Wilk, and Mrs. Celia Noven of Chicago, Samuel Redman of Denver, and Mrs. Ida Getzug of St. Paul, in their youth preceded their mother as immigrants to the United States and reared families in this country, which account for thirty of Mrs. Rabinowitz's grandchildren and forty-six of her great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Rabinowitz was a member of the Daughters of Zion Day and Night Nursery staf and of the Sisterhood of Beth-Yitzhak. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at 3021 Lawrence avenue. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

STEPS TO GUARD CHILDREN FROM PARALYSIS TOLD

39 Cases Are Reported in County in Ten Days.

As a precaution against infantile paralysis, parents were advised yesterday by Dr. H. N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, to keep their children out of crowded places. He said 90 cases have been reported this year, including 39 in the last ten days, and 50 in the last 21 days. Ten have died of the disease this year. The cases last year totaled 59.

In the infantile paralysis epidemic here in 1917 there were 551 cases and 187 deaths were reported.

Early Stages Like a Cold.

"Early symptoms of the disease are much like the early stages of a cold," Dr. Bundesen said. "The patient may experience drowsiness, fever, a backache, a headache, or a stiff back or neck.

"Parents noting any of these symptoms immediately should summon a doctor, as the disease usually develops in from 36 hours to three days after the first symptoms. The city has an ample supply of free convalescent serum on hand which any doctor may have. This serum is of no use after the paralysis has once set in, but it does a great deal toward arresting the course of the disease.

"Citizens are urged to call their own doctor, but doctors will be sent from this office to diagnose cases of those who are unable to afford their own physician. Doctors will find it advisable to sample the spinal fluid in order to be sure of the patient's condition."

Preventive Vaccine Not Urged.

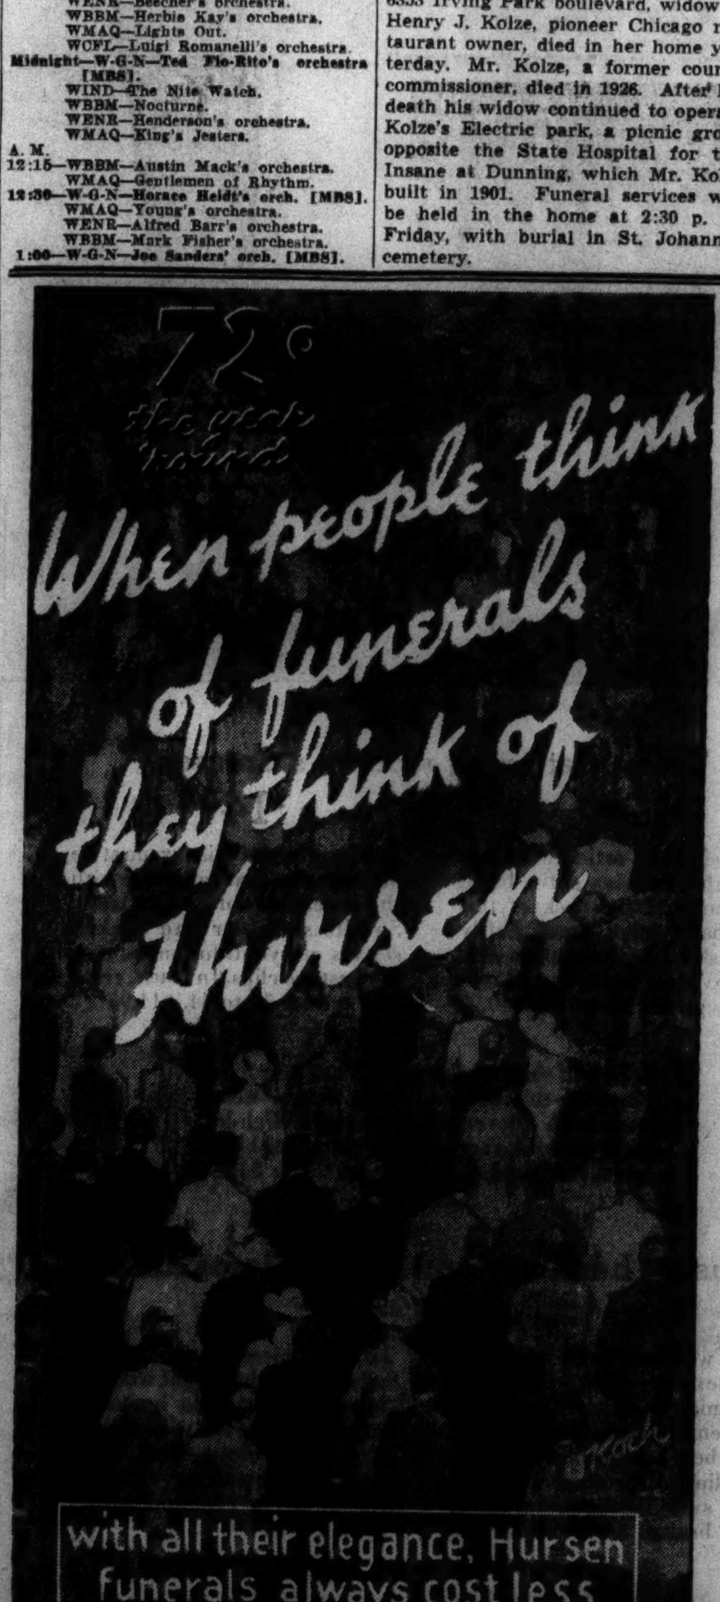
Dr. Bundesen said preventive vaccine for the disease had not yet proved effective enough for its use to be recommended by the board of health.

"A solution for spraying the nose is suggested by Drs. Charles Armstrong and Walter T. Harrison of the United States public health service," Dr. Bundesen said, "as being of value in preventing the spread of paralysis. This solution is made up of 0.5 per cent picric acid and 0.5 per cent alum, sprayed into the nose three or four times daily on alternate days, and then weekly during the dangerous period of the disease. The first applisations should be made by a doctor."

It was reported from Springfield that 48 cases, spread over 15 counties, have been reported to the state public health department in the last week. These do not include the cases in Cook county.

Mrs. Katherine Kolze, 75, Dies; Hold Funeral Friday

Mrs. Katherine Kolze, 75 years old, 6353 Irving Park boulevard, widow of Henry J. Kolze, pioneer Chicago restaurant owner, died in her home yesterday. Mr. Kolze, a former county commissioner, died in 1926. After his death his widow continued to operate Kolze's Electric park, a picnic grove opposite the State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, which Mr. Kolze built in 1901. Funeral services will be held in the home at 2:30 p. m. Friday, with burial in St. Johannes cemetery.



WILL OF ORVIN MASON OF AURORA DISPOSES OF $500,000 ESTATE

Bequests of $2,000 each to the Moody Bible institute and the Glenwood Training School for Boys were made in the will of Orvin T. Mason, banker and bakery founder who died Aug. 25 in his home in Aurora, it was disclosed when his will was filed for probate in Kane County court at Geneva.

The estate was estimated to be worth $500,000, with charitable bequests totaling $39,900. Aurora churches and institutions were left $30,900 and Northland college, Ashland, Wis., and Blackburn college, Carlinville, Ill., $2,500 each. The widow will receive a third of the estate. The remainder, after the specific bequests, will go to other relatives.

The will of John W. Higgins, retired laundry machine manufacturer who died Sept. 13 at the age of 70 years, was admitted to probate in the Cook county Probate court yesterday. A daughter and three sons are to share the estate, estimated at $62,000, under terms of the will.

The will of Mrs. Mary Foster which disposes of an estate of $50,000 to two daughters and a son, also was admitted to probate. Mrs. Foster died Sept. 4 in Pasadena, Cal. She was 64 years old and the widow of George Foster, Chicago merchant who died in 1922.

FRED S. GLIDDEN, MAKER OF JELLY POWDERS, DEAD

Waukesha, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Frederick S. Glidden, 60, who had suffered with heart disease about two years, died today in the Municipal hospital here. For thirty-five years he had been in the business of making jelly powders. He first was employed by the Jello company in 1898. In 1906 he started his own concern, the D-Zerta company. His brother, Otis E. Glidden, who died last year, was president of the Jiffy Jell company when F. S. Glidden became its superintendent in 1918. In 1922 he organized the Waukesha Jell Powder company, which later became the Sunlite Dessert company, of which he was president at the time of his death.

Mr. Glidden's funeral service will be held Thursday in this city and burial will be in the Prairie Home cemetery. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Fenner of this city; three brothers, Raymond of Chicago, Galon and Walter of Rochester, N. Y.; three sisters, Mildred, Bessie, and Belle, all of Rochester. Mr. Glidden was born in Clarendon, N. Y.

SYRIA GOES WILD IN CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Nation Rejoices Over Pact with France.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DAMASCUS, Syria, Sept. 10.—[By Air Mail.]—Syria is celebrating its first annual "week of independence" with flag waving, street festivals, and other gatherings.

The celebration and the "treaty of alliance and friendship" with France which occasioned it, mark the beginning of a new era in the life of this nation of 3,000,000 people. For not only does it get freedom—so dear to every Arab's heart—but also its corollary: the end of France's mandate, which Nationalists have fought for years.

The historic "treaty of alliance and friendship" under which an independent government will be set up in Damascus, was signed yesterday in Paris. The signing was the signal for the beginning of a round of rejoicing that spread throughout the land.

Crowds Pour Into Damascus.

Ata Bey Al Ayoubi, Syrian prime minister, called a meeting of the Nationalist bloc in the "house of the nation." The Nationalists laid plans for a week of celebration.

Thousands of jubilant citizens from all parts of Syria are pouring into the capital. Women are prominent among the celebrants. They gather in groups in the streets and surge back and forth chanting slogans: "Syria is for Syrians," "Long live the Syrian delegation," "Long live Syria."

Flags are flying over shops and from balconies. Walls are covered with rugs and carpets. Wreaths of flowers are suspended everywhere.

The premier published an appeal for moderation and sober thought.

"We are now on the first step of independence, surrounded by plots of the enemies of independence," he said. "Whatever demonstrations you make, or rather whatever bad consequences these are liable to bring about, are a strong weapon in the hands of the enemies of our liberty.

Urges Syrians to Be Quiet.

"We quite realize that such a historical event, that is, coming out of darkness into light, from slavery into freedom, is a thing that every one of us must rejoice over. But ways of rejoicing could be found in other things than demonstrations.

"We find it our duty to draw the attention of the beloved Syrians who have proved throughout the five months of negotiations to be wise and prudent, to continue to pursue the same attitude and not to be any less wise now. This is the time when we need to be more quiet than before.

"The main point is not only to obtain independence but to know how to keep it. We are not the first nation that has shifted from a régime of slavery to a régime of freedom, nor are we the first nation which has sacrificed a lot for the sake of freedom.

Points Out Obligations.

"If you consider that what you paid in compensation for the freedom we shall have under the treaty is rather much, you must know that what you still have to pay after the treaty will be more. We shall be directly responsible for our country. Before we were not."

Despite their rejoicing, Syrians remembered that other Arabs have not yet secured the freedom they want. On Sept. 8, the day before the Syrian treaty was signed, the "Palestinian assisting high committee" collected contributions to aid Arabs in Palestine. For weeks these Arabs have been in the midst of bloody agitation against the influx of Jews and against the British government, Palestine's mandate power.

LOWLAND RESIDENTS IN TEXAS WARNED TO FLEE FLOOD WATERS

Austin, Tex., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Lowland residents along this part of the flood swollen Colorado river were warned today to seek higher ground and preparations were made to protect the municipal water and power plant as the crest of the rampaging stream approached Austin.

United States weather bureau officials predicted, however, that the flood will not reach the height of the one which last year caused considerable damage in the Texas capital. It was said the flood apparently was not as bad as had been forecast upstream.

Several upstream homes were swept away without loss of life last night, and some on comparatively high ground were reported partly flooded. The Regency bridge, seventeen miles west of Goldthwaite and connecting San Saba and Mills counties between Regency and Locker, was washed away, and Highway 82 bridge was reported disabled.

JURORS CONVICT 'PROF' STRAHLER IN QUACK CASE

A jury before Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, Ill., sitting in the County court here, yesterday convicted "Professor" John R. Strahler, 1550 North Damen avenue, of practicing medicine without a license. The penalty for the offense is a year's imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Mrs. Alberta Wicketts, 4129 South Park way, colored, testified that on Aug. 9 she went to 650 East 47th street and asked for "the doctor." Strahler, she said, gave her a medical examination, charged her $2 and prescribed a bottle of medicine.

A similar charge against "Old Doc" Moritz H. Fleishman, 4515 Magnolia avenue, who has an establishment at 1851 West Chicago avenue, will be heard today.

BRITISH SCIENTIST WILLS U. S. HOME TOWN $250,000

Sir Henry Wellcome Favors Minnesota Hamlet.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Sir Henry Wellcome, Wisconsin-born scientist who died last July at the age of 83, directed in his will that $250,000 be paid within 25 years to Garden City, Blue Earth county, Minnesota, for the erection of a library, auditorium, and sports field, it was disclosed today.

Under the terms of his will the buildings are to be erected as a memorial to his parents. When opened, the memorial will receive an additional $150,000 endowment fund.

His parents were the Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Wellcome. Sir Henry's estate was valued at over $10,000,000.

Garden City Unexcited.

Mankato, Minn., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Garden City, an unincorporated hamlet of 225 persons nestled in the Watonwan river valley 12 miles south of Mankato, was surprised today to learn that a wealthy former resident, Sir Henry Wellcome of London, had bequeathed the village $250,000 for an auditorium, library, and sports field, but it refused to be in the least excited over the news.

Garden City has no village council, no mayor, and not even a constable, being merely the most densely populated portion of Garden City township.

Life Centers in School.

The life of the community centers in the consolidated school built 14 years ago at a cost of $115,000 and for which the district still is paying.

The villagers are pleased, therefore, by the $150,000 maintenance fund which will keep the auditorium and library from becoming another tax burden.

When Sir Henry lived in Garden City as a boy, more than 50 years ago, he attended a little log school house. He donated a portion of the grounds for the new school and had made several gifts to the school since, including a curtain for the auditorium and books for the school library.

ONE DEAD IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Ralph Wildt, 29, injured last night in a motorcycle accident in which his wife, Beatrice, 25, was killed, remained in a serious condition in a hospital here today.

TWO BROTHERS HANGED IN PLOT OF THEIR MOTHER

Slay 2, Kidnap Baby in Extortion Scheme.

DORCHESTER, N. B., Sept. 23 [Wednesday]—[Canadian Press.]—Arthur and Daniel Bannister were hanged early today for the slaying of a backwoods squatter in carrying out an alleged kidnap-extortion plot. Back to back, the two dropped to their death through double traps.

They were executed for the slaying last January of Philip Lake, 30 year old Pacific Junction, N. B., woodsman. He and Mrs. Marshall E. Ring were killed and their 20 month old son left to die in the snow outside the Lake cabin.

The crown had charged the couple was killed to silence them while their four month old daughter was kidnaped for Mrs. May Bannister, 41, mother of the brothers.

Baby Wanted in Extort Plot.

The mother, the crown charged, wanted the child to help her extort money from two men with whom she had been intimate. Each had been told he was the father of a child she claimed had been born to her.

She displayed a baby doll, the crown charged, then prevailed upon her sons to take the living child from the Lake home. Their 15 year old sister, Frances, still faces trial for alleged participation in the abduction. The Bannister mother is serving a three and one-half year penitentiary sentence for harboring the stolen child.

The brothers bade farewell to their father and sisters at the Dorchester jail last night.

Father, Sister Visit Condemned.

Then the father, William Bannister, and Marie, a younger sister, visited briefly with the two men.

Arthur, 19, and Daniel, 20, trembled as they were led from their cells at 2 a. m. [1 a. m. Chicago time]. The twin traps were sprung at 2:06 a. m. and both were pronounced dead at 2:27 a. m. [1:27 a. m. Chicago time].

The bodies, cut down as they swung back to back, then were viewed by a coroner's jury who returned to the courthouse for a formal inquest.

A short time later the two youths were buried, in a single pine coffin, covered with black cloth.

The bodies were placed in a lone grave behind the jail, fifty yards from the cell where the men had been confined.

EX-POLICEMAN IS FOUND DEAD.

Miles S. Brown, 46 years old, colored, who was discharged from the police department in 1931, was found dead yesterday in the rear of 3951 Federal street.

TRAVELER TIRES OF SCENERY, BUT NOT OF PEOPLE

Finds Briton Buries Self Behind Disguise.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 12.—[By Mail.]—After weeks or months of touring the traveler may grow a bit weary of scenery and art and architecture, but he will still get a kick out of observing the people he meets along the way. The visitor from America usually has a fine time moving among strange peoples on their side of the Atlantic, trying to find out who they are and what they are doing, and why they dress, or talk, or act that way.

But when the visitor comes to England, where the people appear on the surface to be much the same as those of the homeland, his fascinating study comes to an end. The citizens of this country have buried themselves behind a disguise that no mere American can penetrate.

Sir Philip Gibbs explained it some time ago by saying that his nation is the most mysterious in the world, though it seems so simple.

China Open Book by Comparison.

"China, the enigma of the east, is an open book compared with the baffling character of England and the English," said Sir Philip. "Foreigners come over to study the problem, and give it up if they are honest, or, if dishonest, because they have to write a book however false, they plunge into fallacies.

"The American novelist, Mary Borden, has an uncanny gift of getting below the surface of a group or nation after she has watched them for a while, but she confessed to me that there was one man in the world who was inexplicable to her, and that was an Englishman. He refuses to take off his mask."

The sooner the visitor realizes this truth, the better off he is. Then he can forget about his study of mankind and devote all his attention to sightseeing. It is much more profitable.

London is, of course, the place to begin the voyage of discovery. It is the scene of nearly all the country's great occasions and major activities. It is the living center of England and of the whole British empire.

Tastes Real English Life.

For our stay in this, our favorite among the cities of the world, we passed up the big hotels in what would correspond to Chicago's loop and went clear out to Pembridge gardens, beyond Nottinghill gate, for a bit of the real English life. We found it in a little inn where the landlady not only offered to serve us breakfast, but was quite surprised when we rejected her proffer of a cup of tea as soon as we awoke each morning. She said she simply couldn't get out of bed without such a cup. "The English are almost as fond of their tea as they are of their king," said our partner in this expedition through the old world.

From this inn it was easy enough to go by bus to Piccadilly circus, and Westminster abbey, and Hyde park, and the tower, and the galleries and museums, and all the familiar tourist hangouts. After midnight, when most of the buses had quit running, there was an even greater thrill in climbing into a hansom—hard to find, nowadays, but still on hand if you search long enough—and wandering through ghostly Berkeley square and past dark St. James's and Buckingham and Big Ben.

After you have seen everything there is to see in London there are, close by, Windsor, Stoke Poges, Eton, Runnymede, Hampton Court, Oxford, Cambridge, Stratford-on-Avon, and Canterbury—all of them mellowed by the centuries. History in England is not confined to bricks and mortar and museums. It is alive in a way peculiar to no other country. If you don't think so, go out to Stoke Poges and sit under the 1,000 year old yew tree and try to contemplate some of the things that have taken place since Gray sat in the churchyard and wrote about the boast of heraldry and the pomp of power.

Sues to Enjoin Gambling in Bon Air Country Club

Suit to enjoin gambling in the Bon Air Country club, formerly the Columbia Country club, on Milwaukee avenue a mile north of Wheeling, was filed in the Lake county Circuit court yesterday by Theodore Rahutis, owner of a roadhouse near Cary. Rahutis says he owns thirty of the sixty shares of stock of the corporation which has leased the property, paying $9,500 for two years, and that the management is endangering his investment by permitting gambling.

New Police Car Proves Its Worth; Beats Stork

One of Waukegan's new police radio cars, delivered Monday, got its first workout early yesterday in a race with the stork. Policemen Ben True and Donald Duncan were passing 408 South Genesee street in the city when Frank Zupansic rushed out and asked them to take his wife to a hospital. They delivered Mrs. Zupansic at the Lake County General hospital just two minutes before a baby boy was born to her.

We should like some information on the Dalmatian coast, along which King Edward recently went cruising. R. M. E.

The Adriatic coast of Jugo-Slavia is rugged with fjords and some 600 islands. Most of these islands are rocky and uninhabited, but the larger and populated ones have tourist attractions the year round. Leaving Split, the center of the Jugo-Slavian Riviera and the chief town of Dalmatia, one may cruise to the Island of Bratch, known for its wine, and on to Sholta, famous in the time of Pliny for its honey. About three hours to the south lies the Island of Korchula. The town of the same name, birthplace of Marco Polo, claims precedence to Rome, and a tablet in Latin, placed in the city walls in the 16th century, reads: "After the ashes of Troy, Antenor founded this city." The rocks below the walls are covered at night with tiny, flickering lights, caused by the phosphorescent matter in the sea.

What is the best time of the year to visit Jamaica? D. W.

The copper mine at Falun, in Dalecarlia, one of Sweden's most picturesque regions, claims that distinction. It has been under the same family ownership since the year 1220, and so much ore has been taken from it that its excavations would hold the Cheops pyramid.

The Pullman rate is $86, the coach rate is $57.35, and the tourist rate is $68.80.

I have heard that the gaekwar of Baroda, in India, has a carpet made solidly of jewels. What can you tell me about his possessions? E. J. R.

The gaekwar's carpet is about four feet long—just large enough for two persons to sit on—and every inch of it is sewn with diamonds, emeralds, rubies, and pearls. His jewels have been valued at $5,000,000 by European experts. When the maharanee is fully dressed for the coronation she has to be lifted to her feet because of the weight of her adornments.

MARK 25TH YEAR OF THE AIR MAIL BY FLIGHT TODAY

The 25th anniversary of air mail service in the United States will be celebrated today in Kansas City, Chicago air line officials announced yesterday.

On Sept. 23, 1911, Earl Ovington flew a pouch of mail around a ten mile course on Long Island and delivered it to Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock in the presence of members of the National Postmasters' association, holding their annual convention. He flew 55 miles an hour.

Today A. W. Graham, Kansas City, Mo., postmaster and recently elected president of the postmasters' association, will place a pouch containing anniversary greetings aboard a TWA plane at Kansas City, which will carry it to Washington at a speed of approximately 200 miles an hour.

HULL FLARES UP AT APPEAL FOR YANK IN NAZI JAIL

Shouts Angrily in Quiet Halls of State.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22—[Special.]—In the sacred precincts of the state department, where diplomats whisper and career men tip-toe, Secretary of State Cordell Hull this afternoon shattered precedents and aroused some shock by staging a tempestuous brawl with a delegation of New Yorkers.

The secretary was stirred to fury when a group, styling itself the National Committee to Defend Political Prisoners, called on him to protest that the state department had not provided adequate protection for Lawrence Simpson, American seaman, who has been held in a German prison since June 28, 1935, on a charge of high treason and espionage. He was arrested by Nazi police who alleged discovery of communistic literature in his baggage aboard the United States liner Manhattan. He once lived in Oak Park, Ill.

Meetings with the secretary almost invariably are held in secret, but Secretary Hull's Tennessee temper was so provoked that he threw the doors open and invited newspaper men to listen. Then he and the delegation staged a two hour quarrel.

Hull Accused of Neglect.

Gifford Cochran, leader of the committee, accused the secretary of neglecting Simpson's case. The sailor goes to trial next Monday and undoubtedly will have a secret hearing amounting to a court-martial which will end in his conviction and sentence, Cochran asserted.

"The department always has watched this case closely," began Secretary Hull quietly.

"You've never made any representations about it," declared Cochran.

"I've made personal representations to Hans Luther, the German ambassador, and numerous messages have been sent to Berlin," said Hull, his face growing red.

Cochran suggested that the United States insist that Simpson's trial be public and that the press be admitted.

"The state department has no control over what is called the freedom of the press in another country," retorted the secretary angrily. "It is not my function to tell another government, no matter how much I might disapprove of its practices and institutions, how it shall conduct itself. We do the very best we can to safeguard every right of our nationals abroad under all circumstances and to see that they get everything that properly can be required for them as a matter of right or sufferance."

"Presumptuous," Says Hull.

There was a lot more squabbling during which Hull remarked heatedly about "sniping from the rear" and "these outrageous charges." When asked what "interest in justice" the department would display in the event of Simpson's conviction and sentence, Hull flared up.

"It's mighty presumptuous for you people to come in here and place yourself on a pedestal above other American citizens," he cried, "and assume that we didn't make every representation possible."

"You're rationalizing," shouted a delegate.

What the delegate meant remains a mystery, but Mr. Hull said: "That's what you say!" and made a hasty but impressive exit.

Seized in East for Quiz in White Slaver's Killing

Police of Uniontown, Pa., yesterday notified Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide detail that they are holding Louis Valentine, sought for questioning about the murder on Sept. 9 of Paul Phemister, procurer and minor criminal. Phemister was shot in a tavern near Madison and Paulina streets. Louis "Tiny" Lerno, a rival procurer is being hunted as the actual killer. Valentine has admitted being in the tavern with Phemister and Lerno the night of the shooting.

SHOT IN TAVERN ROW; DIES.

Delano Del Porter, 50 years old, colored, owner of a tavern at 23 West 51st street, who was shot during a fight in the place Sunday night, died yesterday in the Provident hospital.

JAPANESE LAND MARINES IN TWO CHINESE CITIES

Launch Investigation of Murder Incidents.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Japanese marines were landed on Chinese soil tonight, with their commanders determined "to eradicate anti-Japanese feeling in China."

Detachments of 200 marines were put ashore at Hankow to investigate the killing Saturday of a Japanese consular policeman, and at Pakhoi, southern China, to inquire into the killing there of a Japanese druggist on Sept. 3.

Japanese warships landed the marines to "protect Japanese lives and properties." The authorities responsible for the action said it would be "improper" to term the expedition an "invasion" since Japan has maintained naval and military forces in China for many years.

9 Warships at Pakhoi.

At Pakhoi Japanese investigators into the slaying of their countryman landed under the protection of nine Japanese warships. They were accompanied by an armed escort of marines. Chinese investigators also came ashore from a Cantonese gunboat.

Rebellious soldiers of the old 19th route Chinese army attempted to prevent the inquiries but were induced to evacuate the city after both Chinese and Japanese officials had protested their action.

Diplomatic negotiations to settle the incidents, meanwhile, were fruitless.

Chinese Refuse Blame.

Both Chinese and Japanese reports stated Yoshiaki Miuria, Japanese consul general at Hankow, had sought to obtain Chinese acceptance of blame for the consular policeman's death.

Gen. Yang Yung-Tai, chairman of the provincial government, refused to take the blame for the incident, maintaining that since the death occurred within the Japanese concession China could not be held culpable.

At Peiping it was reported Chinese troops reappeared at Fengtai, which they surrendered last week, and began entrenching.

More Marines Leave for China.

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Detachments of Japanese marines, specially trained as landing parties, sailed today for China to protect Japanese residents and interests against demonstrations by hostile Chinese.

Marriage on Shoestring Is Risky Venture

Couple Should Not Come Whining to Parents.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A certain young couple was married nine months ago despite the advice of the parents on both sides. Not that they disapproved the pair's romance. The older people simply saw that on the youth's income marriage could not be successfully conducted. On neither side were the parents honestly able to contribute a cent of help. Nor could either parental roof accommodate a young married pair.

The youngsters ran off and married anyway, just to show that the older ones knew nothing about it. Time, and a very brief period of time, proved that the parents knew a great deal more about the cost of feeding and housing and dressing two than did the young pair. Now they're a couple of soreheads because the parents on both sides absolutely refuse to take them in. The living quarters, in each case, are crowded as it is with younger brothers and sisters. The simple pair sit down and write to inquire if parents can't be forced to accommodate married children who haven't enough to live on themselves.

It's a unique query, we'll admit. Most couples, however young, are aware that marriage cuts them adrift from enforced parental protection. Most young pairs, however thoughtless and reckless in other respects, have a definite understanding that once they're married it's up to them to shift for themselves in one room, if necessary. There's no question of forcing parents to take them in.

Many, true, have the luck to have parents who can afford to make room for them and who do it in a fine, willing spirit, until such a time as the newly weds can float their own. But expecting this generosity demanding of parents who have all they can do to feed themselves and keep a roof over their heads, sounds like something that might evolve in the brain of a nit wit. In America, at least, when a pair takes it upon themselves to embrace marriage over experienced advise to the contrary, their very rebellion involves their working out themselves the career they chose.

It's hard sledding on a slender income youngsters, we know, but you made your nest and, thinly constructed as it is, it is yours to finance and carry on.

Child's Early Years Parent's Happiest Ones

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Tears, quarrels, and spankings strew the path that so many mothers and little children travel together. And I always feel so sorry when I see or hear about these conflicts.

The early years are in some ways a mother's happiest time with her children. The little boy or girl has simple needs and desires that the mother is able to gratify, for one thing.

The problems a mother is confronted with when her children are small lie close at hand and are simple enough in essence. She has the power then to protect her child, to keep it safe from almost all kinds of harm, a yearning which we all feel but which stoically must be put aside as our child grows older, because we know that freedom and independence are his right.

So there is no reason why these early years should not be truly happy ones for a mother. But, also, they should be utterly happy ones for the small child. His capacity for joyous living, his zest for discovering his world are so great that it is a pity when squabbles and discord mar it all.

Both mother and child should enjoy these early years together. And it is no herculean task to make this possible.

Most of the trouble arises over a child's physical care and the simple routine upon which his health depends—his diet, his bath, his rest, his elimination, etc.

We have fully written leaflets on the three important routines of eating, sleeping, and elimination. A large, stamped, self-addressed envelope is required for each one.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

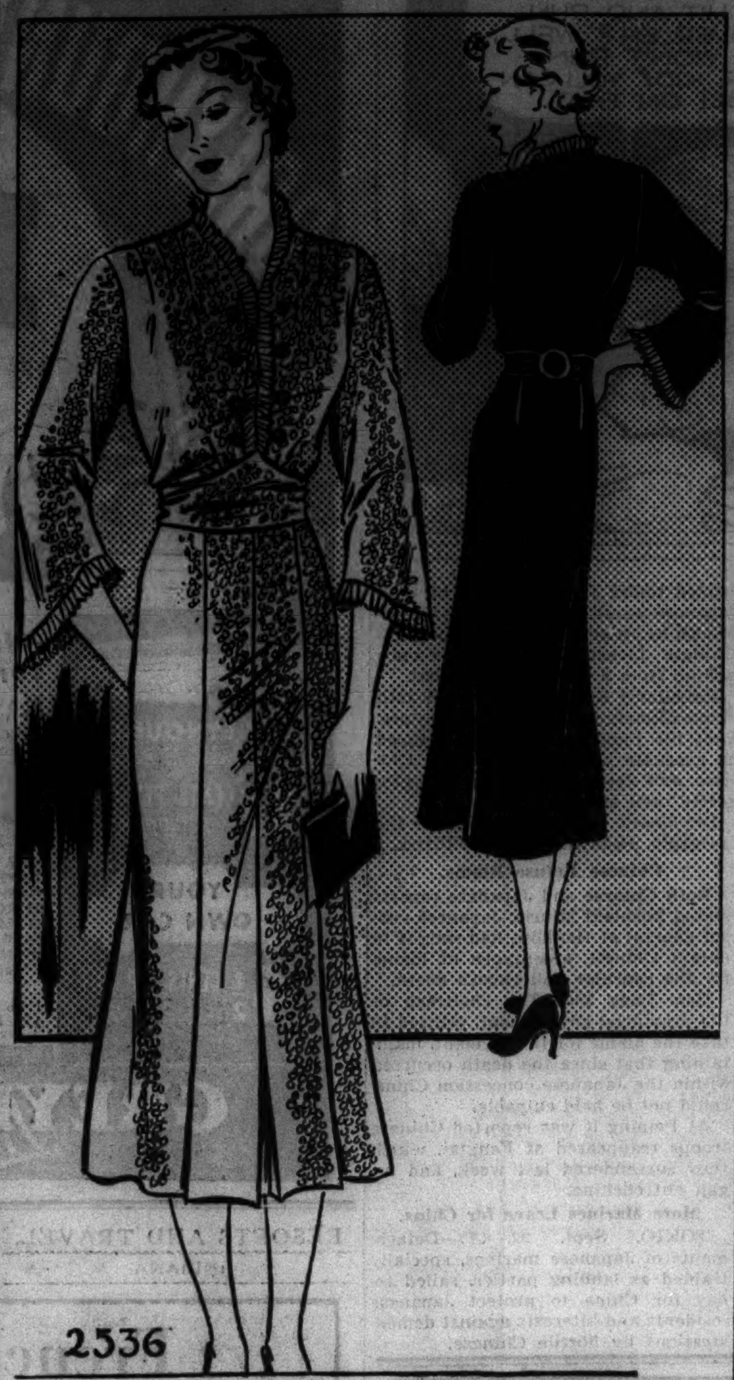
Half Sizes for Short Figures



WOMAN'S FROCK.

Women who are shorter than average usually have a difficult time procuring dresses which fit them well. Such figures require width to accommodate weight, but require less length. To meet the needs of such silhouettes designers created the frock in half-sizes, a delightful version of which is presented today. The model is simple in line, and equally easy to make. Soft, dainty and feminine ruching enhances the neckline and the sleeves. The dress is slightly shorter waisted than most frocks, because the figure of the petite woman requires a high waistline. The skirt is paneled to fit beautifully through the hipline, and the straight lines achieved lend an illusion of height.

Black jacquard crêpe is the fabric employed in the original made from this pattern. Satin back crêpe with contrast of the lustrous surface of the material also is pretty. Style No. 2536 is designed for sizes 32½, 34½, 36½, 38½, 40½, and 42½ inches bust measurement. Size 36½ requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with 2⅜ yards of 1½ inch ruching.

"Dear Miss Brown: I would appreciate it a great deal if I could procure from some of your readers some perennial plants for use this fall. We have had so many unexpected expenses lately it is a great disappointment to me not to be able to buy some. I live on the south side of the city and would be glad to call for them.—Mrs. A. O."

Best to Adapt Hair Fashions to Individual

Extreme Coiffures Neither Lovely nor Practical.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One looks over the illustrations of what's new in hairdresses each season, wondering how, under heaven, the average woman ever could hope to rise to such glory? A personal maid, a luxury we femmes all would enjoy, hardly would serve to meet the intricate coiffure demands. Less than a professional artist never would do. For instance, before me at the moment is a page of illustrations showing which way the hair winds blow for fall, with swoops and swirls and intricate hair foldings that you could not put to bed for a peaceful night's slumber. Which would mean you'd have to be up and off early to your hairdresser in the morning again.

Well the first fashion news is like that, too. Lovely to look at things, but impossible for most of us. We don't weep over the loss. Simply sit down and compromise, adjusting the style to our own particular leanings and lines. And so it is with coiffures. Only more so, maybe. One doesn't see the extreme hair styles even in hoity-toity circles. But one does steal a cue from the general trend. This the average woman can do and often does, bringing enough of a change to create the new interest she wants.

As you know, of course, the facial top and sides are beautifully bereft of all that former cluttering of a few seasons back. Stylists tried to rule out the neck length curles but, as I observe women, and attractive ones, they weren't successful. But a difference was introduced, you'll note. If the curls flow generously or, we might say, in Ginger Rogers fashion, down over the neckline in back, the face has no frowsy frame of hair.

It's an open season for faces, one might say, in connection with the newest coiffures. If you have temples, you show them. If you have good ears the secret is no longer hidden. You brush or comb your hair back off the temples and show as much of ear as you may becomingly, the more the better.

And, by the way, they're pinning temple and ear curls and waves back with cute tortoise shell combs. If you have a forehead you show it, too. Anything to throw the whole facial structure into bolder relief. A girl or woman now with hair banged low, hair brought forward on temples and cheeks looks like a last year's number unless, as occasionally happens, she is a type with artistic ambitions or accomplishment, which type usually is exempt in many other respects from the conventional beauty setup.

British Girl Reporter Turns Sailor Woman to Escape Boredom

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A young woman tugging at the lines of a docking boat "like a professional sailor" made Harbor Master T. F. McBried take more than casual interest in the British steamer Gardenia today.

The young woman—she said she was Joan Horsburgh, 22 years old, of London—took to the sea when she became tired of reporting women's meetings, weddings and the like for English newspapers.

She joined the Gardenia at Cardiff, Wales, last June as a stewardness. Between there and Port Said she became bored "at doing nothing," so she turned to helping with the deck work.

Sitting on a stage over ship-side "splashing paint on myself and the ship," chipping rusty decks, and even steering the steamer are in her list of nautical achievements now.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE APPROACH METHOD.

The principle of economy of bids leads to one of the most important practical applications in the strategy of bidding—the approach method. The approach method or rule can be formulated as follows:

When opening the bidding or when responding to partner, prefer any proper suit bid of ONE to any other bid, reserving the no trump bid or the higher suit bids [jumps] for special bidding situations. The word proper in the phrase "proper suit bid of one" signifies a biddable suit.

The "higher [jump] suit bids" are a small but important group of strategic bids of which some are forcing bids and others are shoutouts. A final important group of hands consists of opening no trump bids.

Since about 80 per cent of bidding revolves around the approach method, its simple formula is the key to the entire scheme of bidding.

The first and most important consequence of the approach method is to be found in the scheme of bidding levels in the opening hand. Of these the level of one-odd is by far the most important. The opening bids of two, three, and four are the exceptions; the two-bid is reserved for a very small number of hands so powerful that game is assured, while a slam may be definitly in sight; the four-level serves the strategical needs of shutouts, an interesting case of desperate defense by a bold counter-attack; the three-bids are two-way bids, treacherously concealing either a powerful hand [weaker, of course, than two-bids] or a shutout bid. All these bids are the exceptions, whereas the opening suit bids of one are the rule.

West, almost haphazardly, opened the ace of clubs [and it turned out to be a wonderful choice]. In my opinion, West should have shifted to a low heart at the second lead, with the prayer that declarer lacked the queen and would guess wrong. Not that he should guess wrong. After the two club vulnerable overcall, dummy's king should be put up without a second's hesitation. But perhaps West knew the declarer better than I do, for at the second lead he led a low club.

The miracle happened! Declarer gayly discarded the heart jack from dummy, expecting to win the trick in his own hand. But East just as gayly tossed on the deuce of trumps! East put West on lead with the heart ace and another club came back. Desperately, now, declarer used one of dummy's trumps, praying that the queen was in West's hand. To the everlasting credit of justice, however [considering the hash declarer had made of an iron clad contract], East overruffed for the fourth and setting trick.

Elementary safety methods should have been used against the second club lead; ruffing it in dummy would have guaranteed that East could not twice overruff. It took genius to be defeated on this hand.

Mrs. Bevans Is An Authority On the Training of Children

Service Club Learns Why of Advance Settings.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"WHY does any one set a date so far in advance?" asks some uninitiated ones in the ways of the modern world of society when they see a time set months and months ahead. To avoid conflict with another large affair is the answer, of course, but even then it does not always work, for although the St. Luke's fashion show committee chose Oct. 21 last January, just last Monday the Service club directors became upset when they realized that they had chosen the same date for the dress rehersal for their revue.

"Please change your date," they naively asked Mrs. John W. Gary, fashion show chairman and treasurer and president of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital. "Our announcements are printed and in the envelopes," was Mrs. Gary's reply, so the club will have to reherse for the last time before its revue on Oct. 23 and 24 at the Goodman theater on some other night than Wednesday the 21st.

A prospective bride and bridegroom, Miss Barbara Hutchins and John Jay Borland, already had acknowledged the St. Luke board's prior right to Oct. 21 by changing their wedding date to the 20th when they discovered that the date they had decided upon first had been taken for the fashion show months ago.

Party Will Launch Service Club Rehersals.

The Service club will follow the custom of launching rehersals for its annual revue with a party next Sunday evening in the penthouse atop the Hotel Sherman. Members of the club and debutantes who will take part in the show will bring their husbands and beaux, and there will be a general discussion of plans for the revue as well as community singing of some of the songs of the show. Rehersals begin the following morning, to continue daily until the performances.

Rested after their summer vacations and ready for the arduous work necessary to make a success of the St. Luke's fashion show, ten members of the committee met for luncheon yesterday in the Casino and discussed the special feature that always is a part of the show. Mrs. Frank Hibbard is in charge of the feature but the board has to decide what it shall be, then it is Mrs. Hibbard's job to arrange it. And since the women of the board have not yet agreed upon a plan, Mrs. Hibbard is somewhat upset, so she was the one unhappy person at the luncheon.

Her unhappiness was assuaged a bit, however, by the delicious luncheon served, for she is on the house committee of the Casino, so she has a particular interest in the new chef at the smart club. Just at home after a summer in Watch Hill and a brief visit in New York, Mrs. Hibbard was looking very smart in a black gown and a tiny hat of shiny black ciré satin.

Also looking very smart was Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, her black costume accented by a triple strand of pearls. She is chairman of the fashion revue for the show that will be given on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 21 in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Wolf is just back from New York and so is Mrs. Gary, who works indefatigably for the fashion show each year. For the first time in some years she will do the last of her work this season from the city, for she is moving in from her Glencoe home to the Drake hotel on the 15th of October.

Trip to Exposition of Paris a Feature.

Also present at the luncheon were Mrs. George A. Ranney, co-chairman with Mrs. Kersey C. Reed of the models; Mrs. Robert M. Adams and Mrs. Gordon Lang, co-chairmen of publicity; Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, recording secretary of the board; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins of the properties committee, Mrs. John A. Stevenson of the box committee; Mrs. Walter F. McLallen III., who with Mrs. Charles H. Morse is responsible for disposing of a trip to the Paris exposition to increase the fashion show proceeds.

Mrs. Ranney and Mrs. Reed are giving a tea tomorrow at the Casino for the debutante models and Mrs. Ranney leaves the next day with Mr. Ranney and their daughter, Miss Cornelia, for a vacation at the Virginia Hot Springs. Their other daughter, Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley, will join them when her husband leaves a week later to hunt in northwestern Canada.

Mrs. Adams was wearing a huge and stunning new ring, the gift of her mother, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, who is just at home from a trip abroad. The ring is from Sweden and

ISHBELL ROSS, on newspaper women in her "Ladies of the Press," out this month, a history of women in journalism:

Ladies of the Press—
Query—
Motto—
Vice Presidents—
Pale Face.

"She [the newspaper woman] is often a little sharp of tongue because she has listened to so much rot. She has seen strange things of which most women never dream. She is neither the hardboiled reporter who beats the town nor the angel faced cutie who wins her way by guile. As a rule she is matter-of-fact. The code of her profession is an intangible one, not generally understood. She must be resourceful with honor, searching without being rude; she must not be put off easily by the lies constantly flung in her face; she must sense the important, discard the trivial, have a sense of proportion, and the ability to make subtle decisions between right and wrong. She must build her own code as she moves, for the copy book standards scarcely cover her profession."

THIS description Miss Ross gives of a newspaper woman fits, with the neatness of a hand-tailored garment, several Chicago newspaper women who come immediately to mind. They have places in Miss Ross' book and, as she does not know them all personally, it undoubtedly aptly describes the other good ones of the country. One of the Chicago "front page girls," reading the description, was reminded of a comment made by Malvina Lindsay, now editor of a Washington women's page, with exciting days behind her working for Tammen and Bonfils on the Kansas City Post, covering everything from fires to politics. Miss Lindsay, after summing up what a city editor expected from a woman reporter in the way of intelligence, intuitivism, resourcefulness, knowledge of psychology, and the ability to cope with criminals or interview queens, added, "And also the constitution of a Swedish maid-of-all-work."

A MICHIGAN farmer, hearing discussion of "Gone with the Wind," inquired if that was the title of a Kansas farm.

A CHICAGO jewelry establishment is working a new sales psychology stunt. All its salesmen are vice presidents, the idea being that the customer is flattered by being attended by an official with a title. This came to light when Lloyd Griffin, radio announcer, took his watch in to be repaired. During his short contact with the place he talked with three salesmen who turned out to be vice presidents, and finally one of them admitted all the salesmen were vice presidents.

Through the Looking Glass

We firmly believe that getting the business girl interested in taking exercise for youth, for beauty, and for health is a worthy crusade. It's one of the few subjects that almost lures us to the soapbox.

Very, very few women, we've discovered, will do exercises of a morning just as a keeping-fit measure until they're thoroughly and convincingly sold on the beauty value of keeping muscles toned. Let them get off to the right start in a beauty salon, with scientific exercises properly taught and they'll be exercise fans for life.

We've been wailing around because this latter procedure costs too much for the average working girl. Now a salon, principally at our urging, has worked out a perfectly swell arrangement. In the late afternoon groups of business girls, six or eight, will be taken in classes and given just the type of exercise each individual needs. Late Saturday afternoon the exercise rooms are available, too.

The price is reasonable—and we say this as one poor working girl to another. Each exercise lesson is paid for singly. The course idea under these circumstances has been wisely abandoned. Signing up for a course is something like opening up a charge account—not so hot for those of us who don't find it easy to dig down for lump sums.

The exercises are, to our personal knowledge, wonderfully effective for silhouette correction, as well as keeping fit. They're stretchers of the most scientific kind. Get the hang of these, under proper direction, and you'll love doing them all by yourself, even on mornings when you're dead tired. They're grand for tense nerves, too—something almost every business woman of thirty or thereabouts has to contend with. They'll make you healthy—and a lot wealthier in the way of good looks and sound nerves.

Gunman Roles Leave Hatton Feeling Crawly

He Depends on Mountain Jaunts to Forget.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 22.—After a few years of playing "rat" gunmen, prison inmates, night court habitues, "cokey" Joes, second story workers and other gentry of the underworld, it's a relief to be able to pack up and go fishing and get "cleaned up" mentally, declares Raymond Hatton.

That's the main reason Hatton won't sell his fishing lodge in the high Sierras. It's the reason he oils up his guns and gets his dogs in trim each year before the hunting season opens. It's the reason he takes long hikes in the open. It gets the imaginary smell of the slums and the gutter out of his head.

Hatton had been hoping his rôle as "Cokey" Joe Ferris, the movie extra and jewel thief in M-G-M's thriller, the "White Dragon" would permit him to leave yesterday for some shooting out in the great open spaces. But as usual he was in demand at the wrong time.

"One of the first 'rat' rôles I ever played," Hatton said, "was in 'Big Brother,' which Allan Dwan made in New York with Tom Moore, Edith Roberts and myself. Hal Rosson was the cameraman. For a lot of scenes they used an old dance hall at 59th street and 6th avenue and for extras we used the regular dance hall clientele.

"Once I received a staggering compliment on the authenticity of my rôles when an eastern club woman invited me to address her organization on 'The Evils of the Dope Habit.'

"Sometimes I've bought the complete outfits of tramps I've run into in order to have a costume that looks authentic for a part. Sure, I've had them fumigated. I didn't want to make it too realistic," grinned Hatton.

"The funny part of it is that mixing with these people in the flesh does not make me feel at all inside like I feel when playing a similar character for pictures. Then I get to feeling sort of crawly.

"Even the fact that I usually receive my just deserts in the film and get bumped off before the story is finished doesn't make me feel any better. When the shooting's over you feel like going and taking a bath."

Dolores Del Rio became so thin during her recent illness that her skirt fell off her during the filming of "Depths Below" at Columbia Studio. Designer Ernest Dryden ordered a new costume and skirt to fit her. . . . Marian Marsh will shortly marry Cameraman Al Scott . . . . Brian Aherne says he has devised a technique for the autograph hound nuisance. "It's surprising how much nerve some of them have—they come up and demand a signature without even knowing whom they're addressing," he says. "So when they shove a pencil and paper at me I ask them: 'Who am I?' If they really know who I am I accept their piece of paper and sign. If they don't know my name I walk away in dignity."

Van Gogh Show to Remain Open One Extra Day

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Van Gogh exhibition at the Art institute will be held over another day! This comes in response to urgings of the public who have been pouring in to the museum by the hundreds since Sunday. Up to Sunday at 5 p. m. 139,450 people had seen the exhibit. At 2 p. m. yesterday the figure was 146,515. More than 300 people saw the exhibition during the noon hour yesterday.

The Art institute predicts that the total attendance will be in the neighborhood of 160,000 persons when the doors are finally shut on Thursday. From Chicago the show is going to Detroit and finally to Toronto, after which it will be dispersed and the leading works shipped back to Holland where they are a part of the collection of the Kroller-Muller Foundation, Wassenær.

The most popular painting has proved in Chicago to be the bridge at Arles with its sparkling color and the animated figures of washer women in the middle foreground. The pair of old scuffed shoes which aroused sentiment in certain critical bosoms in the east has left us cold, perhaps because the time is scarcely ripe for philosophizing over an incident which can be duplicated in innumerable homes today.

The various portraits are interesting, chiefly for the modeling of the figures and the brisk coloring Van Gogh employed. Of the two paintings of "The Nurse Rocking the Cradle," that owned by the Art institute is the finest. Van Gogh painted this woman several times and in some of the pictures one can see the wicker handle of the basket cradle she was ostensibly rocking.

The drawings of peasant men and women excite sympathy and respect. Van Gogh knew the dignity grief brings and was able to translate it. His effort is not for exact reproduction but to inject into his work the emotions which were so clear to him. His little drawings are to be regarded as songs bridging a silence; they are to be felt rather than dissected.

The exhibition will remain open to 7 p. m. Thursday, Sept. 24. Dudley Crafts Watson will give his last group of talks on Van Gogh that day at 12:15 o'clock, 2 o'clock, and 3:30 o'clock.

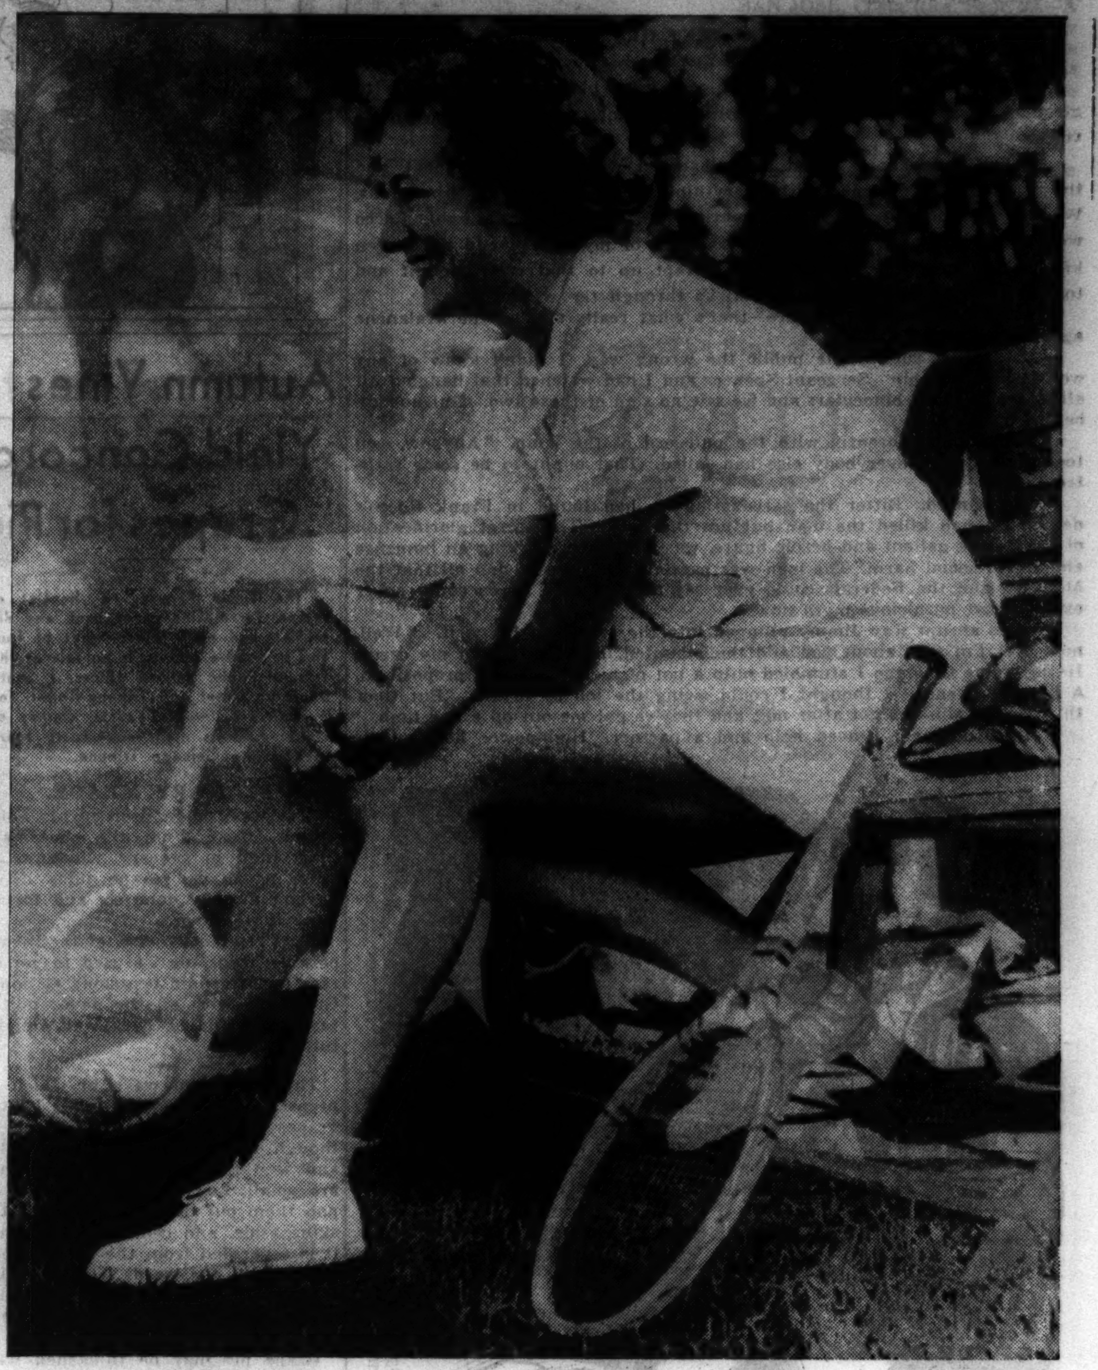
Deanna Durbin Loses Her Voice on Facing Camera

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Deanna Durbin, 13 year old motion picture contract player, grew so excited as the time came for her to do her first scene in her first movie that her vocal cords paralyzed and the child couldn't say a word when she faced the camera. Nothing the studio nurse could do seemed to help. The scene in the Universal film "Three Smart Girls" had to be postponed. The condition passed away during the evening.

At Onwentsia Club Powwow



Mrs. Ewing T. Webb.

Mrs. Ewing T. Webb was one of the participants yesterday in the powwow held by women members at the Onwentsia club. Although golf was the order of the day, Mrs. Webb was one of those who spent most of the time on the tennis courts.

As for the golfers, fifty-eight of them played seriously in the morning and foolishly in the afternoon. With luncheon over, there was monkey golf amid much laughter. Mrs. Charles Dennehy, who as chairman of the women's golf committee was in charge of the day's program, and Mrs. Curtis Munson tied for first place in the morning tournament with low gross scores of 86, and Mrs. Earle H. Reynolds had the low net score, a 79. Mrs. Dennehy and Mrs. Munson both won fame in golfing circles when they were Miss Virginia Wilson and Miss Edith Cummings, respectively, and apparently marriage has not decreased their prowess on the golf course. Mrs. Munson and her husband have been spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, in Lake Forest, and Mrs. Reynolds is at the Deerpath Inn in Lake Forest for several weeks, en route to her home in California from Charlevoix, Mich., where she has spent the summer. She formerly lived in Lake Forest.

The Black Automatic

By William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS.

After 13 years with the Canadian Mounted, Inspector Noel Irving, at 33, finds himself without relatives, friend, or career. Noel, in his Winnipeg apartment, receives a midnight call from an engaging young stranger, who will only give his name as Jimmy, and who is being pursued by a gang of desperadoes. Noel tells Jimmy of his discharge from the mounted because of dynamiting the hideout of Frank Rocco, master criminal, not knowing two women were with him.

INSTALMENT III.

DEADLY AIM.

"Didn't you realize, Irving, that you were blowing Frank Racco to glory?" There was a sneer at the sentimental misguided public in Jimmy's voice.

"I had little choice. That cabin hangout was a regular arsenal, and those fellows were armed with everything from bombs to machine guns. We had nothing but pocket automatics. If I had risked a fight, Rocco would probably have got away, and several of my men would have been killed. Rather than sacrifice them, I crept up to that cabin myself and tossed a bundle of five dynamite sticks through the window."

"Those two women in there—that's what really started the avalanche against you, wasn't it?"

"Yes. That rubbed the public the wrong way. I didn't know of any women in that cabin. Sergeant Spencer and I had watched that hangout all afternoon through binoculars and we saw no sign of those two. But nobody believed us."

Jimmy toyed absently with the pull-cord of the lamp. "Anyhow, you took Rocco, after everybody else had failed. That ought to be some satisfaction."

Noel winced. Bitter the satisfaction he had found in Frank Rocco's death. He had killed the man but not the myth. The secret glorification of Rocco as a gallant and heroic figure, was still alive, working an immense amount of social harm. The man was passing into legend; and all that the Mounted and the Federals could ever say about Frank Rocco could never explode that pernicious myth now.

In his abrupt way Jimmy plunged into the reason of his visit. "Well, now that I'm sure about you and the Mounted, I can lay down my cards. Irving, some time ago I stumbled onto a pot of luck. It's a big proposition. A lifetime chance. I thought I could swing the job by myself. But then this pack of slinkers got after me; and they've got me out on a bad limb.

"In a nutshell, I need help and a partner. High-power help and a partner I can bank on to the limit. You'd be both. With a little help from me you can splash these men. I picked you out of a whole Dominion-full of people as the only man who can smack 'em down. After that we'd have clear sailing; we'd clean up handsome; and we'd have a rattling good time a-doing it."

Partly because of his loneliness, partly because of the challenge in this unknown venture, the word "partner" struck a secret response in Noel. In a general way he could imagine nothing finer than to shake the bitter dust of Winnipeg from his feet, team up with this leather-faced Jimmy, and pitch off with him on the adventure trail, wherever that trail might lead.

"Now get this," Jimmy went on, tapping the desk to emphasize his words. "This proposition of mine is no wild-goose chase or wishful thinking. It's a hard fact. A reality. I've got it right in my hand. Man, I've got it! If we can only tie a knot in this outfit's tail we'll both be wealthy men inside a year."

Through the smoke of his cigaret Noel eyed Jimmy, trying to make him out. Who was this extraordinary youngster? Where did he come from and what was this tight-guarded secret of his? And these men hounding him, half a dozen against one—who were they?

"Jimmy," he asked, "why didn't you go to the regular Mounted for help, instead of to me, a stranger and a civilian?"

"I told you why. You can handle these fellows. The mine-run Mounted couldn't."

"That's not your only reason. Jimmy, you didn't dare go to the Mounted. You're hiding your identity. You wouldn't tell me your name; I can see where you tore the dealer label from your jacket; and there above your left wrist you've even burned off a tattoo mark. Now, Jimmy, you're keeping yourself anonymous because this job of yours is illegal. You're doing something outside the law. Right?"

Jimmy fidgeted uneasily. "Well, uh, I guess . . . Yes, it is illegal. We could be sent to the pen. That's honest. But there's not a chance in a hundred that we'll get caught. That's honest too. And there's nothing wrong about this job, Irving. It's illegal but not wrong."

"What do you consider 'wrong,' Jimmy?"

"'Wrong' is when you hurt somebody else."

"Hmmph. Not a bad definition. And you, in your conscience, don't consider this job wrong?"

"I don't! We wouldn't be harming a soul on earth—"

He broke off there, abruptly, frozen to silence by a gesture of warning from Noel. In the shrubbery plot outside, some stray dog had growled—a sinister throaty snarl; and to Noel's ears had come the slight scratchy noise of a rose-brier scraping against a man's trouser-leg.

The little sound made his blood run cold. Jimmy's enemies had trailed the youngster. They were lurking outside in that shrubbery. They were lining aim on Jimmy, by the light of the desk lamp.

Without moving or in any way betraying his discovery, he glanced at the window, out of the corner of his eye. In the moon-shadow of a lilac bush a dark splotch, a man's figure, was slowly rising up; and from another bush came a moon-glint on gun steel.

"Jimmy"—he spoke in a sharp whisper—"they're outside, those men. Just outside the window. Don't turn, don't look. For heaven's sake do what I tell you, and quick! If you look, they'll shoot, they'll riddle you. Give that lamp cord a sudden yank, then lunge behind this couch. In the dark we can shoot it out with them."

Instead of obeying him, Jimmy jerked his head around and stared at the window. Evidently he saw one of those shadowy forms outside, for he leaped to his feet and defiantly whipped out his gun.

"Get down!" Noel cried at him. "Here—here with me!" Unable to reach the lamp cord in time, he grabbed a footstool and arched it up, to crash it against the light and plunge the room into darkness.

He was a split-second too late. As his arm went back, as Jimmy stood fumbling with the trigger safety of his gun, a spurt of fire leaped from the lilac bush; a pane of glass shattered and fell in bits to the rug; the kr-oo-mm of a heavy automatic bellowed in at the window.

From the dark shrubbery a second gun opened up. Through screen, glass and curtain the two automatics poured a hail of bullets at the defiant youngster by the desk. The window curtain twitched crazily. The room was filled with the vicious th-uu-pp and splaat of bullets smashing into the desk and chair and wall beyond.

Oblivious of danger to himself, Noel sprang from behind the shelter of the couch, jerked out his automatic and began shooting at those livid flashes, to silence them and save Jimmy.

He heard a help, the cry of a man hard-hit by one of his bullets, but those two guns kept up their murderous blast. As a heavy slug struck the lamp and shattered it, Noel had one anguished glimpse of Jimmy clutching at his breast, collapsing into the chair and then toppling forward to the floor.

Abruptly the blast from the shrubbery stopped. On the heels of the last shot a laugh flounced in through the shattered window—a mocking brutal laugh at the spectacle of Jimmy crumpling and falling.

In the dead quiet, broken only by Jimmy's hoarse breathing as he lay there on the rug, Noel heard the swish of bushes, the quick pad-pad of running feet; and it came home to him that those men, after their swoop and deadly strike at Jimmy, were making their getaway.

Autumn Vines Yield Concord Grapes for Pie

"The Pickle Parade," a booklet of recipes for making sweet, sour, and dill pickles, and many other types of fruit and vegetable pickles, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, the Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Clusters of huge, deep purplish-blue grapes, fresh from the vines and piled high in grocery windows, remind us to can grape juice if we haven't already done so, and to can more if we have.

They remind us, also, of the incomparable grape pie we used to get on rare and splendid occasions at home. Grape pie with all the flavor of the raw grapes, juicy, dark, and delightful!

There are two ways in which to prepare grapes for a pie. If the grapes are large it isn't difficult, although it is a bit tedious, to halve and seed them one by one. If they are small, however, it is simpler to pop them out of their skins, set the skins aside, and cook the pulp until it is separated from the seeds. Then strain out the seeds and combine again with the skins. About 3¼ cups of the prepared grapes will make a pie.

Grape pie may be thickened with either corn starch or tapioca. The receipe given calls for tapioca, but the same recipe may be used, substituting 4 tablespoons, or slightly less, of corn starch. The corn starch should be mixed with the sugar, of course.

Concord Grape Pie.

3½ cups prepared grapes
2½ tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups sugar

Combine the ingredients and let stand 15 minutes, or while pastry is being made. Place rolled pastry in pie pan, allowing it to extend half an inch beyond the edge of the pan. Fill pan with grape mixture. Moisten edge of pastry with cold water and fold inward, even with edge of pan. Moisten edge again and place top pastry on pie. Press the edges together with a fork which has been dipped in flour. Trim off surplus pastry. Bake pie in a hot oven [425 degrees F.] for 15 minutes, then decrease the heat to moderate [350 degrees] and bake 25 minutes longer.

When you can grape juice you may like to reserve a pint of it to make a delicious sherbet, if you have a mechanical refrigerator.

Grape Sherbet.

1 cup sugar
1½ cups water
1 pint grape juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white

Boil sugar and water for 5 minutes. Cool and add lemon and grape juice. Place in freezing tray. Freeze to a mush. Remove to a chilled bowl and fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Return to the tray and continue freezing, stirring occasionally.

A simply made freezer ice cream using grape juice calls for 1¼ cups.

Freezer Grape Ice Cream.

1 pint cream
1-3 cup sugar
1¼ cups grape juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Mix all ingredients together and freeze.

Five Spot.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Five Spot" sounds like a slang expression for $5.00 rather than the dignified name attached to an old pieced pattern which had its origin in Merrie England. The original coverlet was made of blue, blue and white print material, yellow, and white. The five yellow spots set against the blue and white background are assembled to form a most amazing design of an all-over pattern on the completed coverlet.

is of etched glass. The other Mrs. Adams on the board, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, was unable to be present yesterday, for she remained in Lake Forest to welcome home her son, Cyrus III., and his bride, after their wedding trip abroad. They will be with the senior Mr. and Mrs. Adams temporarily.

Another energetic member of the board, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, was absent from the luncheon, too, for she wanted to spend his last day at home with her son, Charles, who is leaving today for St. Mark's school.

Lady Burney Arrives Today to Visit Parents.

Lady Burney is arriving in Chicago today from England to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High, in Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. High are giving a dinner at the Onwentsia tomorrow night for their daugher. Mrs. High has accepted several luncheon and dinner engagements for her daughter, but she was afraid to fill her time too full with entertaining until Lady Burney arrives and decides how long she will be able to stay.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman has returned to her apartment at the Ambassador East after having spent the summer in Santa Barbara.

The name of Miss Barbara Bentley has been added to the debutante list for the present season. Just before she returned to Sarah Lawrence college last week her parents, the Arthur Bentleys of Evanston, decided that they would introduce her jointly with Miss Rosemary Sauer, daughter of Mrs. William Sauer of Evanston. The Sauer and the Bentley families have been friends for years, and so have the two young women.

Miss Sauer and Miss Bentley will bow at a tea-dance to be given at the Blackstone during the Christmas holidays. Miss Sauer's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Percival St. Aubin of New York and Providence, R. I., will come west to give the tea with Mr. and Mrs. Bentley. Mrs. St. Aubin is Mrs. Sauer's sister. Miss Rosemary is studying at the Barat college in Lake Forest this winter.

Jean McWilliams Will Bow After Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. McWilliams have taken an apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive in which they plan to give a tea, probably on the Saturday afternoon following Thanksgiving, to present to society their daughter, Miss Jean McWilliams. Miss McWilliams is not returning to Vassar this fall, but she plans to continue her studies at the Art institute, specializing in portraiture.

Sometime this fall Hugh L. McWilliams Jr. will give a cocktail party to introduce his sister to his friends, and at Christmastime Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams will give some kind of a simple party for their daughter.

A debutante whose list of schools is varied and lengthy is Miss Jean Ericson, who returned recently from a summer in California. In her brief career as a schoolgirl Miss Ericson has studied at the North Shore Country Day school, at Brilliantmont in Switzerland, at the Roycemore school, and at Miss Maderia's in Washington, D. C. Next Sunday she will leave for New York to enter the Finch school.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson and Miss Jean are staying in Highland Park with the Willard Ericsons until they can find a home of their own. Formerly they lived in Winnetka, but Mrs. Ericson is thinking of moving into the city. Miss Ericson's debut party will be given during the Christmas holidays.

The first meeting of the opera box committee will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Casino club. Robert Hall McCormick will take charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Jacob Baur, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis will speak. Mrs. Ernest R. Graham and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick are cochairmen of the committee with Mrs. Baur.

Junior League Will Move into the Drake.

At a general meeting of the Chicago Junior league Monday morning it was decided to move the league's headquarters from 664 North Michigan avenue to the Drake hotel where a suite of rooms will be redecorated and furnished for the league's use after next month. It has not been decided yet which of the artistic young women in the league will have charge of the new offices' decoration, but undoubtedly Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, who has been a capable head of the organization's arts and interests committee, and several of the members who contribute so well and frequently to that department will have a hand in the choice of colors and fabrics. Miss Veronese Beatty is the arts and interests' new chairman. Mrs. Philip Pillsbury is the head of the league's house committee, assisted by Mrs. W. English Walling II.

Nov. 12, a Thursday, has been selected as the date for the league's annual fall second hand clothes sale, but a location has not been chosen. Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark will take charge of the sale.

Mrs. William F. Peter is opening her home in Lake Forest today for the first of Princess Marina Petrovna Wolkonsky's French luncheon classes of this season. Among those in the group are Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, Mrs. George Voevodsky, Mrs. Evans Spalding, and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. Subdeb Phyllis Peter has gone to enter the Warrenton school in Virginia, but her debutante sister, Sylvia, is remaining at home this winter.

Mrs. William D. Bangs has returned to Geneva from a brief stay in Lafayette, Ind., where she went to prepare a house for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Fowler, who returned recently from a wedding trip abroad. Miss Katharine Bangs and the young Englishman, who is a member of the faculty of Purdue university, were married on June 9 in Brattleboro, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hull Ewing have gone to Houston, Tex., to visit their daughter and son-in-law, the James Breasteds. They will go on to California for a week or so, returning to Lake Forest about Oct. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. John High Noyes are joining the year 'round colony in Lake Forest this fall. They have taken a long lease on the Farley Hopkins house and will move in the middle of October. Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, who rented the house this summer, will return to their Lake View avenue apartment Oct. 1.

Miss Judith Walsh has returned to Winnetka from a six weeks' stay on the Lazy K ranch in Montana. Her mother, Mrs. Richard W. Walsh, spent six weeks in England, touring the gardens, and returned home last month.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Roach have returned to their Ravine drive home in Highland Park after spending the summer months with their children in South Haven, Mich. Miss Lorraine Marie Roach is leaving this week to enter Sarah Lawrence college.

Miss Lesley Jones' Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Jones of Tampa, Fla., formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lesley, to J. Robert Merrill, son of Dr. Nelson Merrill of Marshalltown, Ia. Miss Jones attended Crane college and Mr. Merrill was graduated from Northwestern university. The wedding probably will take place on Christmas day, and Mr. Merrill and his bride will live in Louisville, Ky.

Today at noon in Pasadena the wedding of a former Chicagoan, Mrs. Edith Winter Ames, to Paul McGinnis of California will take place. The service will be read by the Rev. Theodore Soares, pastor of the Neighborhood church of Pasadena, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Winter, formerly of Minneapolis. There will be no attendants and the wedding will be as simple as possible with only members of the bride's family in attendance.

Mrs. Ames, formerly the wife of Knowlton L. Ames Jr., will wear informal street attire. After a two weeks' motor trip Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis will live in California.

Mrs. M. Stevens Bell of Baltimore, Md., announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Bell Cassard, to C. Gordon Wilson of Chicago. The wedding took place last Saturday at Mrs. Bell's home, with the bridegroom's father, the Rev. Clarence Hall Wilson of West Hartford, Conn., officiating. He is a retired Congregational minister. Mrs. Edward J. Clopton was her sister's only attendant and Mr. Clopton was the best man.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Excuse It, Please

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

From a Chicago shop: The new sweater combine! An imported duet, consisting of a long sleeved thin wool undersweater of lemon yellow. The very unusual wide neckline is contrasted with a gay, colorfully embroidered waistcoat of felt.

Blinding Hues, High Cut Mark New Sweaters

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Strictly utilitarian sweater outfits have stolen every show for so long that every one seems a bit startled over some new duets. The last gasp in such feminine frivolities is good teamwork, colorful, gay, young and different. These imported sweaters, designed in the Austrian Tyrol and trimmed with bands of color, embroidered with mountain flowers and oak leaves, button with such amusing trifles as buttons in the shape of high mountain climb hats. They are exact replicas of those hats the mountain climbers wear.

These imports are shorter than the home products. They fit snugly around the rib lines and just reach the waist line. Sometimes they are even shorter. The colors are positively blinding; the vivid blues are especially attractive, the lemon yellows very effective with red or the bright blues. It's their quaint old fashioned home made look that makes them so appealingly naïve and picturesque after the severely tailored affairs that have been sponsored so thoroughly by the co-eds.

A new "sweater and" combines a very thin under sweater of soft wool with long sleeves . . . over this sweater the sleeveless vest affair of felt. These go out with slim wool skirts, with tweeds, under tweed fur trimmed coats, or under the short, bulky fur coats for football games and skating outfits.

Fashion photograph . . . lemon yellow thin under sweater with long sleeves and a new wide neckline that folds casually over in front. A vivid green or bright blue felt waistcoat with a yarn laced edge and high colored embroidery on both sides. Both are to be found in a Chicago shop.

Victoria of Spain Shops in New York; Pleases Salesgirls

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Former Queen Victoria of Spain, who arrived here last week to be at the bedside of her son, the Count of Cavadonga, went shopping today. Salesgirls agreed that her majesty was a "model shopper."

The former Spanish queen "knew what she wanted" and within forty-five minutes added a suit, a dress, an evening gown and accessories to her wardrobe.

Accompanied by her daughter, the duchess of Torlonia, Queen Victoria arrived in a beige limousine at a couturiere, at 3 p. m. Other customers and saleswomen quickly were aware of the presence of the distinguished shopper. With wide eyes they watched from a distance while her majesty purchased three outfits—a gray woolen suit consisting of a one piece dress with shirred shoulders and a swagger coat with a band of gray Persian lamb; a black one piece woolen dress with white satin vestee and calla lily top, and a black crêpe evening gown.

Toscanini to Conduct 4 Operas Next Year at Salzburg Festival

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Sept. 22.—Although the details of next summer's Salzburg festival will not be settled until some time in Octber, it became known here today that Arturo Toscanini would conduct the performances of four different operas, which is the largest number he has attempted at Salzburg so far.

Besides repetitions of "Falstaff," "Fidelio" and the last festival's phenomenally successful production of "Meistersinger," he will undertake next year Mozart's "Magic Flute," which has not yet been presented at the Festspielhaus. The stage director will be Herbert Graf, who had charge of the August performance of "Meistersinger."

Cupid Makes Short Work of Hollywood We-Won't-Wed Club

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Dan Cupid's arrows have made short work of Hollywood's "We-Won't-Wed" club organized by a group of film actresses who vowed not to marry until they had achieved success in pictures.

"I'm still the president," said pretty Olivia de Havilland today, "but there aren't any other members."

Some sixteen of the younger players got together several months ago and swore a mighty oath against matrimony. They were convinced that marriage and a career were incompatible.

That was in the early spring. Today, two of the girls are married; most of the others are in varying shades of an engagement, and all but one of the rest have "steady company."

From cutting table to pressing board, these suits of soft to the touch saxonies, that show a strong flannel strain, have known little, but hand work. You see impressive proof of it in every detail that influences the fit, drape and feel of these broad shouldered double breasted jackets with their soft ripples of fullness at chest and sleeve heads. The manner in which this is done, is in itself ample evidence of tailoring carried out by hands accustomed to working with infinite patience and skill, and gifted in the ways of the custom tailor. Single and double-breasted.

Special Four-Day Sale Monogrammed White Shirts

3 for $5.50

The actual reduction in price, generous as it is, would accomplish little in making these shirts the unusual values they are if it were not for the broadcloth itself. and the obvious care with which these shirts are tailored and designed. The broadcloth is woven of fine cotton that has a distinguished reputation for strength and lustre. It provides wearability without weight, and repeated laundering won't change its good looks. In neckband and collar attached.

English Doeskin Gloves and Handbags in Colors to Accent Every New Fall Costume

Handbags, $3 each — Gloves, $1.95 pair

The new high shades that are so fashionable, matched to a queen's taste! These bags and gloves were cut from identical skins, so there can be no flaw in the matching. British doeskin has a richer, clearer tone than most other doeskins, and seems to take colors more beautifully.

Both the gloves and the bags have the same streamline design with military cording, and they are to be had only at Carson's in Chicago. Lovely colors to accent every new Fall costume.

Dressy Boucle Suits Broaden Their Lives

$12.95

Boucles are entering more and more into town life, these days—and into the dressier phases of town life, at that. These two featured styles are detailed more like fabric frocks than like knits, and can attend a not-too-formal afternoon party or a Sunday night tea with perfect poise.

The misses' style at the right with the semi-ball buttons comes in black, blue, wine, red earth. 12 to 20.

For Each Bit of Sheer Loveliness—25c

Hand-made handkerchiefs—the sort you'll put in a good, conspicuous pocket—that will be an important detail in any costume—fine linen with spoke hemstitching and four corner embroidery.

Or you may prefer the larger size, with hand-drawn effects. Both styles are beautifully made with hand-rolled edges. Such values that you'll want to stock up—perhaps even put some away for gifts.

FOR LUNCHEON - TO - DINNER FASHIONS

Life begins at noon for these dressy afternoon fashions, which will be on the go from noon to night this Autumn. There are some among them that are not out of place for a morning shopping tour, if it is to be followed by an afternoon engagement. All of them are dressy enough to continue on through the after-five time, and to an informal dinner.

Metallic Accents Reflect the Coronation

$29.75 and $39.75

Metal cloth creates a gleaming streak all the way down the front of this attractive frock, under a strip of rick-rack braid. There's a metal cloth bow and standing collar and a metal buckle. Note the smart bolero effect, bordered with the lustrous side of the crepe. In black, brown, or green. 16½ to 24½. $39.75.

Metal-shot lightweight woolen fashions this beautifully tailored frock which has the new swing skirt. The kolinsky tie adds a dressy touch at the softly draped neckline. Dressmaker detail makes for smoothly fitting shoulders. In rust, green, brown. 36 to 42. $29.75.

A metallic vestee cancels the severity that is apt to be associated with a high neckline, and rat-tail braid does its bit in the cause of dressiness. The not-too-full peplum and the front fullness in the blouse are smart and flattering details. This frock is fashioned of crepe in black, brown, or rust. 36 to 44. $29.75.

The New Swing Skirts Are Due for a Whirl

$29.75 and $35

Pleated grosgrain rosettes with rhinestone daisy centers show what trimming can do to dress up a frock that is essentially simple in line. The skirt swings to a moderate flare. In black, brown, or rust, with white piping at the neck. Misses' sizes. $29.75. (At left.)

PHILLIES DELAY FLAG CLINCHING BY NEW YORKERS

Lead Is Reduced to 4½ Games.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The New York Giants will have to wait at least another day before they clinch the National league pennant.

Needing only two victories to nail the flag to the Polo grounds' pole, they had their chance in a doubleheader with the Phillies today, but lost both games to Jimmy Wilson's last place club, 11 to 7 and 6 to 2. The Cards' victory over the Reds left St. Louis four and one-half games off the pace and the Giants still in need of two triumphs to win.

Giants Use Six Pitchers.

Only Carl Hubbell and Fred Fitzsimmons of Bill Terry's mound staf failed to see service as the Giants used six hurlers, four of them in the second game, in an effort to stop the Phils. Hubbell is scheduled to pitch tomorrow, but the league leaders will need to couple a victory with a defeat of the Cards to complete their upward climb.

The first game was a slugfest, the Phillies collecting 15 hits, including Chuck Klein's 25th homer, off Al Smith and Clydell Castleman, and the Giants pounding Claude Passeau and Joe Bowman for 13 safeties.

Walter Checks Giants.

In the second game the Giants stepped off in front with two runs in the first inning off Bucky Walter, but that was all they could score on the reformed infielder. Walters yielded 11 hits but kept them well scattered, while the Phillies drove Frank Gabler from the mound with a three run rally in the fourth to take the lead and then added another off Dick Coffman on Dolph Camilli's 27th homer in the fifth.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Don Gutteridge, recruit third baseman, drove in five runs with a single, double and triple today to enable the Cardinals to beat Cincinnati, 6 to 3, and retain their half game hold on second place. Mike Ryba, the Cardinals' jack of all positions, turned in one of his best bits of work this season, relieving Henry Pippen on the mound in the second inning after the Reds had taken a 3 to 0 lead. He held them to two singles and no runs during the rest of the game to earn his fourth victory without a defeat.

Yankee and Giant Outfields Are About Evenly Matched

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—Not great as a whole, but nevertheless pretty good. That about covers the outfield talent Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, and Bill Terry, leader of the National league Giants, will toss into the world series which opens at the Polo grounds Sept. 30.

If there is an edge in favor of either starting trio it is not easy to find. Individually the Giant outfield might rate over the Yankees in two positions. But matching trio against trio and allowing for replacements, McCarthy probably is entitled to feel that Terry, and not he, should do the worrying.

Ott Is Tops.

For the purpose of the impending event which will be played in two parks with foul lines so short that a game can hardly be decided on its merits, the Giants have the standout fly chaser of the entire lot in the diminutive Mell Ott, who, although a ten year man in the majors, is only 27 years old.

Ott can hit and that's his chief value to the Giants. He's essentially a pull hitter, making the short right fields at the Polo grounds and the Yankee stadium ideal targets for him. If the series was to be played in a spacious park, such as Comiskey

A DOZEN Cincinnati newspaper men pooled $205 and wired it to Garden City last week to bet on Johnny Fischer to win the national amateur golf tournament. . . . They wanted 6 to 1 and when 4 to 1 was the best they could do, they recalled the money. . . . Reports have it that Warren Wright paid Alex Gordon $25,000 for the thoroughbred stallion Bostonian, which already has been delivered to Mr. Wright's Calumet farm in Kentucky. . . . Harold Seghi, guard candidate on Northwestern's football team, has returned to school after spending a two year enlistment in the army air corps in Panama. . . . Potsy Clark, coach of the Lions, rates Keith Molesworth of the Bears one of the greatest backs in professional football. . . . "Molesworth and Nagurski have given me no end of trouble for the last five years," Clark remarked while watching the Bears defeat the Packers, 30 to 3, at Green Bay Sunday. . . . Tom Lieb, football and hocky coach at Loyola of Los Angeles, says that football hardens athletes for ice hocky and ice hocky hardens players for football. . . . Bob Feller of the Indians isn't allowed to pitch in batting practice. . . . Ty Cobb always signed his autograph Ty Cobb and his checks T. R. Cobb. . . . It was the same with Bobby Jones and Babe Ruth, who had their bank accounts under the names of Robert T. Jones Jr., and George Herman Ruth. . . .

Students and townspeople of Lafayette and Tippecanoe county will pledge their loyalty to Purdue and the Boilermaker football squad tomorrow night in Jefferson High school gymnasium, Lafayette. . . . Adolfo Luque, coach of the Giants, is an expert at dancing the rhumba. . . . Sponsors of the football game between Marquette and St. Louis universities at Soldiers' field Oct. 10 are placing 50,000 student tickets on sale at 25 cents. . . . Dick Lennihan, chairman of the committee running the game, says a crowd of 40,000 already is assured. . . . Profits go to the Sisters of Mercy hospital fund. . . . Mark Catlin Jr., Appleton lawyer who serves as end coach for Lawrence college, whose football team comes to the Midway Saturday to open University of Chicago's season, is the son of one of the greatest ends the Maroons have had. . . . His father, Mark Catlin, figured prominently in Chicago's famous 2 to 0 victory over Michigan in 1905. . . . The great-grandmother of Bob Schroeder, U. C. L. Mrs. Lawson Little came away from the national amateur golf tournament Saturday evening $65 richer. . . . She wagered $5 each on Willie Turnesa and Johnny Fischer to win the meet. . . . She got odds of 15 to 1 on Fischer. . . . Jocky Basil James, star of the Chicago racing season, will ride at Santa Anita in California again next winter. . . . Ivan Williamson, Gerald Ford, and Bill Renner, all former Michigan football stars, are on the coaching staf at Yale this fall. . . . The Wolverines will open a home and home series with Yale in 1938. . . .

Eugene [Scrapiron] Young will use thirty miles of tape and gauze to bandage ankles and wrists at Notre Dame this fall. . . . He also is using some on his thumb, blistered from taping several hundred ankles every day. . . . Jimmy Doolittle, air ace, was lightweight boxing champion at the University of California in his student days. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Gene Tunney won the heavyweight boxing championship when he pounded out a ten round decision over Jack Dempsey before 126,000 at Philadelphia. . . . The receipts were $1,800,000. . . . Dempsey received $450,000 and the new champion, Gene Tunney, was paid $200,000.

DAVIS' PITCHING HALTS PIRATES; FRENCH ROUTED

Six Runs in Eighth Clinch Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Pirates came to this tropical clime yesterday all hopped up to the prospect of shoving the Cubs into fourth place by sweeping the three game series, and possibly going into second place themselves. But the Cubs had some ideas in the matter and smacked out an 11 to 4 victory.

The only fun the Pirates had out of a sweltering afternoon was to keep their old pal Larry French from being a better Cub than he was a Pirate. In two of his seasons with the Pirates Lefty Larry registered 18 victories. He has been trying for some time to win his nineteenth for the Cubs and he started yesterday with that goal. But, alas, he was rocketed to the bathhouse after the Pirates had done all their day's scoring in the third inning.

Curt Davis finished the chore for Larry and did his first good pitching since his August illness. Curt held the Pirates to two infield scratch singles, both by Lloyd Waner, in 6 2-3 innings of endeavor.

Hoyt Not So Good.

Waite Hoyt, who has made several saucy appearances against the Cubs since he lost his appendix early this year, was not at his best yesterday. He stuck around for five and two-thirds innings during which time the Cubs socked him for eight hits, good for two runs in the first inning, two tying counters in the fourth and the one which put the Cubs ahead in the sixth. Mace Brown was all right in the seventh, but the faded National league champs fell on him for six hits and six runs in the eighth. Two of the seven hits the Cubs made during his term were the work of Davis, who usually doesn't care much for batting. The second Davis hit came with the bases full and drove in two runs.

After the Pirates had permitted a perfectly good double by Jensen to go to waste in the first inning, the Cubs pounced on Hoyt for a pair of runs in their half. Galan opened the scoring enterprise with a double to left and Cavarretta was hit by a pitched ball. Herman forced Cavarretta, Galan stopping at third. Demaree singled to center, Galan scoring and Herman reaching third. Hack flied to Jensen, Herman scoring. Hartnett rolled to Vaughan.

Pirates Go Ahead.

The Pirates romped to a 4 to 2 lead in the third inning. Padden pushed off with a single to right and was forced by Hoyt. Herman fumbled L. Waner's double play ball, Hoyt stop-

Home Run in 9th Spoils Sox Victory; Tie in 12 Innings, 8-8

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—The White Sox, trying to shake off their five game losing streak, did a lot of high class battling today, but it availed them nothing. They went into the ninth with prospects of achieving their second victory of the season here, but Earl Averill hit his 27th home run over the right field fence and tied the score. Then the Chicagoans gave the Indians a real argument for three more innings, but nothing happened and the affair was abandoned because of darkness, 8 to 8.

The Averill homer put a crusher on what seemed destined to be a victory for Italo Chelini after a brilliant relief job. The Italian southpaw was shoved into action in the second after Monty Stratton had let the Tribe get well started on its second three run rally. Chelini, after cleaning up the Stratton debris, went through to the end of the tenth with no trouble except in the seventh when the locals scored once and in the ninth when Averill connected.

Appling Increases Lead.

The Sox crowded a full day of work into the second inning. Paying no attention to three runs scored against Stratton at the start, they bunched a flock of hits around some passes and scored six runs, thereby knocking out Denny Galehouse. Stratton lost this lead in the same inning, but in the fifth the Sox went back in front with two runs by annoying Lefty Thornton Lee. And one of these runs looked good enough for the decision until Averill connected.

Luke Appling and Averill, both of whom are vitally interested in the batting championship, had big afternoons, but the Chicagoan gained instead of losing ground. The Indians walked Luke three times, but he had four chances to connect and made good on three of them. Averill walked once, but was officially at bat five times, for a net of three hits.

Match Box Baseball.

Lack of control and the nearby right field fence caused most of Stratton's trouble in the first inning when the Indians took a three run lead. Knickerbocker singled with one out, after which Stratton loaded the bases on passes to Averill and Trosky. Weatherly flied to Haas and Knickerbocker scored after the catch. Hale then hit a fly ball which would have been caught in a major league park, but it slipped off the local right field wall for a double, Averill and Trosky scoring. Heath flied to Radcliff for the third out.

Galehouse, after fanning two of the Sox in the first inning, could not get a man out in the second. Bonura started the six run foray with a single. Appling also singled and followed Bonura home on Hayes' double. Piet, Sewell, and Stratton walked in succession, Hayes scoring the tying run. Lee came in to southpaw to Radcliff, who singled to score Piet and Sewell and put Stratton on third. Stratton scored on Rosenthal's force of Radcliff and Haas bounced into a double play.

Chelini to the Rescue.

As soon as it became evident that Stratton was foundering in the home second, Dykes yanked him. Sullivan singled, Lee walked and Hughes doubled, scoring Sullivan. Chelini then came to the rescue. Knickerbocker singled to score Lee and Hughes followed him home on Radcliff's wild return throw to the plate. Chelini then southpawed Averill, Trosky, and Weatherly into submission.

The Sox got results from Lee's generosity in the fifth. With one out Appling walked, Hayes singled, and Piet walked. Sewell also walked,

PURDUE'S FIRST TEST.

PURDUE'S first test of its 1936 football eleven will come Saturday at Lafayette against Ohio university of Athens, O., which must not be confused with Ohio State university at Columbus. These Bobcats, as they are known, are likely to afford plenty of trouble for the Boilermakers, still suffering mentally and in material from their recent dressing room tragedy.

Ohio U. is no stranger to Big Ten competition or to Purdue, either, for that matter. It was this eleven coached by Don C. Peden, former Illini, which gave Zuppke's eleven its first headache of the 1935 season, 6 to 0, and then went through the year undefeated for its fourth Buckeye conference title since 1929. In this conference also are Ohio Wesleyan, Cincinnati, Dayton, Miami, and Marshall. These colleges play a good brand of football. Purdue last met the Bobcats in 1933 when the Boilermakers were successful, 13 to 6.

Peden coached elevens also have met Indiana three times. In 1931 and again in 1932 Indiana was fortunate to record 7 to 6 victories by margin of a point after touchdown. In the latter year Ohio U. defeated Navy, 14 to 0. In 1934, when Ohio was weakened by loss of veterans, Indiana rolled up a 27 to 0 count.

Peden, who had been a star at Champaign, took up the coaching reins at Athens in the fall of 1923. At that time Ohio U. was winning nearly half its games in its own company. He started to build. His efforts attracted attention in 1927 when an eleven composed mostly of sophomores won 5, lost 2, and tied 2. That same bunch of players in their senior year of 1929 annexed the Buckeye title and also defeated Indiana Reserves, 19 to 0, their first experience against Big Ten opposition.

Ohio U. also won Buckeye titles in 1930 and 1931, its only reverse in two seasons being the 6 to 7 count against Indiana. The Bobcats won all 1935 games, including the 6 to 0 game against Illinois, scoring 170 points to 36 by opponents.

These invaders of Purdue's home gridiron are called almost on a par ity with last year's eleven, with capable replacements. They always are well coached. Purdue will be weakened by the death of two stars. Spirit of the other boys is said to be wonderful. It is this mental reaction from the shock of their accident

DROPS HUSKY PHILADELPHIAN THREE TIMES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Joe Louis made a second successful start toward his former eminence as a leading challenger for the heavyweight championship tonight by knocking out Al Ettore, barrel chested Philadelphia Italian, in the fifth round of their scheduled fifteen round bout.

The former Chicago Golden Gloves champion floored his courageous rival with two smashing left hooks to the jaw, delivered in quick succession, which dropped Ettore in his own corner. There the Philadelphian, who had been floored twice previously, managed to get to one knee, where he awaited the count.

When the toll reached ten he made a desperate effort to arise, but the strength was lacking, and he toppled back, falling half way through the ropes, completely knocked out.

An enthusiastic crowd of 40,409 gathered in the same stadium where, ten years ago tomorrow, Jack Dempsey lost his championship to Gene Tunney. Promoters announced the receipts as $210,117.25.

Louis won pretty much as expected. Ettore was selected as his opponent because of his durability, only one knockout having been scored over him. But the fight was less than two minutes old when Louis demonstrated the vaunted punching power that brought him into world-wide fame in little more than two years is still with him. He shot a right to Ettore's jaw, his first hard punch of the bout, and dropped the iron jawed Philadelphian for a count of three.

From that point on the complexion of the match changed. Ettore, who rushed at Louis with the opening bell and fired two lefts, suddenly assumed a definite defensive attitude, which he maintained until knocked out.

Change Bothers Louis.

The Philadelphian's change of tactics bothered Louis for the next two rounds and he had difficulty reaching the chunky Ettore. He missed a surprising number of right hand punches and left Ettore a number of openings to score with a left hand.

Louis found the range again in the fourth round and it marked the beginning of the end. He pecked away at the head with a jolting left until he had Ettore where he wanted him. Then he flashed across a smashing right to the jaw, flooring Ettore for the second time. Ettore rested on one knee and waited the count of nine before arising.

When he came out for the fifth Ettore appeared as strong as ever. He drew a burst of applause by his willingness to exchange lefts and appeared to have slightly the better of the trade. Louis, however, took Ettore's punches without blinking, then blasted his left hook against the Italian's jaw and in a twinkling brought it across again. Ettore sagged to the canvas, face down. He floundered for some seconds before pulling himself to his knees. It appeared as if he would beat the count, but just as he attempted to stand his senses suddenly left him and he collapsed.

Tries, but Fails.

He slumped across the ropes and eager hands helped him to his stool. There he remained for several minutes, gradually returning to consciousness.

Louis bruised his right thumb in the fourth round. He landed a punch slightly off center and the nail bent back, taking the skin with it.

As he lay in his dressing room, with only the bandaged thumb as evidence of the bout, Louis said he planned his first night of his indoor season Oct. 9 in New York against Jorge Brescia, the Argentine. After that he's going to fight as often as every four to six weeks if suitable opponents can be found.

"Ettore," Louis said, "is a fairly clever fighter and a game one. But I didn't have any trouble with him. He wasn't puzzling."

Ettore was more concise:

"I got the works," he said. "I trained for a right hand puncher and got nailed by a left. He's some puncher. I did not think he was that good."

Mrs. Joe Louis stayed at home in Detroit. The Louis family was well represented, however, by mother, sister, and brother.

Eddie Blunt, 215, beat Arizona Kid, 195 [4].
Sandy McDonald, 205, of Texas, stopped Paul Hott, 191 [1].
Eddie Primo, 210, knocked out Jerry Pavaleck, 214 [1].
Frank Connelly, 235, of Boston, beat Stanley Ketchell, 200 [4].

Red Burman Hammers Ketchell; Wins Decision

CRIPPLES JOIN GOPHER SQUAD IN MONTANA DRILL

Move On to Missoula for Two Day Stopover.

Miles City, Mont., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Stopping here for the day on its trip to Seattle, the Minnesota football squad held two practices for the Washington game Saturday afternoon. Coach Bernie Bierman called a two hour chalk talk for the morning. Immediately after lunch, a two hour workout was staged at the Fair Grounds despite the heat and a stiff wind.

Weld and Uram, two of the five cripples, limbered up in the signal drill. Both indicated they will be ready to play Saturday.

King and Reed were at the ends with Widseth and Midler at the tackles, Rork and Twedell at the guards, and Svendsen at center. Tuffy Thompson, Julie Alfonse, Spadaccini, and Wilkinson composed the back field.

WILDCATS DOUBLE UP.

In an effort to fortify back field positions hit by injuries and ineligibilities, Coach Lynn Waldorf announced yesterday a number of Northwestern players would be schooled in two assignments. Steve Toth, veteran full back, will learn the assignments for quarter back.

Bernard Jefferson, sophomore from Grand Rapids, who has been stationed at left half, also will be taught the right half signals. In addition to being ball carrier, Jefferson has shown promise as a kicker and passer. Bob Carter will be used both at full back and right half. Iggy Mesec, sophomore full back from Waukegan, has been shifted to left half to replace the ineligible Bob Swisher.

BALAZS TO PUNT FOR IOWA.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Iowa players appeared on the field in light jerseys under 90 degree heat today. Frank Balazs of Chicago seems to have won the punting assignment and will start Saturday's game with Carleton at one of the half back posts.

The regulars went through a signal drill and several linemen, among them Deheer, Liggett, and Farroh, received special attention. The squad is expected to be intact for the opener with the exception of Dick Bowlin, who has an injured leg, and Grange, sophomore half back, who has a torn chest muscle suffered in scrimmage Monday. John Mild, first string quarter back, suffered from a shoulder bruise.

MAROONS DRILL IN FIELDHOUSE.

Heat drove the University of Chicago's Maroons into the coolness of the fieldhouse yesterday. But before the afternoon was over Coach Shaughnessy drove the squad, as it rolled in perspiration, through its fourth consecutive day's scrimmage.

It appeared yesterday that Morton Goodstein, pile driving sophomore full back, probably would be unable to play Saturday against Lawrence. Goodstein remained in Billings hospital yesterday with an arm infection.

Shaughnessy now has four ends of about equal merit. Yesterday he shifted Bob Fitzgerald and Carl Frick to the first team. While Bill Gillerlain and Ken Petersen worked out with the second eleven, Norm Joffee, sophomore from Hyde Park, was at guard with the varsity, replacing Clarence Wright, who returned to action but with the reserves.

BADGERS MAY START BELIN.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Although at least a half dozen sophomores are likely to see service for Wisconsin in the opening game against South Dakota State at Camp Randall Saturday, only Roy Bellin, Milwaukee, a left half back, appeared today to have a chance of breaking into the starting lineup.

With the return of Full Back Eddie Jankowski, Coach Stuhldreher began shaping a first string lineup as he pushed the squad through its last day of double practice sessions. Jankowski will start at his old position, Erv Windward is the choice at quarter back, and Clarence Tommerson and Bellin seem to hold an edge at the half back positions.

NEW SHOT MAY STOP POISONING OF WATERFOWL

Nontoxic Metal Developed by Scientists.

BY BOB BECKER.

Several years ago a member of the staf of the Mayo clinic sent us a detailed report of some studies that he and others had made on the subject of lead poisoning among waterfowl.

Birds that had been used for the studies were taken from a famous hunting marsh in Minnesota where, during years of shooting, a heavy layer of shot had been deposited in the mud bottom of the shooting hole. Ducks feeding in this area were picking up shot with their food. Lead poisoning resulted.

Hunters Are Learning.

We reported the interesting facts about lead poisoning as detailed by this Minnesota scientist. A number of hunters scoffed at the idea of there being so much shot in any one shooting place. We can remember some of the sarcastic letters that we received on this subject from shooters who obviously knew nothing of lead poisoning, nor that the government authorities had been working on this problem for a number of years. But many hunters know now that an increasing number of ducks and geese are getting lead shot with their food and being killed by lead poisoning.

New Soluble Shot.

Now comes the announcement that the biological survey working with Minnesota scientists has developed a nontoxic shot metal which disintegrates in water. It's an alloy of lead and magnesium which, when taken into the alimentary tracts of waterfowl, breaks down rapidly and passes through the intestines before a fatal dose of lead can be assimilated.

Ordinary lead shot [when so taken by ducks and geese] is trapped in the gizzard. Usually only four or five pellets is sufficient to kill a duck. Ordinarily not more than a few pellets are found in a bird, but the scientists have found dying birds with many shot pellets in their gizzards. For example, one duck that was examined after mucking around in the soft mud of a shooting pond long used by gunners had picked up 288 lead pellets.

Shift Players at Purdue as Opener Nears

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The remodeling of Purdue's football squad in preparation for the season's opener with Ohio university, undefeated Buckeye conference champion, here on Saturday, continued this afternoon with an extended defensive scrimmage session.

Disappointed at the failure of the rebuilt combination to consistently halt a freshman eleven using the same type of plays that have carried Ohio university through three undefeated seasons in seven years, Coach Noble Kizer was contemplating several additional shifts. Two different combinations were tried out at the weakened guard positions. Forrest Burmeister and Andy Grant worked as one combination and Lee Graves and Nate Bush, a lighter pair, as another.

The plans for a Purdue loyalty meeting to be held Thursday gained momentum today with the announcement that Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, has accepted an invitation to take part in the program.

ILLINI GIVEN LETUP.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Deciding that the Illini football candidates needed a letup, Coach Bob Zuppke forgot scrimmage today as the players put up their last day of double practices. University instruction begins tomorrow. A long punting drill occupied the first and second teams, with Jay Wardley, sophomore quarter back, showing much improvement as a kicker.

The question of who will start at left guard against De Paul here Saturday became more clouded when Willard Cramer, sophomore lineman, was incapacitated by a shoulder bump. Henry Bruder, Dick Fay, and Bob Porter are prospects for the position. Porter, a roly-poly guard from Oak Park, has attracted much attention.

THREE HURT AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Three more Michigan players joined the injured list today as Harry Kipke, despite warm weather, sent his second team through a scrimmage and turned his effort toward perfecting the blocking and passing of his first eleven.

Robert Pietrowski, sophomore back from Manistee, was believed to have received a dislocated arm in scrimmage. He joined Cedric Sweet, full back; Dan Smick and Art Valpey, ends, out with minor ailments. Sweet and Valpey have leg injuries, while Smick is suffering from a stomach ailment.

Alex Loiko, one of the most promising of sophomore backs, appeared at end in scrimmage as Capt. Matt Patanelli and Elmer Gedeon, ends, still remained out of uniform. Kipke had Bob Cooper, Stark Ritchie, Bob Campbell, and Louis Levine doing most of the passing.

LAYDEN SEEKS PUNTERS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Joe Beinor and Frank Kopczak, tackles, were pulled out of the line in Notre Dame's practice today and were put to work with the punters.

Coach Elmer Layden has shown more and more concern about his inability to uncover punting replacements for Bill Shakespeare and Andy Pilney.

Bill Horan, Jack McCarthy, and Chuck Borowski also were given a trial.

Layden allotted a large share of the drill to blocking and ball handling, two departments in which scrimmages to date have shown the Irish to be weak. The squad will scrimmage tomorrow and will play a regulation game with the freshmen Saturday.

Probable Major League Pitchers for Games Today

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Pittsburgh at Chicago—Swift vs. Henshaw.
Brooklyn at Boston—Mungo vs. Weir.
New York at Philadelphia—Hubbell vs. Sivess.
Cincinnati at St. Louis—Derringer vs. Parmelee.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Chicago at Cleveland [2]—Whitehead vs Feller; Kennedy vs. Zuber.
Boston at Washington—Ostermueller vs Appelton.
Philadelphia at New York—Turbeville vs. Broaca.
St. Louis at Detroit—Hogsett vs. Rowe.

PACKY M'FARLAND SINKING RAPIDLY AT JOLIET HOME

Patrick [Packy] McFarland, wealthy brewery owner, banker, and member of the Illinois state athletic commission for three years, was still alive early today, though it had been reported last night that he was sinking rapidly at his home in Joliet. McFarland suffered an attack of intestinal influenze last month and shortly afterward contracted a streptoccocic infection localized near the heart, according to several specialists.

McFarland's illness, at first believed to be a strange malady, causes high fevers and produces periodical attacks of coma. He was in a partial coma last night. At his bedside were Dr. Arthur Fahrner, family physician; Mrs. McFarland, their three daughters, and a son.

Shift De Paul Players for Illinois Game

Picking a starting lineup for the Illinois game Saturday at Champaign still had Coach Jim Kelly of De Paul guessing yesterday afternoon. The ineligibility ruling which deprived him of Tom Roberts, regular guard, and Red Corrigan has forced him to make a number of shifts.

Bruno Raffin was back at his old guard post in yesterday's scrimmage. He and Evy Eastlund are the probable guard choices to start against the Illini. Chester Chesney, former Lane Tech player, has shown well at the center post in recent scrimmages and should get the call here.

Carlson Sure to Start.

Capt. Hal Carlson is assured of his tackle position. The other starter at tackle depends upon the condition of Maurice [Moose] Washburne. The former Oak Park High school star still is limping about with a trick knee. Vladimir Vojvodich, husky reserve last year and Hal Chaddock are fighting for a chance to open. Joe Gagliardo, who was injured in Monday's scrimmage probably won't be in shape by Saturday.

Kelly Is Recovering.

Bill Mueller and Chuck Apolskis seem to have the inside track for the end berths. Ed Kelly is rounding into shape after suffering a shoulder injury early in the practice season, and should see action Saturday.

The backfield is manned by veterans. At the signal calling job Harry Postaer, substitute for last year's co-captain Ray Durkin, should get the call. Les Kein is the choice at full back. Either Bill Phillips or Pat Howlett will start at left half, and Julian Heim will be at right half.

NEW ROCHESTER PRESIDENT.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Oliver B. French, president of Asheville, N. C., baseball club of the Piedmont league, today was named president of the Rochester Red Wings of the International league.

Going Home.

I've decided to go home today,
Surprise the folks . . . and in some way
I'll make up for these lonely years.
" Home, Sweet Home," it brings the tears
To know that I shall soon be there
In the grand old place again . . . and where
Those tender hearts still wait for me!
The joy to know that I shall see
My mother's sweet face, feel her kiss,
And hear dad laughing . . . and the bliss
Of sis and mother near to me, too!
There's nothing that I wouldn't do
For those at home . . . I know I'll feel
The rapture of a home cooked meal!
There is no trouble HOME won't heal.

And so, good-by! I'm on my way!
I'm going to see my folks today!

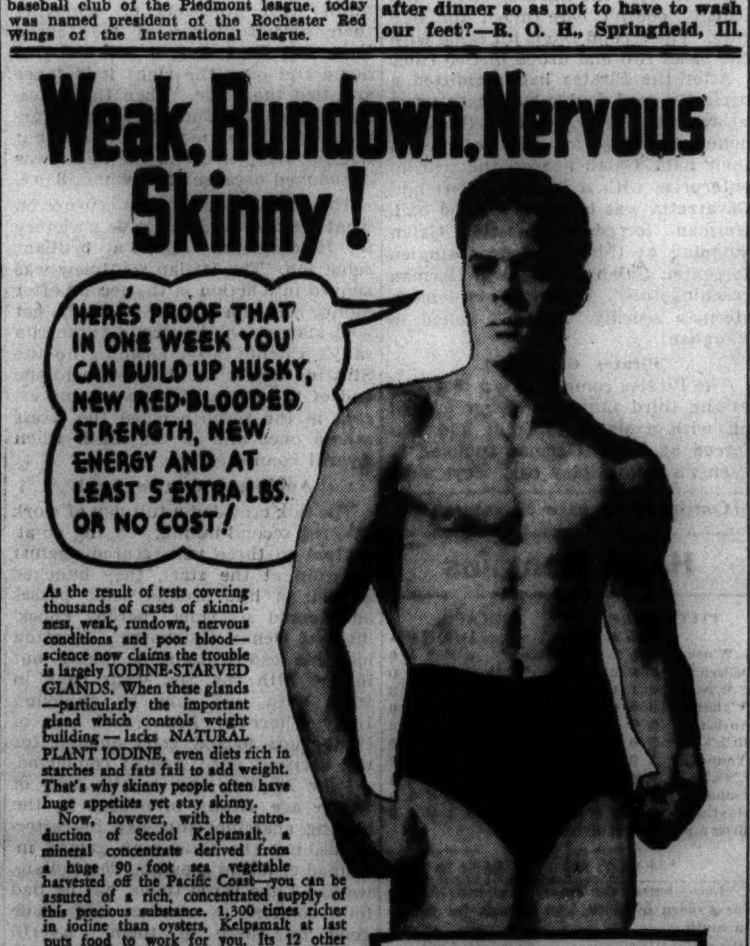
Weak, Rundown, Nervous Skinny!



As the result of tests covering thousands of cases of skinniness, weak, rundown, nervous conditions and poor blood—science now claims the trouble is largely IODINE-STARVED GLANDS. When these glands—particularly the important gland which controls weight building—lacks NATURAL PLANT IODINE, even diets rich in starches and fats fail to add weight. That's why skinny people often have huge appetites yet stay skinny.

Now, however, with the introduction of Seedol Kelpamalt, a mineral concentrate derived from a huge 90-foot sea vegetable harvested off the Pacific Coast—you can be assured of a rich, concentrated supply of this precious substance. 1,300 times richer in iodine than oysters, Kelpamalt at last puts food to work for you. TIGERS HAMMER BROWN PITCHERS; WIN TWO GAMES

Take First, 12 to 0; Win Second, 14 to 0.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers tightened their hold on second place in the American league race today by blanking St. Louis twice. Tommy Bridges recorded his 23d victory of the season in shutting out the Browns in the second game, 14 to 0, after Elden Auker had won the opener, 12 to 0. The double triumph ran Detroit's winning streak to nine straight.

ping at second. Jensen's pop fly came down back of third just out of Jurges' reach, filling the bases. P. Waner caromed a double off Hack's glove, Hoyt and L. Waner counting. Vaughan walked, again loading the bases. Suhr singled to center, Jensen and P. Waner scoring and Vaughan reaching third. Davis replaced French and walked Brubaker to give the Pirates a maximum of base runners for the third time in the session. Young lined to Demaree, the runners holding on. Padden was called out on strikes in his second turn at bat.

The Cubs tied the score in the fourth. Demaree and Hack singled, advanced on Hartnett's sacrifice and scored on Gill's single to center. Jurges hit into a double play.

Hack Scores Herman.

The Chicagoans scored a run in the sixth and had runners on third and second when Brown replaced Hoyt and extinguished the fire. Herman walked, moved up on Demaree's sacrifice and scored on Hack's single. Hartnett forced Hack on Young's trapped ball play. Gill doubled to right, Hartnett stopping at third, and Brown entered the arena. Jurges tapped to Brubaker.

Brown was nicked for six runs in the eighth. Demaree singled with one down and went to third on Hack's single to center, Hack reaching second on L. Waner's throw to third. The runners held their bases while Brubaker tossed out Hartnett. Then Gill was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Jurges beat out an infield single, Demaree scoring, and Davis socked his second single, Hack and Gill scoring. Galan doubled to right, scoring Jurges, and Cavaretta singled to center, scoring Davis and Galan. Herman, who supplied the first out of the inning, also supplied the third by striking out.

Carl Fischer Stars as Buffalo Beats Orioles, 3-1

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Behind the brilliant two hit pitching of Carl [Lefty] Fischer, the Buffalo Bisons defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 3 to 1, tonight to take a three to two game edge in their final International playoff for the right to meet Milwaukee in the little world series. It was the first victory the Bisons had been able to score in three games in Baltimore and the second of the series for Fischer. The teams return to Buffalo tomorrow to conclude the series, which goes to the first team winning four games.

Henshaw to Hurl for Cubs Against Swift

Roy Henshaw will pitch for the Cubs this afternoon in the next to last National league game of the year at Wrigley field. The Pirates will use Bill Swift.

Pennsylvania kept the Cubs from challenging the White Sox for a city series. The victory over the Pirates and the double victory of the Phillies over the Giants prolonged the Cubs' mathematical chance to tie for the pennant and the Cubs will not challenge their city rivals until they are mathematically out of the National league race:

Jack Doyle, Cubs senior scout, who has been spying on the White Sox recently, unloaded his secret findings to Manager Grimm yesterday. It is said he reported that Luke Appling can't hit a ball pitched over the grandstand.

Though the day was like unto July, one of the smallest outpourings of the year craved to behold the Cubs and Pirates in the first of their battles for third place.

Sox, Indians Play 8-8 Tie in 12 Innings

forcing in Appling. Chelini fouled to Heath and Hayes scored after the catch. Radcliff bounced to Hughes for the third out.

After a stretch of four innings on one hit, Chelini got into real difficulties in the seventh but escaped with a one run yield after the bases had been filled with none out. Knickerbocker and Averill singled and Trosky walked. Pytlak, batting for Weatherly, rolled into a force play on which Knickerbocker scored. Hale then popped to Sewell in front of the plate and Haas took care of Vosmik's fly. The next bad news for Chelini and his pals was Averill's No. 27 homer, which vanished over the high right field wall and tied the score with nobody out in the ninth.

Sox Miss Chances.

The Sox weren't without chances in the last three innings, but they couldn't make it. Blaeholder walked Kreevich to open the tenth. Haas rolled into a force out and Bonura into a double play. Appling led off in the eleventh with his third single and Hayes bunted him to second. Piet fanned, Sewell was purposely passed and Walker, batting for Chelini, lined to Galatzer.

In the twelfth Radcliff opened with a single which nicked Hughes on the ear and forced his retirement. The needed hit wasn't produced. Meanwhile Brown kept the Indians in leash until darkness broke up the show.

FOOTBALL GAME TO AID SISTERS OF MERCY FUND

The 90th anniversary celebration of the Sisters of Mercy in Chicago will be held in Jackson park, 63d street and Stony Island avenue, Friday night. A huge parade, which will include the bands and students of south side Catholic High schools, American Legion posts, 124th Field artillery and the 108th Combat Engineers, will precede the demonstration at the park.

The parade will form at 60th street and proceed down Cottage Grove avenue to 63d street, then east on 63d to Stony Island avenue. Mayor Edward J. Kelly, United States Congressman Ray McKeough, D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store; United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and Frank Burke, vice president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, will be among the speakers.

The Sisters of Mercy, first Catholic nuns in Chicago, who operate the Mercy hospital, 26th street and Prairie avenue, will receive the proceeds of the football game between Marquette and St. Louis universities which will be played at Soldiers' field Oct. 10. According to Richard Lenihan, general chairman, advance sales indicate a crowd of more than 60,000 will attend.

PARKER BEATEN BY TIDBALL IN COAST TOURNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Defeat of Frankie Parker of Milwaukee and the two French invaders, Jacques Brugnon and Yvon Letra, marked third round play in men's singles today in the annual Pacific southwest tennis championships.

England's Fred Perry, Don Budge, America's No. 1 player, and Francis X. Shields of Hollywood were favorites to come through unscathed.

Parker, sixth ranking singles player in the United States, was defeated by Jack Tidball, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-4. The Milwaukee entry, complaining of a recurrence of an old stomach disorder, withdrew from the tournament.

John Van Ryn defeated Jacques Brugnon, 6-3, 6-2, and Mort Ballagh, Los Angeles, eliminated Letra, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4. Budge eliminated Elwood Cooke, 6-3, 6-3, and Shields eliminated Henry Culley, Santa Barbara, 6-4, 6-1.

Women's singles favorites came through as expected, Alice Marble defeating Mrs. Ruby Bishop Bixler, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-1, and Carolin Babcock eliminated Bonnie Blank, 7-5, 6-4.

Set Bouts to Support Zona, Marek Battle

Two bouts at six rounds and three at four rounds were arranged yesterday to support the eight round main event between Max Marek, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Max Zona at Arcadia Gardens next Tuesday.

Wesley Martin, Barberton, O., lightweight, has been paired with Al Nettlow, Golden Gloves alumnus and stablemate of Marek, for six rounds. Martin will substitute for Geno Salvatore. The other six rounder matches Eddie Wenstob, Canadian light heavyweight, and George Valles of Alabama. Contestants at four rounds are Bruno Dooley and Chuck McCarthy, heavyweights; Chet Le Vere and Don McDonald, light heavyweights, and Tony Capone and Harry Booker, lightweights.

Harry Thomas, who has knocked out eight of ten Chicago opponents, will appear in the eight round semifinal in the opening show at Chicago Stadium Oct. 2, Matchmaker James C. Mullen announced yesterday. Andre Lenglet, Jorge Brescia, Bob Pastor, Hank Hankinson, and Steve Dudas are being sought to oppose the Eagle Bend, Minn., heavyweight slugger. John Henry Lewis and Red Burman are principals in the ten round windup. Cowboy Frankie Edgren, Denver, Colo., clown heavyweight, will appear in a preliminary match.

Oki Shikina, Japanese jiu jitsu heavyweight wrestler, and Ivan Rasputin, bearded journeyman wrestler, tonight will meet in a return bout at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. The match is set for 90 minutes, an hour longer than their previous meeting here which ended in a draw. Supporting bouts:

Lee Wychoff vs. Paul Shikat.
Dutch Heffner vs. George Mansor.
Denny Lentz vs. Ernie Peterson.
Rudy Kay vs. Faro Renaldi.

Armand Sicilia, Springfield, Ill., will arrive today to finish training for a scheduled ten round bout with Leo Rodak at White City tomorrow. He will be Rodak's second foe in the south side boxer's new campaign for recognition as a featherweight.

BEARS TRAMPLE ROCK ISLAND ELEVEN, 34 TO 6

Moline, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Chicago Bears rolled over the Rock Island Independents, 34 to 6, here tonight before 4,000 fans.

The Bears piled up a 28 to 0 lead in the first half and were held to one touchdown in the second half by the lighter Islanders, who are coached by Joe Kurth, former Notre Dame tackle.

The Bears tossed away one more touchdown in the third quarter when Molesworth, with a certain score in sight after a 60 yard run, tossed a lateral pass to Musso on the 5 yard line. The big tackle fumbled and Rock Island recovered.

Yank, Giants Outfields Are About Even

In the field Ott isn't especially fast. He doesn't have to be. There isn't much ground to cover in right field in either park. But he's sure on fly balls he can reach, he can throw well, and he is a master at playing drives off the concrete wall at the Polo grounds. George Selkirk, the Yankee right fielder, is less skilled in this particular, even in his park, where it is easier to judge caroms.

Moore Good, Too.

In Joe Moore, left fielder, the Giants have another worth while performer. He's fast on his feet, a matter of importance for the occasion because both left fields are roomy. Moore is a good hitter. He's also an excellent thrower both for distance and accuracy, and National league base runners always have had marked respect for his skill.

Moore undoubtedly is preferable to Jake Powell, the Yank left fielder, at least over a long stretch. Powell is the rip snorting impetuous type of fielder who takes chances. One bad guess in a world series would be all he'd need to make himself a goat. The charging style of player, such as he is, might easily cause himself some embarrassment handling drives off the wall in the Polo grounds. However, not many of the Giant batters have enough power to hit this wall except close to the foul line and a fielder hasn't time to get even close to those shots until after they have rebounded.

Watch Di Maggio.

In center field the Yankees, at least defensively, will have a big advantage. That's where the sensational freshman, Joe Di Maggio, performs. The lanky youngster from the Coast league can go and get 'em whether it is a matter of going back, coming in, or going to the side. Because of his speed and his quick judgment on fly balls, he is able to give the two other outfielders plenty of protection. Center field in both the Yankee stadium and the Polo grounds give the California Italian plenty of room in which to exercise his talents.

The Giants will have to match Di Maggio with either Jim Ripple or Hank Leiber. Manager Terry apparently doesn't have any too much faith in either. Leiber, after a big season in 1935, has been a disappointment as a hitter. Ripple, a first year man, rates well as a fly chaser, but there is reason to doubt his worth as a hitter. He bats from either side of the plate.

Plenty of Punch.

Giant adherents insist Di Maggio can be dismissed as a hitter, but there is no reason to take that claim seriously. It's based mainly on the fact that he failed under pressure in the All-Star game, but we prefer to remembber that a great stop by Leo Durocher with three on was all that kept Di Maggio from breaking up that game. The Giant pitchers will have to keep constantly in mind that Di Maggio always is liable to drive a ball out of the park.

McCarthy's outfield replacement question is less complicated than that of Terry because the Yankees have a couple of fellows who while only ordinary fielders are dangerous hitters in small parks. One is Roy Johnson, ex-Red Sox. The other is Bob Seeds, former Indian and White Sox, who was salvaged from the minors several months ago when Myril Hoag was injured. Seeds is liable to hit a ball a mile off the best pitcher in the business. Both these fellows might be of help if McCarthy finds need for pinch hitters.

Whitehead and Kennedy Pitch for Sox Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Vernon Kennedy and John Whitehead probably will pitch for the White Sox in tomorrow's double-header. Bob Feller, the young strike-out sensation, and Rookie Zuber will work for the Indians.

Manager Jim Dykes promised to play today, but at the last minute gave the third base job to Tony Piet. Dykes wore himself out meeting the speechmaking demands made by his fellow Legionnaires from Pennsylvania. Coach Billy Webb also has been busy with buddies. Bill's been taken charge of by the Chicago delegates.

The Sox had two reasons for welcoming a chance to get out of St. Louis Sunday night. One was that the Browns bumped them four straight times and the other that their friend Umpire Lou Kolls was there. But today who turned up behind the plate but the same Kolls.

The town was so completely tied up by the all day long Legion parade that not many people could find their way to the ball park. Fewer than 3,000 were present.

AWARD B. B. Y. O. PRIZES AT TEAM DINNER TUESDAY

Trophies will be awarded to three championship teams of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization at a banquet next Tuesday night at the Covenant club. Ben Bernie, band leader, will present the organization with a four foot trophy which will include the names of the title squads each year.

The championship teams are B'nai Judahs of the west section in the junior division, B'nai Newman of the north section in the intermediate division and Beth Solomon of the west section in the open division. Prizes also will be awarded to various section winners.

ARGENTINA TO SEEK POLO CUP IN GAME TODAY

Americans Decline to Change Lineup.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The cup of the Americas virtually was handed to Argentina's poloists today when the tournament committee of the United States Polo association decided against any change in the North American lineup for the second match of the series tomorrow.

The committee ordered John Hay Whitney's Greentree four, which was smothered 21 to 9 in the opening match Sunday, to complete the series without any substitutions, thus carrying out an agreement that the South Americans would play the winners of the United States open championship and their reserves, if any, for the cup.

Victory Means Cup.

Another victory for the Argentines would crown their third bid for the cup with success and make a third match unnecessary or reduce it to the status of an exhibition, next Saturday.

Only a sharp reversal of form by the South Americans, experts agree, can keep the invaders from riding off with the trophy on their superior ponies and team play. After the Argentines' sensational scoring spree in the opener, marked by 13 goals in the last 30 minutes, observers conceded the United States little chance of successfully defending the cup won in 1928 and retained in 1932.

Get Extra Mounts.

Although today's decision barred any idea of inserting Winston Guest or Stewart Iglehart, eight goal stars, into the Greentree lineup, it is understood the equine members of the home team will be reinforced. Several prominent Long Island stables have contributed additional mounts.

As the result of the committee's edict, Pete Bostwick, Gerald Balding, Tommy Hitchcock Jr., and Whitney will ride in that order against Luis Duggan, Roberto Cavanagh, Andres Gazzotti, and Manuel Andrada.

JENKINS BEATS 24 HR. RECORD; AUTO ROARS ON

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Ab Jenkins, Utah auto driver, set a new 24 hour world land speed mark of 153.76 miles an hour tonight, and roared on into the dusk in quest of a 48 hour record.

The new mark eclipses the 24 hour record of 150.162 miles an hour set two weeks ago by John Cobb of London, who sandwiched a run on the glistening salt flats between record attempts by Jenkins.

Jenkins' streamlined Mormon Meteor was performing perfectly as it flashed across the finish line for the one day run and raced on in an attempt to smash the 48 hour mark of 136.34 held by Capt. George Eyston of England. Jenkins took over the wheel for the final record spurt after he had been relieved earlier by Babe Stapp, Los Angeles. Before he relinquished the wheel to Jenkins at 3 p. m., two other records fell.

These were the 3,000 mile mark, formerly held by Cobb at 150.4 m. p. h., which Stapp broke with 153.6 m. p. h., and the 5,000 kilometer record of 150.21, Jenkins averaging 153.95.

RECOVERY RUNS ALL OVER TRACK BEFORE WINNING

Navarre Takes Riverdale Purse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For a few seconds at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon 5,000 race goers, who had backed the stylishly bred 4 year old Recovery so stoutly that she was the 7 to 5 favorite, were ready to trade their tickets for buttons, lead nickles or what have you.

This terrifying suspense came when the field started around the final turn into the home stretch. Recovery was enjoying a lead of two lengths. Ep was running second. Ald. Coughlin's colt, Determined, was close up and in third position.

Would Recovery run to the outside fence, as is her custom? her backers asked themselves. She would try it anyway, they soon learned.

Off to Answer the Phone.

Out and out she went toward the fence. About three quarters of the way across the track, Jocky Basil James got her under control. He straightened her out in a jiffy. Still she had gone far enough out to permit the fleet Ep to scoot through on the inside and take command.

Recovery was a length behind when James got her straightened out and into full stride again. She quickly made up the lost ground and dashed on to beat Ep by two and a half lengths. Determined held on to be third.

It was a nerve testing ordeal for Recovery's backers. But they soon were in ship shape again after her number went up. They collected $4.80 for each $2 invested.

Navarre Wins Stake.

Recovery is a daughter of Sickle-War Path, and is owned by G. H. Emick of Chicago. During the season she has raced against most of the best sprinters here.

Eight candidates for the Joliet handicap for 2 year olds, to be run Oct. 3, came together in the Riverdale pure at six furlongs. Navarre, a daughter of Stefan the Great-Mademoiselle, which races for Leo O'Donnell, qualified brilliantly when she came up from behind to conquer Mose Goldblatt's Dr. Menendez. She went on to win handily by a length and a half.

She ran her six furlongs in 1:12, faster time than the older Recovery covered the same distance. Most racegoers believed her effort was equally as impressive as the one turned in by the sensational Chicago filly Challite 24 hours earlier.

Navarre ran a different kind of a race than Challite. The latter raced far out in front most of the way. Navarre was kept under restraint by Jocky Buddy Haas throughout the early stages.

Doctor Is Run Down.

When he called upon her at the head of the stretch, she rushed forward and after a few long strides was on even terms with Dr. Menendez. There was a stubborn brush between the two which lasted nearly half a furlong. Navarre was the gamer. She whipped the doctor and went sailing on to victory. Cross S. finished third.

Midlothian Victor Over Butterfield

Midlothian Golf club members, playing over their home course yesterday, obtained revenge over Butterfield for the trimming they received early in the season at the west side course, by winning, 48½ to 29½, in 26 matches scored under the Nassau system.

Presidents of both clubs were in the lineup, Gordon Crowder of Midlothian earning 2½ pionts against Frank Lavins' ½, while Howard Brundage, chief executive at Butterfield counted 1 against Eddie Murphy's two. Murphy was the star performer, scoring 35—37—72, one over par.

In addition to the match play trophies, several were awarded for low net. Thomas L. Grace headed the Butterfield winners and the field with 87—17—70. Joe Dailey, a visitor, took second with 88—17—71, while D. J. Organ completed Butterfield's circle with 94—22—72.

O. A. Feldon, with 40—49—89, won low gross at the Western Advertisers' monthly tournament at Bob o' Link yesterday. The field was divided into classes for the low net prizes. Those winning were:

Low net: Class A—W D. Washburn, 92—7—85. Class B—Hi Schuster, 90—12—78; second, Ken Carpenter, 92—14—78. Class C—H. R. Van Gunten, 96—19—77; second, Art Moulton, 97—18—79; third, J. A. Bender, 96—16—80. Class D—W. B. Conant, 101—24—77; second, A. J. Crane, 104—25—79; third, John Ryan, 110—30—80.

Low net foursome—W. K. Fawcett, 88—14—74; G. B. Bassler, 100—26—74; Art Moulton, 97—18—79; H. O. McCausland, 87—3—84; total, 311. Second—E. E. Voynow, 92—14—78; Henry King, 93—10—83; Robert Erskine, 86—7—79, and Carlton Drake, 85—13—72; total, 312.

The big stag event of the year for members and their guests will be held tomorrow at Twin Orchards, Bryn Mawr avenue and Wolf road. The event, known as "annual hooky day," is to be a twenty-four hour affair, according to E. B. Diamondstone, chairman of the entertainment committee. Edward P. Steinberg, chairman of the greens committee, is in charge of a special golf tournament and athletic features for the day. Sam Orner is serving his second term as president of the club.

Playing at Bob o' Link yesterday in a foursome as a guest of Bill Collins, Charles J. McKenna sank his tee shot at the fourth hole, 163 yards. He said he had been trying to do it for thirty-six years.

CHECKS MAILED TO DEPOSITORS OF SEVEN BANKS

Repayment of $279,337 Made to 26,100.

Payment of $279,737 to 26,100 depositors of seven closed state banks in Cook county was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Checks were mailed last night.

Approximately half of the money involved and depositors affected is accounted for in the return of $138,890 or 5 per cent of their funds to the 13,500 depositors of the West Town State bank. This raises repayments to 57½ per cent and was made possible by collections of stockholders' liability assessments. In addition to returns to depositors, the West Town bank has paid off $593,381 in bills payable at the time the bank closed and $182,027 in preferred claims.

Exchange State Pays 7 Percent.

The next largest payment is that of $36,754 or 7 per cent, to the 2,800 depositors of the Exchange State bank. This brings total returns to 42 per cent. Funds for the current payment were obtained 3¼ per cent from stockholders' liability collections and 3¾ per cent from ordinary liquidation of assets. The receiver also has paid $24,849 preferred claims and $47,303 in old bills payable.

The Bryn Mawr State bank, one of the former Bain chain, is paying $35,811 or 7 per cent to 3,000 depositors. It now will have returned 22 per cent on deposits in addition to paying $110,550 bills and $18,680 preferred claims.

The 4,000 depositors of the Italian Trust and Savings bank will receive a 5 per cent return amounting to $32,833. They previously had been repaid 20 per cent. Preferred claims of $37,624 and bills payable of $297,681 have also been wiped out.

Suburban Banks Repay.

Three south suburban institutions share in the current disbursements. The largest of these payments is that of $16,577 or 5 per cent to the 1,300 depositors in the Lansing State bank, bringing total returns to 35 per cent. Preferred claims of $10,302 and bills of $50,490 also have been paid.

The Hegewisch State bank is returning $14,509 or 5 per cent to 1,000 depositors. It previously had made repayments of 37½ per cent. Preferred creditors have been paid $47,699.

The smallest payment of the group is the 5 per cent return of $4,363 to 500 depositors of the First State Bank of Steger, Ill., raising total repayments to 30 per cent. Preferred claims of $7,249 and bills of $10,000 also have been wiped out.

Except where otherwise noted, funds for these payments were obtained through ordinary liquidation of assets. Charles H. Albers is receiver for all seven banks.

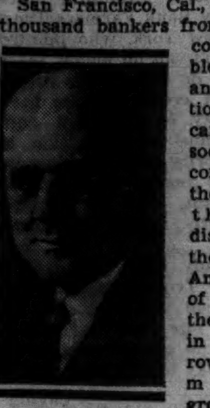
FEAR NEW DEAL WILL DISRUPT BANKING IN U. S.

Financiers Cite Vast Spending, Lending.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—Five thousand bankers from all over the country, assembled here for the annual convention of the American Bankers' association, today concentrated on the subject of the threatened disintegration of the traditional American system of finance due to the vast increase in federal borrowing and the mushroom growth of giant socialistic lending agencies created by the New Deal.



J. R. LEAVELL. [Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Big city financiers and little country bankers alike repeatedly stressed the danger to banks resulting from the federal siphoning of their funds and the competition of government lending. These expressions by the delegates indicated that banks throughout the country have been increasingly worried by such developments.

Bankers' Concern Deepens.

Their concern was deepened considerably tonight when the association's economic policy commission issued a report in which it was pointed out that the commercial banks of the nation are rapidly ceasing to be commercial banks and are being transferred into investment trusts, whose chief assets are government bonds and notes.

Small town bankers expressed the fear that this trend would lead ultimately to the disappearance of the small unit banks. Big city bankers voiced apprehension that market depreciation of securities held in the banks' portfolios might destroy their earning power. Bankers accustomed to doing a commercial lending business, it was pointed out, are rapidly having to educate themselves as investment bankers.

Warns of Vast Changes.

"Commercial banking in this country," said the economic policy commission's report, "appears to be facing important changes. Perhaps they are the most important that it has confronted since the closing year of the civil war.

"The change that is now taking place is that the volume of banking that may properly be termed commercial banking has so far declined that it constitutes only a small fraction of what it was just before the depression, and it has not recovered nearly in proportion as business has recovered.

"The volume of industrial production has increased until it is now as great as it was early in 1928, and demand deposits are at levels never before reached, but the totals of commercial loans are a little more than a third as great as they were in 1928. They are not much more than 10 per cent larger than they averaged in the lowest year of 1934."

Investments Show Increase.

Figures were presented showing that earning assets of all commercial banks are now distributed as follows: Investment [largely government paper], 60 per cent; capital loans, 21 per cent; commercial loans, only 19 per cent. In 1925 investments accounted for 28 per cent; capital loans, 21 per cent; and commercial loans, 51 per cent.

"Probably there are two chief reasons for the declines in the absolute and relative volumes of commercial loans," says the commission. "The first is that during the long prosperity period before the depression great numbers of business enterprises were able to build up corporate surpluses and to replace bond issues by selling stock, so that they largely relieved themselves from dependence on the banks for financing their seasonal requirements.

Cites Federal Deficit Financing.

"The second reason for the failure of the volume of commercial loans to increase comparably with the advance in business recovery is to be found in the indirect effects of the long continued deficit financing of the federal government.

"As the administration has floated bond issues and expended the proceeds, the money resulting from them has flowed rapidly through business channels and found lodgment in the banks in the form of demand deposits. The banks now hold great quantities of the federal securities and these account for the huge increases in the figures of bank investments.

"Two general conclusions seem justified. The first is that it appears probable that for a long time to come the proportion of the earning assets of commercial banks that will normally be invested in securities rather than in loans will continue to be much higher than before the depression.

"The second conclusion is that while the volume of commercial loans will surely increase as business recovery advances, it seems unlikely that our banks as a whole will soon be able to return to their old practice of having about one-half of their earning assets in commercial loans."

The commission is headed by Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, and includes James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, of Chicago;

Independents to Fight Eccles 'Plot' for Branch Banking

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—Warfare between anti-branch banking interests and New Deal forces headed by Marriner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve board, and A. P. Giannini chairman of the bank of America, is expected to burst wide open here Thursday morning when the "independents" are to hold a massmeeting in the St. Francis hotel to protest against an alleged "plot" to foist branch banking on the country.

M. S. ECCLES. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The meeting has been called by Paul Rudolph, head of the Independent Bankers' Association of California, in collaboration with Charles F. Zimmerman, president of the First National Bank of Huntingdon, Pa., and secretary of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association.

The anti-branch banking forces have been lying low during the scheduled deliberations of the American Bankers' association in order not to destroy the harmonious appearance of the annual convention. After the election and instalation of officers for the coming year they expect to start the fireworks.

Charge Plot Under Way Two Years.

According to spokesmen for the independents, Eccles, whose chain of banks dominates the Rocky mountain region, and Giannini, whose 447 branches blanket the state of California, have been conniving for more than two years to slip over a bill in congress destroying "states' rights" in banking by permitting branch banking over state lines in industrial areas. Federal statutes now permit branch banking within state lines and only in states which do not prohibit state banks having branches.

Part of the plot, according to the independents, has been a series of political moves within the American Bankers' association aimed at getting control of the top jobs in the A. B. A. in order to swing the influence of the A. B. A management in support of the proposed legislation. These moves have so far failed, they say, because of their strenuous opposition.

Eccles Plan Defeated.

The independents assert that Eccles tried to get support of the A. B. A. for inclusion in the banking act of 1935 of a branch banking provision, but that Eccles failed and compromised by getting assurance from Rudolf Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank of New Orleans and then president of the A. B. A., that the management of the association would elect E. H. Bennett, associate of Eccles, to the key position of the A. B. A. to insure his becoming president in 1937.

Hecht at the 1935 convention did attempt to put Bennett over. He failed because of the strenuous opposition of the independents who broke tradition by rejecting Bennett, the choice of the nominating committee, and electing Orval Adams, outspoken Utah banker and competitor of the Eccles interests in the west who has attracted nation-wide attention as a result of his scathing criticism of New Deal spending and borrowing.

Leaves Before Convention.

Eccles, who was in San Francisco last week and who left before the delegates arrived, is suspected by the independents of having been here to lay some more groundwork for branch banking in collaboration with Giannini.

Adams, it was learned today, has been approached by Hecht with the idea of softening his stand against the powers that be, but Adams let it be known that he would have no part of any deal to strew roses in the path of the branch banking enthusiasts.

So great is Adams' popularity that he is expected to have no difficulty in obtaining the boost from second to first vice president, which would put him in line for the presidency in 1937.

The independents, however, are anxious to blow the lid off all this alleged intrigue and are looking forward with zest to the meeting Thursday.

Among the most active workers in the anti-branch banking cause have been members of the Indiana Bankers' association. Giannini several weeks ago indorsed the candidacy of President Roosevelt for reëlection.

HIBBARD VOTES EXTRA; REPUBLIC STEEL TO CLEAR UP ARREARS

Directors of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. yesterday declared an extra dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock in addition to three regular monthly dividends of 10 cents each.

The extra is payable Oct. 30 to stock of record Oct. 23. The monthly payments are to be made on Oct. 30, Nov. 27, and Dec. 24 to stock of record Oct. 23, Nov. 20, and Dec. 17, respectively. The company had previously declared an extra of the same amount to be paid on Sept. 25.

A dividend of $4.50 a share was voted on the 6 per cent cumulative convertible prior preference stock by the Republic Steel corporation, clearing up accumulations on the issue.

An extra dividend of $2 was declared by Anheuser-Busch, Inc. American Thermos Bottle company declared an additional disbursement of $1 on class A common, North American Rayon corporation voted extras of 25 cents each on A and B stocks, Creamery Package Manufacturing company declared an additional payment of 10 cents a share, Supervised Shares, Inc., voted a special of 37 cents, and Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company declared an extra of 10 cents.

Keystone Steel and Wire company voted a dividend of 50 cents on capital stock, similar to the amount paid Aug. 1, which was the first dividend since a 4 for 1 stock splitup.

Gotham Silk Hosiery company approved payment of a $1 dividend to apply on arrears and a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred stock.

INDUSTRY ADDS 166,000 WORKERS DURING AUGUST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A general gain in factory employment, plus a small net increase in nonmanufacturing industries, sent 166,000 persons back to private employment in August and increased weekly pay rolls in the industries studied by about $7,300,000, Secretary Perkins announced today. Factory employment in August reached the highest level for any month since September, 1930.

A comparison of aggregate employment in the combined manufacturing and nonmanufacturing groups, the statement said, showed an increase of approximately 960,000 workers between August, 1935, and August, this year. Weekly wage disbursements were more than $41,500,000 greater in August, 1936, than in the corresponding month last year, Miss Perkins said.

The increase of about 2.2 per cent in factory employment from July brought the bureau's index to 88.7, the highest level since September, 1930. The 4.1 per cent increase in pay roll totals brought that index to 81.

New Waukegan National Bank Will Open Saturday

The new Citizens' National Bank of Waukegan will open for business on Saturday, Sept. 26, Earl A. Amsler, president, announced last night.

STANDARD OIL LOWERS 'NORMAL' GASOLINE PRICES

"Normal" tank wagon and dealer prices on all grades of motor gasoline will be reduced three-tenths cent per gallon, effective on Friday, in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Iowa, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced yesterday.

The "normal" charge is the price which the company feels it should get for its product in order to make a fair profit. It varies in different localities as a result of distance from refinery, freight rates, etc. The reductions are being made to meet competitive conditions, the company said.

Consumers Co. Hearing Continued to Oct. 8

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued until Oct. 8, a hearing on the reorganization plan for the Consumers company. Attorneys asked additional time to draw up a decree of conformation. Approval of the plan has been given by the statutory number of security holders and creditors to make it effective under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act.

POUND HITS HIGHEST LEVEL SINCE 1934 AS GOLD FLEES HOLLAND

The British pound rose yesterday to the highest level since the United States devalued the dollar early in 1934 as Dutch capital, heretofore ignoring the latest attack on the gold standard, began to seek refuge elsewhere—principally in England.

The pound jumped ⅞ cent to close at $5.07⅛, its peak for recent years. The guilder broke .18 cent to close at 67.69 cents and Swiss francs lost .01 cent at 32.58 cents.

French francs weakened measurably both in the spot and future quotations as $12,000,000 additional in gold flowed from Paris to New York and London. Francs deliverable in 90 days were quoted at about 6.05 cents, compared with 6.20 cents Monday. Spot francs closed at 6.58¼ cents in New York, off .00⅛ cent.

Dealers reported that the belief up to present in the gold bloc countries was that the current drive against the French franc, from within France and outside sources, was another move to scare the country off gold. They explained that yesterday's weakness in the guilder indicated a change of opinion abroad.

SPECIAL ISSUES LEAD ADVANCE IN STOCK PRICES

Old Line Favorites Are Ignored.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Irregularly higher prices were paid for stocks today. Closing prices in the general list revealed gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. Sales for the session of 1,549,850 shares were slightly under volume of the preceding session.

In the first two hours the market was quiet and price movements irregular as light profit taking dribbled into the list. Later it became apparent that speculators, impressed by the performance of pivotal shares in advancing despite realizing pressure, were deserting the side lines and reentering the market as buyers. In late deals, however, stocks slipped below their best marks of the day.

Specialties Favored.

Special issues found the most favor at first, but buying soon spread to other groups. Motors exhibited strength and several of the rail equipments scored substantial gains. Old line favorites such as United States Steel and American Telephone were ignored.

Power company shares, favorites in early transactions yesterday, suffered a decline of popularity. Although Commonwealth and Southern again led the list in volume, no change in price took place. Average prices for the group registered a slight decline.

Chrysler attracted a strong following and annexed a gain of 1½ points. Auburn also received beneficial treatment, improving 1⅞ net. General Motors gained less than a point.

Pullman set a fast pace in railway equipments, traveling ahead for a gain in excess of 2 points and setting a new top for the year. Railway Signal was bid up two points to a new high of 51.

Carrier List Irregular.

Movements in the carrier section failed to develop uniformity, although the group as a whole showed slight improvement. Atchison lost more than a point, but Southern Pacific spurted to a new high.

Shares of retail companies lost ground and mail orders sagged a little. Phillips took honors in the oil sector with a rise of 2 points but elsewhere in the group prices fluctuated narrowly.

Westinghouse climbed a major fraction and Johns-Manville appreciated more than 2 points. Chemicals gained fractions to 3 points.

Individual strong spots in the list included Douglas Aircraft, up 2⅝; American Bank Note, up 1; Bulova Watch, up 1¾; International Paper preferred, up 1⅝; Zenith Radio, up 1⅜, and Hiram Walker, up 1¾. International Nickel reached another new high.

Steel issues moved moderately higher.

Butter Prices Drop Sharply on Large Foreign Offers

Domestic butter prices slumped sharply yesterday when 2,000,000 pounds of Siberian butter were offered for sale in New York at 18 cents per pound, plus duty.

Spot prices in New York and Chicago tumbled 1 to 1½ cents a pound and further weakness was confidently predicted by dealers. On the Chicago Mercantile exchange November butter futures suffered a loss of ⅜ cent per pound, closing at the day's lowest level of 32¼ cents. Sales of futures totaled 213 cars.

Cost to U. S. 32 Cents.

The latter price was only slightly above the cost of foreign butter to the American trade. With an import tarif of 14 cents a pound, yesterday's asking figure of 18 cents brought the total to 32 cents a pound.

The Siberian offering resulted in a downward revision in the price of Latvian and Polish butter from 19 cents to meet the 18 cent quotation for the Russian product.

Recent customs restrictions on importations of butter from Latvia under the provisions of the anti-dumping clause in the United States tarif act have been removed, according to a report by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Tarif Bond Required.

Recently American importers had been required to put up a bond to insure payment of additional duty in the event that it was determined by customs authorities that the butter was being sold to this country through the aid of a government subsidy. Efforts to determine the federal government's attitude toward Australian and New Zealand butter offerings were unsuccessful.

Egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange closed ⅜ cent lower, with October at 25⅛ cents per dozen; sales, 186 cars. Potatoes finished 4 to 5 cents lower, with October at $1.90 per 100 pounds; sales, 18 cars. Range of futures follows:

CHICAGO GRAIN PIT MAY TRADE IN COTTON SEED OIL

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday approved the report of a special committee which recommended the inauguration of a futures market for cotton seed oil on the exchange. This action follows a similar move to establish a futures market for soy beans, and points the way toward complete trading facilities for the two allied commodities to supplement the present trading mechanism for lard.

The committee, which was appointed more than a year ago, pointed out that cotton seed oil has attained a position of importance among commodity markets in the last ten or fifteen years. In 1935, receipts of all kinds of cotton seed oil on the Chicago market totaled 165,647,000 pounds and shipments were 43,367,000 pounds. Similar markets are in operation at New York, New Orleans, and Memphis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering today announced that income tax collections for the period from Sept. 1 to 21, 1936, amounted to $283,607,585, an increase of $57,255,184 over the comparable period of 1935.

Illinois was third among the states in amount paid, having poured a total of $22,221,857 into the federal treasury during the 21 days, compared with $17,668,399 last year. New York was first, paying $86,078,715, against $69,235,442 in the 1935 period, and Pennsylvania, second, with a total of $22,977,240, compared with $19,378,604.

CITY DEMANDS LOWER FIRE INSURANCE RATE ON ALL BUILDINGS

Acting upon orders of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes yesterday addressed a letter to Jay S. Glidden, manager of the Chicago Board of Underwriters, demanding that fire insurance rates now charged by stock companies be reduced 25 per cent on all classes of risks in the city. The underwriters have already announced a 5 per cent decrease, effective Oct. 1.

Hodes revealed that a reduction of 25 per cent has already been granted to owners of fireproof buildings, affecting approximately 3,000 of the best constructed buildings in the city, but having no application to the small home owner.

In his letter Hodes quoted statistics showing that the loss ratio for the last five years has been only 50 per cent of collected premiums as opposed to an ordinary loss ratio of 55 per cent. In 1935, according to Hodes' figures, the loss ratio dropped to 23 per cent, allowing an excess profit to the insurance companies of $11,000,000.

A. KAUL NAMED SUPERINTENDENT OF MANDEL BROS.

Alfred Kaul, superintendent of purchasing and maintenance of Mandel Brothers, has been named general superintendent, Leon Mandel, general manager, announced yesterday.

Kaul succeeds Ralph J. Brice, who has resigned to become general superintendent of Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia. Kaul has been with Mandel's for 17 years.

WHEAT RISES; REPORT JAPAN BUYING GRAIN

Futures Reach New Peak for Season.

Reports that Japan has entered the market as a buyer of liberal quantities of American and Canadian cash wheat on the Pacific coast furnished the incentive yesterday for a wave of speculative buying which carried wheat futures in Chicago and in Winnipeg up 2 cents from Monday's finish and into new high ground for the season.

An early decline, in sympathy with easiness in Liverpool wheat prices, was wiped out quickly when the buying movement started around midday. Closing trades were at the top. The September option on the Chicago Board of Trade closed at $1.16½, the highest level at this season since 1929. With the exception of Monday the current price level in Liverpool is the highest since June, 1930.

Corn Futures Are Higher.

Other grains were affected by the action of wheat, with the new crop deliveries of corn advancing fractionally while the September option lost 1⅝ cents. Oats gained a fraction and rye moved up a cent or more. Choice malting barley in the local sample market sold at $1.47 per bushel, the highest price since 1920.

Buying of wheat futures yesterday was based also, to a considerable extent, on a belief that the competition between the orient, the United Kingdom, and continental Europe for sup-

FEAR NEW DEAL WILL DISRUPT BANKING SYSTEM

Financiers Point to Vast Borrowing, Lending.

A. P. Giannini, chairman of California's Bank of America; Frank K. Houston, president of New York's Chemical Bank and Trust company, and Walter S. McLucas, president of the National Bank of Detroit.

Fears Federal Interference.

A similar note of anxiety was expressed by Lindsay Bradford, president of the City Bank Farmers Trust company of New York, who pointed out that bankers can no longer make decisions based on data on the supply and demand of credit because their conclusions may be "thrown completely awry due to a decision by those in authority [in Washington] who, for some reason of which we may be ignorant, may take actions which materially affect the money market."

Fred B. Brady, vice president of the Commerce Trust company, Kansas City, warned the delegates that the growth of idle bank deposits resulting from the government spending program may force banks into injudicious loans.

"Idle funds," he said, "are always the third degree for banks and yield a temptation to lower the investment standard."

Sees More Branch Banking.

Harry A. Bryant, president of the Parsons Commercial bank, Parsons, Kas., asserted that reduced earnings for small banks would result in the spread of branch banking.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank of Washington, D. C., and outgoing president of the association, strove to maintain the "nonpolitical" character of the convention by limiting his criticism of the administration to a warning against the steady growth of taxation.

"The total tax burden," he said, "increased about 33 per cent from 1925 to 1935. In the same ten year period the national income was diminished b[illegible] 31 per cent. Ten billion dollars in taxes is a very serious burden when it must be collected out of a national income of fifty-three billions. This was approximately the case in 1935.

Calls Taxes Concern of All.

"I do not believe this is a question which involves partisan politics but is of fundamental concern to all people regardless of what political party is in power."

Fleming read a letter from Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, who was to have given the principal address today, but suddenly left for the east on Sunday.

"While I have entirely recovered my health," says Jones, "I am still a little shaky on my pins. We can all take satisfaction as well as comfort and pride in the condition of the nation's banks. They are strong enough in capital and resources to properly mee[illegible] the credit demands of our great and growing country. Best wishes for a constructive meeting."

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easy today and spot prices declined another 5 points to 3.45c per lb under increased offerings.

Sales confirmed included 18,000 bags of Philippines for September arrival at 3.47c per lb, and 26,000 bags of Cubas for October shipment at 3.45c per lb. After a show of hesitation at the outset, futures broke sharply in old crop positions under increased liquidation in September in advance of last notice day tomorrow.

The spot month broke 16 points, while November eased off 7 points and new crops 3 to 6 points. There were partial recoveries near the close. Sales, 20,650 tons, of which nearly half was in September and November alone.

TAX LEGISLATION OF NEW DEAL IS TERMED UNSOUND

Montgomery Raps Huge Federal Spending.

The government as a partner in business is unwanted and undesirable, Col. Robert H. Montgomery of New York, senior partner of Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery, accounting firm, said yesterday at the thirty-first annual convention of the National Stationers association at the Palmer house.

The argument that government and business are partners and that there should be no objection to giving the government a fair share of the profits is only one of the ridiculous contentions prevalent today, Montgomery said. He declared the relationship between business and government is lopsided.

Some Partners Undesirable.

"Sometimes partners are highly undesirable and I have no hesitation in placing the government as a partner in this class," he asserted.

"We had a high excess profits tax during and after the war. That was when the statement was first made that the government merely was a partner and you did not have to pay unless you had profits with which to pay.

"There were no adequate provisions in the old excess profits tax law nor are there any in the present undistributed profits tax law for the reserves which must be provided if a business expects to carry on.

"The government takes its so-called share of the profits in cash and forces its so-called partner to take the bricks and mortar. If there is a loss the following year the government partner bears no share of it."

Calls New Tax Law Unsound.

Montgomery charged that the present tax law is unsound and that continuation of the New Deal will make it necessary for business men to consider the possibility of making many changes in their businesses.

"The President courageously or boastfully, depending on whether we are New Dealers or not, has stated that there must be a redistribution of wealth," the speaker continued. "And yet the army of nearly a million federal employés must continue to be supported in the luxury and air conditioned premises to which it is accustomed.

"The total federal debt of 34 billions must eventually be paid by the taxpayer, or at some time in the future it will have to be defaulted or else wiped out by the inflation of the currency."

STREAMLINERS WIN PRAISE OF JONES, RFC HEAD

Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, stepped off the streamliner City of San Francisco, at the North Western station yesterday morning enthusiastic after his trip here from San Francisco about the possibilities of this type of train for bringing business back to the railroads.

The RFC chairman, who departed early in the afternoon for Washington via the Baltimore & Ohio, explained he left San Francisco hurriedly on Sunday without making his scheduled address to the American Bankers association because he was physically unable following a severe attack of influenza.

Jones was met at the station by Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, in which the RFC has a large stake through ownership of more than $40,000,000 of preferred stock.

Trading Hours Altered in Mercantile Exchange

Effective Sept. 28, trading in futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange will start at 10 a. m. and close at 1 p. m., eastern standard time, Lloyd S. Tennly, business manager, announced yesterday. The exchange's spot butter and egg market will operate from 9:30 a. m. to 10:15 a. m. Present trading in fuutres starts at 9:15 a. m. and closes at noon.

Continental Bank Stock Rises in Active Trading

Local bank stock dealers yesterday reported a large turnover in Continental Illinois bank stock, which rose $2 in bids to $150 and $1 in the price asked to $151. First National stock was up $1 a share at $288 bid, $292 asked.

CHICAGO FIRM DENIES BUYING RFC'S STOCK IN MIDDLE WEST CO.

Reports in La Salle street that the Reconstruction Finance corporation has closed a deal to sell its 173,995 shares of stock in the Middle West corporation to Field, Glore & Co. and A. G. Becker & Co. were denied yesterday by Charles F. Glore, partner of Field-Glore.

Glore declined to comment on what, if any, negotiations have been made. It has been known for some time, however, that the two Chicago investment banking houses were interested in acquiring the RFC block of stock, representing a 5.3 per cent interest in Middle West.

It was definitly learned that the Chicago corporation will not participate in the deal, if it is closed. This corporation purchased 60 per cent of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company's 475,046 shares of Middle West recently, when the Becker concern took the other 40 per cent, and considers its investment is sufficiently large.

It is understood, on good authority, that the RFC has placed no price on the Middle West stock it holds. In the absence of Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, officials in Washington have denied knowledge of any negotiations for sale of the stock.

GAIN IN AUGUST PROFIT REPORTED BY N. & W. ROAD

Higher Costs Offset Rise in U. P. Gross.

Norfolk and Western railroad yesterday reported net income of $2,789,340 after all charges for August, compared with $2,232,853 in August, 1935. This brings the profit for the first eight months of this year to $19,497,477, or $13.42 a common share after all taxes and charges, including provision for surtax on undistributed income. Net income for the corresponding period a year ago amounted to $13,801,666, or $9.37 a common share.

The Union Pacific railroad reported gross earnings of $14,361,377 for August, the largest for the month since 1930, compared with $12,698,490 in August, 1935.

However, increased expenditures cut operating income from $2,502,166 in August last year to $2,481,578 for last month.

Despite this dip, operating income of $9,642,953 for the first eight months of 1936 was $2,221,419 ahead of the corresponding period a year ago.

Preliminary car loadings estimates for the week ended Sept. 19 place the total at 775,000 cars or about 10,000 above the previous 1936 peak of 764,860 cars for the week of Sept. 5.

COFFEE UNDER 4 CENTS, FIRST TIME SINCE 1903

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—One grade of coffee sold at 3.98 cents a pound today, the first time in thirty-three years the bean has changed hands below the 4 cent level, as an unusual technical situation arose in the coffee futures market.

On the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange, the "old A" contract for December delivery ended at the new low price. The "old A" is a contract in which trading will cease with the March, 1937, delivery.

Prices in general were easy. Santos opened 3 points higher to 2 points lower and closed 3 to 7 points lower. Sales were 12,000 bags. New No. 7 opened 2 points lower and closed 7 points to 9 points lower. Sales were 2,000 bags.

GROWTH OF BIG TRUST TOLD AT HEARING OF SEC

Brains, Not Money Built Firm, Says Head.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Not much money but a lot of brains built Incorporated Investors, Inc. of Boston from a $10,000 shoestring to an 82 million dollar investment trust, William A. Parker, president of the organization, declared today at a public hearing before the Securities and Exchange commis[illegible]

Parker testified at the SEC's [illegible] quiry into the operation of in[illegible] ment trusts. The ostensible r[illegible] for the investigation is to dete[illegible] legislation to be recommended t[illegible] next congress. Parker's boasting of his "brains" and those of his associates followed the statement of L. M. C. Smith, SEC attorney, that less than $10,000 had started the corporation in 1925.

No Money For Salesmen.

"We didn't have any outlay for salesmen in those days," explained Parker. "We were the chief cooks and bottle washers."

Attorney Smith drew out the fact that from 1925 through 1935 the public purchased 82 millions in shares of the trust, of which $5,700,000 represented the cost of selling the stock. During this period only $1,200,000 has been spent on management, including research.

"It costs money to sell securities," Parker commented. "But we expect the time will come when there won't have to be any selling effort."

The next witness was E. C. Leffler, stock salesman and one of the original promoters of the trust. He testified that he sold out and withdrew in 1929 with a settlement of $245,000.

Tells of Big Deal.

Back in the selling business again in 1932, he said he sold 195,000 shares of State Street corporation, another Boston trust, for a net profit of $110,000.

William Gardiner, chairman of Incorporated Investors and former Republican governor of Maine, was also called to the stand for brief testimony.

Confronted with figures that the net value of the trust per share had declined 10 per cent since 1925, Gardiner pointed out that since he had become associated with the trust in 1933 its portfolio of stocks had appreciated 50 to 60 per cent in value, although he disclaimed credit for the upturn.

Gardiner also declared he had seen extremely distressing cases of individuals who had selected their own stock for their portfolios and had encountered disaster during the depression.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The bond market today was featured by a substantial increase in the prices of secondary railroad obligations, while dealers reported that substantial blocks of these bonds were purchased for investment purposes. The improvement in the rails signalized strength in the general list, although United States governments were quiet.

Dealers explained the upturn in the secondary rails as being the result of growing belief on the part of buyers that recent reports of increased car loadings and higher revenues indicates a real improvement in the railroad position. It was said that for sometime past a considerable amount of the movement in second grade rails have been attributed to trading back and forth among the dealers, while today's activity was due to real buying.

Some Issues to Advance.

Among the issues to benefit from the upturn were those of the New York Central system, Illinois Central system, and the Southern Pacific, all of which roads have had substantial increases in their revenues.

Industrial bonds having convertible provisions also came in for attention today, advancing with the stock market list. Among obligations in this division to show better were Allis-Chalmers, American Type Founders, Youngstown, and Auburn.

Paper Issues Higher.

As a result of changes in the reorganization plan for the American Writing Paper company, which are designed to improve the position of the company's mortgages, gains were registered by the 6s and the certificates.

There was little action in the market for United States governments. Losses ranging upward to 3-16 point were in the majority, and such gains as were made were of a similar amount.

Foreign obligations generally were steady, although obligations of Poland declined sharply. Changes in the general foreign list were largely confined to small amounts.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Central and South West Utilities.

Investors' Guide: I should like information concerning Central & South West Utilities company. M. B.

Answer: Central & South West Utilities company, an important subholding company in the former "Insull" system, supplies utility services to a territory embracing a large portion of Texas and Oklahoma and parts of Louisiana, Arkansas, and Mississippi. About 80 per cent of revenues are obtained from sale of electricity.

The company has not covered dividend requirements since 1931. Operating revenues went from $33,370,000 in 1930 to $30,111,000 in 1931, $24,972,000 in 1932, $23,740,000 in 1933, $24,764,000 in 1934, and $24,692,000 in 1935. The record of net income since the [illegible] $5,922,000, or $1.43 per common share, in 1930 follows:

1931	$5,338,000	$25.12	$17.53	$ .43
1932	1,364,000	7.76	.82	d .24
1933	[illegible]	d 6.65	d13.12	d .79
1934	[illegible]	d 4.84	d11.37	d .74
1935	941,000	d 1.73	d 8.36	d .61

It is interesting to note that charges against gross earnings for depreciation now are slightly more than $3,000,000 annually, contrasted with $1,387,000 in 1931, the last full year of Insull control. One of the criticisms of Insull policies was that net income was made artificially larger by insufficient depreciation charges.

Substantial improvement occurred during the first six months of 1936, when operating revenues were $13,607,000 and net income was $651,000, equal to a loss of 8 cents a share on the common, compared with $11,731,000 revenue and net loss of $589,000 or 44 cents per common share in the first half of 1935. Prior lien dividends were earned 1.46 times and preferred dividends were 44% covered in the first half of 1936.

Capitalization consists of 117,400 shares of $7 dividend prior lien, 11,500 shares of $6 dividend prior lien, 133,150 shares of $7 dividend preferred, and 3,373,351 shares of $1 par common stock.

No dividends have been paid on the three preferred issues since Feb. 15, 1932.

The rise in prices of the preferred stocks during the last 18 months is generally attributed to improved earnings which lend encouragement to hope that some of arrears may be paid if the improvement continues or that a favorable plan of recapitalization can be worked out.

The prior lien preferred stocks rate ahead of the preferred and are somewhat less speculative. The common stock, a majority of which is owned by Middle West corporation, is far removed from any dividends and is extremely speculative.

UTILITY TO OFFER 2 LARGE ISSUES OF BONDS TODAY

Auto Equipment Concern to Sell Stock.

Offering will be made today of $21,300,000 of obligations of the Gulf States Utilities company by a banking group headed by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., and of 50,000 shares of common stock of Woodall Industries, Inc., by Paul H. Davis & Co. and Baker, Simonds & Co.

The Gulf States offering consists of $17,300,000 first mortgage and refunding bonds, series C, 4 per cent, due Oct. 1, 1966, and $4,000,000 ten year 4½ per cent debentures, due Oct. 1, 1946. The bonds are priced at 103 and the debentures at 102½. Proceeds will be used for refunding purposes.

Offered at $12 a Share.

The Woodall Industries stock, which is being offered at $12 a share, does not represent new financing. The company manufactures and distributes panels and panel boarding used in the interior finishing of automobiles.

In a move to effect a saving in fixed charges, Pacific Gas and Electric company of San Francisco yesterday filed a registration statement under the securities act of 1933 covering $35,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage bonds, series I, 3½ per cent, due June 1, 1966. No underwriting commitment has yet been made and the names of underwriters, underwriting discounts or commissions, and the price to the public are to be supplied by amendment.

Buffalo Sells Bonds.

Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday awarded two issues of bonds, aggregating $5,000,000, to a banking group headed by Edward B. Smith & Co., on a bid of 100.0299 for $2,500,000 of relief bonds, due 1937 to 1946, as 3.10s, and $2,500,000 of refunding bonds, due in 1937 to 1956, as 2½s. The successful bid gave to the city a net interest cost of 2.68 per cent.

The banking group reoffered the 3.10 per cent bonds at prices to yield from 0.60 to 2.65 per cent, according to maturity, and the 2½s, due 1937 to 1956, at prices to yield 0.60 for the 1937 maturity to a price of 96½, or a yield basis of about 2.728 per cent, for the 1956 maturities.

The Union Trust company of Pittsburgh was awarded a new issue of $1,000,000 of school district bonds of the city of Pittsburgh, Pa., on a bid of 101.2029 for 2¼s.

RAILROADS GAIN ON TRUCKS FOR LIVE STOCK HAUL

Substantial increases were shown in the live stock hauling business of both railroads and trucks last month, but the rails were far in the lead in the volume of increase, a department of agriculture report on business at the 69 public stock yards disclosed yesterday.

Railroads and trucks hauled more cattle and calves to market during August than in any previous month this year, showing good gains over the June and July business. However, of the total business trucks handled a smaller percentage than at any time this year. Trucks brought in 50.4 per cent of all cattle, as compared with 55.6 per cent in July, 60.9 per cent in June, and 61.2 per cent in May.

The proportion of hogs arriving by truck fell to 65.8 per cent last month, the smallest since March, against 67.3 per cent in July, and 70 per cent in May. Only 24.6 per cent of all sheep and lambs came over the truck route, compared with 29.2 per cent in July, and 38.5 per cent in June.

LARD FUTURES REDUCE EARLY LOSS; CLOSE LOWER

Liquidation by holders of lard contracts developed early yesterday, and prices declined sharply. Short covering, based on the strength in the grain markets, brought about a rally from the inside prices, with the close at net losses of 10 to 20 cents per hundredweight. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged. Cash lard was held at $11.20 per 100 pounds; loose, $10.85; leaf, $11.50; clear bellies, $13.25. Range of futures follows:

FIELD SEEDS

Wholesale dealers reported these prices for round lots of field seeds per 100 lbs delivered at Chicago. The price is determined by the quality of the seed. Poor lots bring less than quoted prices, and fancy sells at a premium.

WHEAT CLIMBS; JAPAN REPORTED BUYING HEAVILY

Future Prices Reach New Peak for Season.

plies of North American cash wheat will result in a further sharp upturn in prices. Confirmation was obtained of sales of 70,000 bushels of domestic white wheat on the Pacific coast for Monday, and reports were current that sales yesterday amounted to 140,000 bushels. No estimates were made as to the amount of Canadian wheat purchased yesterday.

September Delivery Prices.

Closing prices on the September delivery of leading grains at Chicago, with comparisons, follow:

	Yest.	Mon.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.16½	$1.14¾	$1.13⅛	$1.10⅞
Corn	1.09⅞	1.11¼	1.13⅓	1.12⅞
Oats	.42⅞	.42⅝	.41½	.43
Rye	.84⅛	.82¾	.83¼	.83¼

Holders of September corn contracts yesterday showed an increased disposition to sell and at times the price fluctuated ½ cent per bushel between trades. No. 1 white corn in the sample market sold at $1.20¼ per bushel, a decline of 10 cents per bushel compared with transactions last Saturday.

Foreign Corn Curbs Market.

Increasing arrivals of Argentine corn at Atlantic coast ports, and advices that demand for the domestic product is being restricted rapidly due to the lower priced foreign offerings, have resulted in a marked change in speculative sentiment as to the immediate trend of the market. Yesterday 77,000 bushels of Argentine corn was received at the Atlantic seaboard.

Broomhall, a leading European authority on the international movement of grain, estimated that there was 9,000,000 bushels of Argentine corn now afloat on the ocean destined to the United States, and 3,000,000 bushels more for Canada.

COTTON UP 4 TO 11 POINTS WITH STRENGTH IN GRAINS

Early losses in cotton prices were replaced with moderate advances in leading American markets yesterday, the principal stimulus for the rally being derived from the strength in grain prices.

Futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed 4 to 7 points higher, while other markets were up 4 to 11 points [a point equals 1-100 cent, or 5 cents per bale].

Spot cotton advanced 5 to 15 points, with New York and New Orleans at 12.25 cents per pound, and Houston and Galveston at 12.00. Rains were reported in numerous producing sections, but had little effect on sentiment. Range of futures follows:

U. S. AGENCY CUTS REQUIRED STOCK OF FARM 'CO-OP'

The federal Farm Credit administration has made further concessions to the Farmers' National Grain corporation under the refinancing agreement entered into last July, C. E. Huff, president of the coöperative, told stockholders at the annual meeting here yesterday.

Instead of the $3,000,000 of new capital which the original agreement stipulated should be raised by regional members of Farmers' National, the plan has been amended to call for a minimum of $2,000,000. The Farm Credit administration offered to lend the money to the regional coöperatives with which to subscribe for $3,000,000 of new stock. Several regionals, however, refused to enter into the agreement and only $1,900,000 of the $3,000,000 quota was sold.

May Pro-rate Remaining Stock.

Under the revised financing terms, Huff told the stockholders, only $100,000 more stock need be sold to meet the requirements. If no additional stockholder subscriptions are received the remaining amount needed will be pro-rated among the regionals which already have purchased shares.

The new stock which the regional coöperatives are subscribing for represents only a small part of the new money which the national coöperative obtains under the refinancing. Additional direct advances from the Farm Credit administration also were obtained and the corporation's old indebtedness of $14,000,000 to the government is wiped off the books.

The stockholders' meeting here yesterday was a closed gathering. A statement was issued after the meeting giving a summary of Huff's report to the stockholders.

Repayment Causes Dissension.

The method under which the regional coöperatives will pay back the government loans has threatened to upset the whole refinancing program. It provides for a "retain," or tax, ranging from ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel on all grain marketed through the coöperative to be applied on the government loans. Such a levy tends to penalize the coöperative organization in its competition with private grain firms.

Huff told the stockholders that the system of retains was a method "capitalizing the future."

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

If you have found a cat or dog, a pocketbook, jewelery, or fur, and cannot locate the owner through the "Lost and Found" advertisments in The Tribune, call and go through the "Lost and Found" index at the PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICE, 1 SOUTH DEARBORN-STREET.

TO LOSERS.

If you are listed in the telephone directory you can charge an advertisment of your lost article by telephoning Miss Miller of The Tribune ad taking department, Superior 0100. Your advertisment receives the benefit of free listing in the Tribune Public Service office mentioned above for a period of two months. This service facilitates the recovery of lost articles advertised.

Here is a most amazing money-making opportunity ever offered to the readers of this or any other newspaper. It is a remarkable new kind of elec. appliance business that will pay a steady net cash profit of from $50-$100 commission and bonus a week to any ambitious, level headed man who wants to succeed.

It is a business that offers unlimited opportunity. It doesn't matter what your former occupation may have been—we finance you and maintain offices for your success. There isn't any investment, and absolutely no experience is required to quickly become successful in this new business.

We insist that you be clean-cut, able to furnish good references, own an automobile, and be between the ages of 22 and 45.

See Mr. Daumit, at the Morison hotel, Parlor K, at 11 a. m., Wednesday, September 23.

INTERESTING SALES OPPORTUNITY.

If you are a capable salesman, like to call on and talk to merchants who can profitably use money-making electrical equipment, and are interested in making $6,000 or more in the next six months on a commission basis, call J. F. BROOKMAN, Wednesday, 9 to 4. Franklin 0700.

Would you be interested in starting a business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc. and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 in a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that offer no competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements: You must be between 24 and 54, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side and Southern Cook County.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview, and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Wednesday only between 1-3 p. m.

Ask for G. A. Buckley, Suite 400, Maryland Bldg., 841 E. 63d-street [1 block east of Cottage Grove].

NEW KIND OF WORK!

If you have some executive capacity, sales experience and an earnest desire to go with a larger organization where the opportunities are greater we will be glad to take your application for new and interesting registrar work. Several openings now with nationally known musical instrument manufacturing concern. High percentage. Age 25-40. References. Fine chance to advance. MR. DONOVAN, 8TH FLR., CABLE BLDG., 10 to 12 and 1 to 3, 57 East Jackson-blvd.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON

STATE OF NEW YORK.
SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF MONROE
In the Matter of the Application of CHARLES E HARRIS
For an Order Dissolving His Marriage with Rose Harris.
TO ROSE HARRIS:
PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that, pursuant to an order of Justice William F Love of the Supreme Court, dated the 14th day of August, 1936, and filed with the petition of Charles E Harris in the office of the Clerk of Monroe County, by which it appears that the said Charles E. Harris has exercised due diligence in making a search to discover whether or not you are living, and that no such evidence has been found, and that you have absented yourself for more than five years last past without being known to Charles E. Harris to be living during that time, and that said Charles E. Harris believes you dead, a hearing on said petition shall be held at Special Term of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, to be held at the Court House in the City of Rochester, Monroe County, New York, on the 7th day of October 1936 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, for an order dissolving the marriage between Charles E Harris and Rose Harris.

How You Can BORROW at HOUSEHOLD

No Salary Assignments.

REDUCED RATES

ON ALL LOANS ABOVE $100.

1. Whether or not you have furniture or a car you can borrow here if you can make regular monthly payments.
2. Payments on all loans are small. For example, payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
3. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
4. You can secure the money quickly—the same day if you apply before 9 o'clock.
5. Household's rate of 3% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on the part of the balance over $100 is substantially lower than the lawful maximum on all loans above $100.
6. Repay at any time and reduce the cost.
7. Private offices. Your problem will have our sympathetic attention.
